2010 Spirit of Law Librarianship Recipient Announced

The Roy M. Mersky Spirit of Law Librarianship Award Committee is pleased to announce that Selden Selden, law librarian at the National Indian Law Library/Native American Rights Fund, is the 2010 recipient of the award. The committee thanks everyone who submitted nominations.

Selden is best known in the law library community for his work to make United States Tribal law, codes, and constitutions more accessible to the public, attorneys, and researchers. However, his public service passion is promoting efforts to increase environmental sustainability and reduce climate changing greenhouse gas and carbon emissions.

From 2006 to 2009, Selden initiated and coordinated a Colorado Adopt-A-Highway volunteer litter control program for National Indian Law Library (NILL) and Native American Rights Fund (NARF) employees on a two-mile stretch of highway in the Boulder area. This project increased NARF’s visibility in the community and modeled good stewardship of the environment.

Since 2004, Selden has served as the volunteer race director for the Colorado Indian Bar Association’s Red Rock Scramble, an annual run/walk event to raise funds for American Indian law student scholarships. In this capacity, Selden planned and directed the 2008 event as the first officially certified Race without a Trace in Colorado. This event was both zero waste and carbon neutral and included other sustainable features. Zero-waste and carbon neutral features continue to be a standard part of this popular annual event.

Selden became a volunteer eco auditor for a project in his home town of Lyons, Colorado, in 2007. This program trains community members as eco auditors in order to help other interested community members live more sustainable lives. Homeowners in the program learn how to measure and evaluate their energy use, consumption, and overall impact on the climate and environment, and are presented with solutions for a more sustainable lifestyle. To date, nearly 100 families have participated in this Green Heart Community Initiative.

Selden is a member of the Lyons Sustainability Advisory Council, which works to solve environmental problems on the local level. This organization empowers citizens and businesses in Lyons to become more sustainable and work with governments and other organizations to implement positive change. Selden’s concentration is on transportation issues and sustainable events.

Since Selden joined the council in 2008, the intergovernmental regional transportation service has added a popular 8:15 a.m. bus from Lyons to Boulder for morning commuters, and the Red Rock Scramble has become a model for other environmentally sustainable events held in Lyons.

In early 2010, Selden initiated and coordinated a Colorado Adopt-A-Highway volunteer litter control program for the Lyons Community Foundation (LCF) on a two-mile stretch of highway at the southeast entrance to Lyons. This project increases LCF’s visibility in the community and models good stewardship of the environment.

Selden has consistently integrated his concern for the environment with his professional life. He initiated and chaired the Native American Rights Fund Green Office Committee. From 2007 to 2009, his efforts resulted in a 21 percent annual carbon emissions reduction in the fund’s Boulder offices. Selden personally performs annual eco audits of the offices to create baseline energy consumption data for goal setting.

Three of Selden’s responses to Member to Member questions have appeared in AALL Spectrum:

Karaoke with Ken 2010

Come stretch your vocal cords at the 10th Anniversary of Karaoke with Ken sponsored by the Computing Services Special Interest Section (CS-SIS). This year’s event will be held Monday, July 12, beginning at 9:30 p.m. at Armida’s Restaurant, 840 Lincoln Street, Denver. All AALL attendees are welcome!

Meet in the lobby of the Hyatt Regency at 9:15 p.m. and share cabs to the restaurant. Armida’s has a $15 cover charge or two-drink minimum, so you might as well plan to loosen up while you’re there. Twitter hashtag is #karaokeken2010.

From a Small Group Outing to an AALL Tradition

At the 1997 AALL Annual Meeting in Baltimore, a small group of law librarians found a Karaoke bar and attempted a song or two. The outing continued informally until 2001 when CS-SIS officially sponsored the event for the first time, dubbing it Karaoke with Ken, for its enthusiastic leader Ken Hirsh.

Since its humble beginnings, the event has continued to grow in popularity. Last year’s outing to Cafe Japone in Washington, D.C., brought out more than 75 AALL attendees, many of whom were new singers. In addition to Ken, previous AALL singers have included Tori Trotta and George Pike, along with many others.

Don’t be intimidated if you don’t have a superstar voice. Karaoke singers range from the truly great to the truly awful and we have fun no matter who is singing. If you’re not a singer, that’s okay, too – just join us for the camaraderie.
See a Live Demo of AALL2go

This year all AALL Full and Program registrants will receive a complimentary set of 2010 educational program audio recordings as downloadable MP3 files, accessible through AALL2go. Lawberry Camp @ AALL 2010

There is absolutely no substitute for a genuine lack of preparation and that is exactly what it takes for an excellent un-conference! Jason Eiseman and Sarah Glassmeyer are the hosts for the 2010 Lawberry Camp. One of the first tasks for the meeting participants is to determine the content of the meeting. Chosen topics include copyright/creative commons; AALL programming and non-traditional forms of learning, technology/toolkits, broader issues such as budgets, teaching, and instruction; and current awareness—staff and faculty. Much of the day will be spent discussing the chosen subjects until later in the afternoon when it gets even looser! There are “ignite” style presentations called “lightning talks,” which are only 10 minutes long and allow presenters to discuss whatever subjects they choose related to libraries and librarianship. After the “lightning talks,” the floor opens to “battle decks.” Battle decks sounds like trouble but they seem to have the potential for a terrific learning experience and a lot of laughs as well. Participants in “battle decks” are provided with 10 slides from someone else. They are expected to extemporaneously expound on the slides as they relate to libraries. It sounds like a cross between comedy clubs and Toastmasters!

ability is the most important political issue of our time.

• Top three green tips for law librarians

• Making my dream library environmentally sustainable

Selden’s environmentally-focused column, tentatively titled “The Eco-Conscious Librarian,” will debut in the September 2010 issue of AALL Spectrum.

Selden reduced his travel-related carbon footprint by carpooling in his hybrid vehicle with a colleague to the 2008 AALL annual meeting in Portland, Oregon, as well as to the 2009 WestPac Annual Meeting in Bozeman, Montana. The carbon footprint reduction was about 75 percent as compared to flying to these conferences.

In March 2009, Selden presented a well-attended and well-received program addressing how law and special libraries can become more environmentally sustainable. Colorado Association of Law Libraries and Rocky Mountain Special Libraries Association members attended and several participants asked to use his slides to make similar presentations in their workplaces.

Selden was named a Special Libraries Association (SLA) “Knowledge to Go Green” Champion in February 2009. This award recognizes individuals who apply “green” principles and make changes to the way they perform their work on a day to day basis.

In January 2010, Selden received a partial scholarship to attend the University of Colorado’s Sustainability Management Certificate program.

As these many and varied examples illustrate, Selden is an excellent advocate for environmental sustainability and carbon reduction issues. As he wrote in his Sustainability Management Certificate scholarship application:

“While the problems of sustainability and climate change are immense and complicated, each person or organization that I interact with can have a direct beneficial impact on this problem.”

The Award Committee members are: Richard Leiter, director and professor at the University of Nebraska College of Law Schmid Law Library; Terry Martin, interim director, University of Texas School of Law Tarlton Law Library; Richard J. Spinelli, senior vice president, William S. Hein Co., Inc., and Donna M. Tuke, editor and publisher, Alert Publications.

Wolters Kluwer Law & Business proudly introduces IntelliConnect version 2.1, the newly-enhanced online research tool.

In 2009, our forward-thinking approach enabled us to become the first to launch a global search capabilities platform – providing a more efficient way to locate legal and tax content across multiple sources. Designed as a living platform, we are able to refine IntelliConnect as needed, adding functionality that is both user-driven and technologically-enhanced.

As a direct result of customer feedback, our new 2.1 enhancements include:

- Centralized Home page with single-click links for browsing content and selecting the scope of your search
- ‘Relate’ link allowing targeted selection of related documents
- Title A-Z listing for quick display of subscription titles
- Faster Practice Area selection
- Larger/Adjustable fonts
- Ability to select and print text
- Streamlined way to save favorites

Learn how IntelliConnect can facilitate your workflow process by visiting Wolters Kluwer Law & Business at booth 805-905 for a demonstration. It will change the way you look at online research.

IMS Legal Research Case Study: Vendor Negotiations

Since its inception, the IMS Legal Research division has helped law firm clients by using a holistic approach across an array of legal research facets: renegotiating online contracts, assessing cost recovery methods and processes, reviewing and organizing print materials and helping firms monitor usage (just to name a few). The IMS process and analysis methods have supported our clients in reducing spend, increasing efficiency, eliminating redundancies and increasing cost recovery.

For one well-known multinational law firm in the Northeast, our process proved very successful. As a result of increased spending and frustration, the law firm management team requested IMS LR to review their current legal research vendor contract offerings. Their goal of the engagement was to capture greater savings and guidance in their choosing the best long-term online vendor to support the user’s long-term research needs and preferences.

Solution

To fully identify the cost savings the firm could realize, the IMS team facilitated a detailed discovery of the firm’s legal research environment. As a result of the LR team’s review, the law firm was able to uncover an unexpected solution to their legal research situation, which was to pursue a consolidation of services.

IMS orchestrated a full RFP process to pick the best of breed vendor. The LR team provided an executive summary of how to support firm management, users and practice leaders through the vendor consolidation. To ensure the transition would be seamless and painless for users and clients, the team then facilitated the necessary training for the firm to have the least amount of overall negative impact.

Results

IMS recommended a consolidation of two vendors. This solution eliminated redundancy and overlaps in content and achieved significant savings.

Overall, the firm achieved a 60 percent savings exceeding $2MM per year.

The new Health Care Reform legislation is complex and dramatically amends myriad existing laws. Consequently, understanding how and where the pieces of Health Care Reform fit can be very time-consuming. However, under Bernan’s partnership with Legal Content, Inc. this work has already been done.

The result is the release of four new law compilations, under Health Care Reform:

1. PUBLIC HEALTH SERVICES ACT
   Includes amendments made by the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act and the Health Care and Education Reconciliation Act of 2010. Unique “double text” clearly designates amendments effective as of the date of the enactment, as well those that become effective up through 2019.

Two-Volume Set, approx. 1,900 pages, $135/set

2. FEDERAL FOOD, DRUG, AND COSMETIC ACT
   Includes complete integration of amendments made by the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act

Please visit the LexisNexis booth # 526 in the exhibition and request to speak with a Law School Publishing Representative to learn more details. Two one-hour MAP presentations will also be held at 10 A.M. and 11 A.M., Monday, July 12, in room 602 at the Convention Center. If you have not already responded to an earlier invitation, please contact Manager of Sales Alan Diehlmann to find out if space is still available at one of the sessions.

The New, Essential MAP for Law School Libraries

The LexisNexis® Law School Publishing Group is proud to have the opportunity to announce our Multi-year Agreement for Print (MAP). The LexisNexis MAP is a three-year offline/print subscription plan designed to offer law school libraries significant cost savings.

[Predictability: Our goal for the MAP is to be able to assist in the efforts of law school libraries to stabilize LexisNexis® subscription holdings, predict pricing, facilitate budget planning and, most importantly, cap the annual subscription increases at 3 percent (instead of an average 7 – 8 percent annual increase).]

[Affordability: With the MAP we are able to offer your law school library compounded savings year-after-year. The compounded savings are possible because once a library locks into a current subscription rate, each year’s increase in service subscriptions is capped at 3 percent. Law school libraries signed on to a MAP also will benefit from a 5 percent discount on all non-service titles and standing orders, the library must maintain at least 90 percent of the previous year’s annual offline/print spend. All libraries taking advantage of the MAP also are required to confirm all service subscriptions and sign a three-year LexisNexis MAP agreement.

MAP your law school library’s LexisNexis subscriptions today! To remain eligible each year for the preferred customer rate of 3 percent capped increase in service subscriptions and a 5 percent discount on all non-service titles and standing orders, the library must maintain at least 90 percent of the previous year’s annual offline/print spend. All libraries taking advantage of the MAP also are required to confirm all service subscriptions and sign a three-year LexisNexis MAP agreement.

Please visit the LexisNexis booth # 526 in the exhibition and request to speak with a Law School Publishing Representative to learn more details. Two one-hour MAP presentations will also be held at 10 A.M. and 11 A.M., Monday, July 12, in room 602 at the Convention Center. Enhancements to BNA’s Law School Program

BNA is pleased to announce several major enhancements to our Law School Program.

One of the most exciting upgrades to our online publications is the “Search My BNA” feature. Now law students will find an icon on the home page of BNA publications that will allow them to search all of their law school’s BNA publications simultaneously. Students don’t need to know BNA titles, or even legal subject areas, to find BNA articles that will deepen their research and answer their questions. This feature will help students navigate secondary sources more quickly and easily.

BNA has made another important enhancement, in order to provide our subscribers with the most up-to-date news. Many of our former weekly reports are now published on a daily basis, with special updates as breaking news develops.

In addition, BNA has improved its e-mail alerts to include story leads along with headlines. We have also made several enhancements to our Tax & Accounting Center.

For more information about the many enhancements to BNA’s law school program, contact your BNA Law School Account Managers John Baldwin at 800-542-1113, ext. 8008, or Eric Knustrom at 800-542-1113, ext. 8456, or BNA’s Regional Manager for Law Schools, Leslie Monsees, at 800-542-1113, ext. 3438. Help Your Litigation Team Simplify Early Case Assessment

You and your attorneys know the pain points during case assessment. Traditional techniques take too much time. It can be cumbersome to find—and to analyze—judgment and awards information. Information on settlements is critical—about 90 percent of cases settle—but it can be very difficult to uncover. Time gets wasted locating and summarizing information and reporting back to the client.

LexisNexis® Verdict & Settlement Analyzer presents critical verdict and settlement data in an organized, easy-to-analyze output to help you and your attorneys:

- Assess case risk—gain insight into success factors
- Analyze and refine case strategy—avoid costly mistakes
- Respond proactively to client concerns—minimize litigation risk and cost
- Better represent clients—optimize litigation outcomes

Results appear in interactive charts and graphs that provide information about similar cases and how they were resolved. Click any graph to view in greater detail in the pane below the menu.

At A Glance—shows thumbnails of all available charts and graphs and a cite list of underlying verdict reports surfaced by your search—provides a virtual road map

Coming to you via an enhanced lexis.com® interface

LexisNexis is committed to collaborating with you on product development. We’ve been listening to your legal research needs and are making product improvements to reflect what you want from your research today. The latest lexis.com® enhancements are part of our continuing effort to make the service even easier to use and provide a better return on your organization’s legal research investment. With less clicks, more content, and better value—we’re committed to meet your needs.

The enhancements to lexis.com bring a refreshed, streamlined design, but the appeal of the new interface goes deeper than just the “look.” These enhancements will make lexis.com easier to use, offer all the features you’re used to, and let you get to the right sources with fewer clicks. And there’s more critical information available, along with customized pages that have everything you need on one screen. You’ll get to the information you need more quickly, get more comprehensive results, and make more effective use of your subscription. Some of the highlights:

• Fewer tabs for a cleaner, more modern look
• Common research activities located in a more accessible place at the top of the screen
• Lexis® Web integration for more comprehensive results
• More sources visible, including the ones most relevant to your practice area or jurisdiction
• New drop-down lists for faster, more intuitive navigation
• And more

And you won’t have to change a thing! Basic features and functions will stay the same, so no system upgrades or modifications will be necessary. And any preferences you’ve set up will carry over to the new interface automatically—no effort on your part to re-create them!

These enhancements are coming later this year. But you can get an advance look now! Please visit LexisNexis® representatives at booth #526 for a preview.
