KEITH ANN STIVERSON INSTALLED AS NEW PRESIDENT OF THE AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF LAW LIBRARIES

CHICAGO, August 17, 2015 — During its 108th Annual Meeting & Conference, held this year in Philadelphia, the American Association of Law Libraries (AALL) installed Keith Ann Stiverson as its new president. Stiverson, director of the law library and senior lecturer at IIT Chicago-Kent College of Law in Chicago, now serves as chair of AALL’s Executive Board and represents the Association nationally and internationally.

Stiverson has been an active AALL member for more than 25 years. Most recently, she served as vice-president elect and chaired the Executive Board Strategic Directions Committee, Nominations Committee, and Appointments Committee. Stiverson has also been active within her local AALL chapter — the Chicago Association of Law Libraries (CALL) — and the American Bar Association.

“None of us can predict the future, but we can combine our skills and talents to meet the challenges and opportunities that face us,” Stiverson said. “I believe that the sea change in the way society now consumes and uses information is to our benefit. Legal information professionals are essential — no one else has the unique training and advanced skills to research and analyze legal information as efficiently and effectively.”

Stiverson has taught legal information resources in the Graduate School of Library & Information Science at Dominican University in River Forest and has contributed to collective works, including the Fundamentals of Legal Research. Additionally, she has presented at many AALL Annual Meetings on information policy issues.

Stiverson holds a juris doctor from Georgetown University Law Center in Washington, D.C., a master of science in library science from Catholic University of America in Washington, D.C., and a bachelor of arts from Rio Grande College in Rio Grande, Ohio.
