AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF LAW LIBRARIES ANNOUNCES
2015 HALL OF FAME AWARD INDUCTEES

CHICAGO, June 17, 2015 — The American Association of Law Libraries (AALL) officially released the names of its 2015 Hall of Fame Award inductees today.

This year’s inductees are:

- Ann T. Fessenden, former circuit librarian at the U.S. Court of Appeals Library in St. Louis, Missouri
- James S. Heller, law library director, professor of law, and professor of public policy at the College of William & Mary in Williamsburg, Virginia
- Phyllis C. Marion, associate dean for library and information resources and professor of law at California Western School of Law Library in San Diego, California
- Victoria K. Trotta, associate dean for the Sandra Day O’Connor College of Law at Arizona State University in Tempe, Arizona

The Hall of Fame Award was established in 2009 to recognize AALL members who have made significant, substantial, and long-standing contributions to the profession of legal information management — such as writing beneficial industry publications, serving in AALL leadership roles, working with outside organizations on behalf of the profession, or serving as an exceptional role model for other industry members.

Inductees have been AALL members for a minimum of 25 years and have contributed significant service to the profession in Association leadership positions.

“I joined AALL when I began my career in law librarianship in 1977,” Heller said. “It’s been a great career, and my involvement in AALL was rewarded by giving me a number of professional opportunities, as well as a lot of new colleagues and friends.”

“I am very honored to be named a 2015 AALL Hall of Fame Award winner,” Marion said. “Receiving the award is a career highlight.”

“I was so touched to hear that I am one of this year’s Hall of Fame Award recipients,” Trotta said. “Being recognized for my work within AALL and the industry as a whole truly means a lot to me.”

The Hall of Fame Award recipients will be recognized at AALL’s upcoming 108th AALL Annual Meeting & Conference, to be held in Philadelphia from July 18-21, 2015.
