Welcome to the 97th Annual Meeting and Conference of the American Association of Law Libraries. Today, not only do law librarians working in large academic institutions and metropolitan law firms regularly access foreign and international law, their colleagues in small communities and rural America also find they are responding to questions requiring access to foreign and international legal information. This meeting presents a wonderful venue to explore foreign and international law as well as issues concerning publication, access and preservation of foreign and international resources.

“Boston to Mumbai: The World of Legal Information” also suggests the evolving role of the legal information professional. Advances in technology and the ability to communicate instantaneously with others halfway around the globe have changed the world of legal jurisprudence, the practice of law, and the range and scope of publications required to meet the research needs of those working in an increasingly global society. Law librarians can no longer continue to operate within the limits of their own jurisdiction! We all must think more globally about our work and recognize the many ways entities, events and policies external to our libraries impact the world of legal information.

In addition to offering traditional educational programs, we are continuing the 30-minute sessions introduced at the Seattle Annual Meeting in 2003. These programs are designed to enhance individual working skills and talents crucial for continued success in our increasingly global future. While programs at this year’s Annual Meeting and Conference span geographical boundaries, many of these Wednesday afternoon “mini-sessions” bring the focus back to you, the legal information professional.

We hope you will find all of the educational programs stimulating, informative and energizing as we all prepare to meet the challenges of our global future.

Janis L. Johnston  Gail Warren
AALL President  Chair, Annual Meeting Program Committee
General Information

AALL Activities Area
Visit the AALL Activities Area housed in the John B. Hynes Veterans Memorial Convention Center Exhibit Hall C. There you will find information on AALL Committees, Special Interest Sections and Chapters. The information provided will update you on the latest activities and future trends affecting all aspects of the Association. The AALL Activities Area will be open during Exhibit Hall hours. Plan to stop by for your dose of inspiration!

Americans with Disabilities Act
The American Association of Law Libraries complies with the provisions of the Americans with Disabilities Act as it applies to the segments of the Annual Meeting that are under the direction and control of the Association.

Wireless headsets and sign language interpreters will be available. Members with special needs are requested to notify AALL of their requirements in advance so that adequate preparations can be made. Sign language interpreters must be requested in advance. A limited number of manual wheelchairs are available on loan (a photocopy of a photo ID is required) from the first aid office located on the Plaza Level of the Hynes Convention Center. Motorized wheelchairs will need to be reserved in advance.

Annual Meeting Gala
Sheraton Boston Hotel – Grand Ballroom
Wednesday, July 14 6:00 p.m. – 12:00 a.m.
Toss the program schedules and come on down to the all-new Annual Meeting Gala. This is OUR time to PARTY! “Bon Voyage – Boston” offers something for everyone, from tempting treats to rooms to suit your every mood. Our tantalizing dinner menu will be followed by a truly tempting dessert buffet. Once you have dined on these delectable treats, trip the light fantastic with our top-notch band, The Flounders, with DJ Johnny Z; take 10 with smooth jazz from the Gabriel Guerrero Trio, or enjoy a quiet tête-à-tête by the foyer bar with friends who have traveled from Boston to Mumbai!
Table reservations for the Annual Meeting Gala may be arranged at the Hospitality Booth before noon on Tuesday, July 13.

Association Luncheon
Hynes Convention Center – Ballroom (BC)
Monday, July 12 12:00 p.m. – 1:40 p.m.
(Seating begins at 11:30 a.m.)
Please join AALL President Janis Johnston as she introduces our local guests and recognizes the achievements of the 2004 award winners. Keeping with the meeting’s theme, this important function will have an international flavor. This is your opportunity to honor your colleagues and experience some of the ethnic cuisine available in Boston.
Help AALL support the ReadBoston literacy program by contributing a children’s book appropriate for ages 5 to 8 (picture books and beginning chapter books) to your table’s centerpiece. The book theme is “Stories from Around the World.”

Audiotapes/CDs
CDs will be available for purchase at $11.00 per CD and audiotapes will be available to order at $10.00 per tape (plus shipping and handling). You can purchase recordings of individual programs or a complete set of all recorded programs at the Mobiltape Booth in the Hynes Convention Center.

Convention Center Access
The main entrance for AALL is through the Prudential Mall entrance (Plaza Level), adjacent to the Sheraton Boston Hotel. Access the convention center at level street using the Boylston Street entrance.

Daily Newspaper
Keep up with the latest developments by reading The Hub, the daily newspaper covering the 2004 Annual Meeting and Conference in Boston. Published Sunday through Wednesday, it will feature articles of interest to those attending the meeting, including program and meeting announcements, articles about featured speakers and helpful advice from selected librarians from around the country. Also featured will be articles about Boston and New England, including local activities and sites of interest, tourist attractions, cultural events and dining. All types of submissions are welcomed and should be delivered to the daily's office in the Hynes Convention Center, Room 305. Copy deadline is 1:30 p.m. for the next day's issue. If you have questions about The Hub, please visit Room 305 or contact Stephanie Burke or Michelle Pearse.

Educational Program Handout Materials
NEW THIS YEAR! The online Educational Program Handout Materials Collection has been available since mid-June for attendees to download at http://aall.omnibooksonline.com/2004. Now you can preview, print and bring only the materials for the programs you wish to attend. The Educational Program Handout Materials Book will no longer be included in your registration bag, but books are available in the registration check-in area of the Hynes Convention Center for printing these materials if you have not already done so. If you purchased a bound Educational Program Handout Materials Book when you pre-registered, you may pick it up at the Registration Desk when you check in.

Excursions/Tours
Tickets for tours may be picked up at the Best of Boston tours booth in the Hall C Foyer (Second Level) of the Hynes Convention Center. See page 12 for hours. All tours will depart from the Sheraton Boston Hotel at the Dalton Street entrance.

Exhibit Hall
The ribbon-cutting ceremony on Sunday, July 11, at 9:00 a.m. marks the opening of the Exhibit Hall with complimentary coffee and pastries. Come early and come often to view the products and services of more than 100 companies. A “no conflict time” will be in the programming each day in order to give you a chance to meet the Exhibitors and enter the daily drawings for a variety of exciting prizes including a laptop, a portable DVD player, and a digital camcorder — plus many more! Stroll through the AALL Committees, Special Interest Sections, Chapters and Caucuses. Plan to enjoy dessert with the vendors on Monday and Tuesday afternoon. The Exhibit Hall closes on Tuesday, July 13, at 3:00 p.m. Don’t miss the opportunity to visit this unique information marketplace at the AALL Convention Center. Exhibit Hall access is limited to persons 16 years and older. Persons under 16 years of age must be escorted by an adult.

Sunday, July 11 9:00 a.m. – 5:00 p.m.
Monday, July 12 9:00 a.m. – 12:00 p.m.
1:30 p.m. – 5:00 p.m.
Tuesday, July 13 9:00 a.m. – 3:00 p.m.

Boston to Mumbai: the World of Legal Information
Family Social Hour
Sheraton Boston Hotel, Republic Ballroom (AB)
Saturday, July 10 4:30 p.m. – 6:30 p.m.
Experience a carnival of fun at the Family Social Hour, where you and your kids will enjoy a professional magic show while snacking on cotton candy and popcorn. Your kids will delight at the prizes they win at the games, throwing beanbags and tossing coins! This is a time for parents to meet other parents and learn about Boston’s favorite family attractions from the “locals.” You might even win a free Boston City Pass.
Advance registration required.

Hospitality/Information
The Hospitality Booth is located in the Hall C Foyer (Second Level) of the Hynes Convention Center. Local information professionals will field inquiries on favorite places to eat, shop, sightsee or just enjoy the outdoors. Also, make your table reservations for the Annual Meeting Gala at the Hospitality Booth before 12:00 p.m. on Tuesday, July 13.

Library Tours
This year both bus and walking tours will be offered, with all tours beginning and ending at the Sheraton Boston Hotel. Bus tours will begin loading at the Sheraton at the Dalton Street entrance 15 minutes prior to departure, and will leave promptly at their designated times. Walking tours will require 15 to 30 minutes travel time each way and may include the use of public transportation. Registrants will be responsible for any public transportation costs. Attendee badges will be required for all tours.
Advance registration required. Confirmations have been e-mailed to all registrants.

Lost and Found
Turn in, inquire about or claim lost articles at the AALL Staff Office, located in the Hynes Convention Center, Room 200, for the duration of the conference. Direct all post-conference inquiries to the HCC Security Control Center at 617.954.2111.

Medical Assistance
A first-aid station is located on the Plaza Level just outside of Exhibit Hall A, and is staffed throughout the AALL Annual Meeting and Conference by an EMT/Registered Nurse (RN). In the event of a medical emergency at the Hynes Convention Center, please contact the Security Control Center immediately by dialing extension “2111” from any house phone. At the Sheraton Boston Hotel, dial “4315” on any in-house phone. Always be prepared to state your location and the nature of the illness or emergency.

Opening Event
Hynes Convention Center – Ballroom (ABC)
Sunday, July 11 8:30 p.m. – 10:00 p.m.
Sponsored by LexisNexis™
LexisNexis™ is proud to sponsor the 2004 Opening Event at the 97th Annual Meeting and Conference in Boston. We invite you to join us after dinner for a Dessert Extravaganza, showcasing an array of fabulous desserts. This festive event will be held at the Hynes Convention Center in the heart of Boston. Historic Boston, once known as the hub of the universe, is the ideal city to explore the world of global information. Celebrate with us as we kick off the 97th Annual Meeting and Conference, “Boston to Mumbai: the World of Legal Information,” with a delectable dessert gala that will delight your taste buds.
We look forward to seeing you in Boston!

The Placement Office will be open the following days and hours:
Saturday, July 10 12:00 p.m. – 5:00 p.m.
Sunday, July 11 9:00 a.m. – 5:00 p.m.
Monday, July 12 9:00 a.m. – 5:00 p.m.
Tuesday, July 13 9:00 a.m. – 5:00 p.m.
Wednesday, July 14 9:00 a.m. – 12:00 p.m.
Interview rooms will be available:
Sunday, July 11 7:00 a.m. – 5:00 p.m.
Monday, July 12 7:00 a.m. – 5:00 p.m.
Tuesday, July 13 7:00 a.m. – 5:00 p.m.
Wednesday, July 14 7:00 a.m. – 12:00 p.m.
The Placement Office will have information on file about positions and candidates seeking positions. The Placement Office also posts job listings on bulletin boards, provides a resume drop-off service and provides limited space for interviews.

Public Relations Showcase
Could your library use some new marketing ideas? Don’t miss the 12th Annual Public Relations Showcase, sponsored by the AALL Public Relations Committee. On display in the Activities Area of the Exhibit Hall will be brochures, publications, bookmarks, tool kits and other items created by librarians for successful public relations campaigns in all types of law libraries. At specified times, members of the Public Relations Committee and public relations leaders from selected libraries will be on hand to discuss effective public relations strategies, provide samples and answer questions. The schedule of librarians participating will be posted in the AALL Activities Area and will appear in the daily newspaper, The Hub. Come and be inspired by the PR skills of your colleagues.
Registration Policies

Payment: Registrations received without payment will be held until payment is received.

Cancellations: AALL reserves the right to cancel workshops, programs and events if there is insufficient registration or for any other reason. AALL is not responsible for cancellation charges assessed by airlines or travel agencies, or other losses incurred due to cancellation of workshops, programs and events.

Refunds: Cancellations faxed or postmarked before June 10, 2004, will receive a full refund. Cancellations faxed or postmarked June 10 through June 23, 2004, will be assessed a 30 percent cancellation fee. Cancellations faxed or postmarked June 24 – July 9, 2004, will receive a 50 percent refund. No cancellations will be accepted after July 9, 2004. All requests for refunds must be made in writing by letter or fax. Refunds will be issued after the conclusion of the meeting. This policy applies to all forms of payment.

Substitutions: Institutions that have remitted payment of the required fee are permitted to “substitute” a replacement attendee from the same institution in place of the original registrant at any time.

NEW! No Wait-List: All registrations will be processed in the order in which they are received with payment. Once a program or event is fully subscribed, registration will be closed for that program or event. WAIT-LISTS WILL NOT BE MAINTAINED! DO NOT PLAN ON ATTENDING A PROGRAM OR EVENT UNLESS YOU RECEIVE A CONFIRMATION NOTICE THAT WILL ADMIT YOU TO THE SESSION. This is a change from the former policy of maintaining a wait-list for over-subscribed events. If you choose to pay by credit card your card will be charged only for those sessions for which you receive a confirmed registration. If you make payment by check, your check will be deposited and a refund of the registration fee for the closed event will be mailed within six weeks after the end of the Annual Meeting.

Restaurant Booth

The Greater Boston Convention and Visitors Bureau will host a Restaurant Booth with detailed dining information and restaurant services.

See page 12 for hours.

Speaker Assistance

Speakers and Coordinators needing assistance should visit the Staff Office at the Hynes Convention Center, Room 200. The AALL Staff Office can be reached by dialing extension “3309” from any house phone.

Staff Office

The AALL Staff Office is located in the Hynes Convention Center Room 200. See page 12 for hours.

Taxis

Taxis can be hailed and are plentiful. Taxi stands are at the hotels.

Rules for the Conduct of AALL General Business Meetings

The Association will conduct two business meetings during the Boston Annual Meeting and Conference. The following rules, adopted by the Executive Board, will apply:
• All substantive motions, amendments to motions and amendments to the Bylaws must be submitted in triplicate to the Secretary of the Association before the Motion may be placed in discussion. A single copy will be acceptable only if the Motion must be drafted during a business meeting, when it is not practical to provide copies in triplicate.
• Voting members of the Association are required to wear their Annual Meeting badges to business meetings in order to be eligible to vote.
• Before speaking in debate or making a Motion, a member must use one of the microphones on the floor, address the chair and state his/her name and library affiliation and receive recognition.
• Attention is called to pertinent parts of the Association’s Bylaws.
• Article IV (Summarized) – Rights of voting shall be restricted to individual members, designated institutional members under institutional membership, student members and retired members.
• Article XII, Section 1 (Excerpted) – Proposed amendments shall be voted on during the Annual Meeting of the Association and shall be adopted upon approval by two-thirds of the members present and voting unless 5 percent or more of the Association members eligible to vote have signed a petition requesting a mail ballot. Such petitions must be submitted to the Secretary before the beginning of the business meeting at which the vote on amendments is to be called.

The Anarchist in the Library: The Future of Global Information Politics

Siva Vaidhyanathan, a cultural historian and media scholar, is the author of Copyrights and Copywrongs: The Rise of Intellectual Property and How It Threatens Creativity (New York University Press, 2001) and The Anarchist in the Library (Basic Books, 2004). Vaidhyanathan has written for many periodicals, including the Chronicle of Higher Education, the New York Times Magazine; MSNBC.com, salon.com, openDemocracy.net and the Nation. After five years as a professional journalist, Vaidhyanathan earned a Ph.D. in American Studies from the University of Texas at Austin. He has taught at Wesleyan University and the University of Wisconsin at Madison and is currently Director of the undergraduate program in Communication Studies in Culture and Communication at New York University. He lives in Greenwich Village, New York.

Dr. Vaidhyanathan will sign copies of his new book, The Anarchist in the Library, directly following his presentation.

International Privacy and Global Security

Marc Rotenberg is Executive Director of the Electronic Privacy Information Center (EPIC) in Washington, D.C. He teaches information privacy law at Georgetown University Law Center and has testified before Congress on many issues, including access to information, encryption policy, consumer protection, computer security and communications privacy. He has served on many national and international advisory panels including the expert panels on Cryptography Policy, and Computer Security for the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD) and the Legal Experts on Cyberspace Law for UNESCO. He chairs the ABA Committee on Privacy and Information Protection and is Secretary of the Public Interest Registry. He is editor of The Privacy Law Sourcebook: United States Law, International Law, and Recent Developments (EPIC 2003) and co-editor of Information Privacy Law (Aspen Publishing 2003). He is a graduate of Harvard College and Stanford Law School. He served as Counsel to Senator Patrick J. Leahy on the Senate Judiciary Committee after graduation from law school.

Michael Vatis is an attorney and a consultant on terrorism, intelligence, cyber security and homeland security issues. From 2001 to 2004, Vatis was the Executive Director of the Markle Task Force on National Security in the Information Age. Before that, he served as the first Director of the Institute for Information Infrastructure Protection (IIP), a consortium of leading cyber security research organizations. From 1998 to 2001, Vatis was the founding Director of the National Infrastructure Protection Center (NIPC), the first government organization responsible for detecting, warning of, and responding to cyber attacks. From 1994 to 1998, Vatis served as Associate Deputy Attorney General and Deputy Director of the Executive Office for National Security in the Department of Justice. From 1993 to 1994, he was Special Counsel at the Department of Defense. Vatis served as a law clerk for U.S. Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall and for then-Judge Ruth Bader Ginsburg on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit. Vatis is a Magna Cum Laude graduate of Princeton University and Harvard Law School.

Barbara Yuill is the Managing Editor of BNA’s Privacy & Security Law Report. Before she was named Managing Editor, she was the legal editor covering privacy and data and cyber security law since the publication’s launch in early 2002. For 10 years prior to that, she was a legal editor and reporter at the Washington-based BNA covering labor and employment law, tax law, health law, and employee benefits law for BNA publications including the Daily Report for Executives, U.S. Law Week, the Daily Labor Report, the Daily Tax Report, BNA’s Pension & Benefits Reporter, BNA’s Health Law Reporter, and Health Care Daily Report. She covered developments for BNA at federal agencies, in Congress, and before the U.S. Supreme Court, as well as reporting on state and federal court decisions and legal trends. Before coming to BNA, she was a speechwriter at the U.S. Senate and a reporter for the Associated Press. Yuill is a graduate of Tufts University and the Washington College of Law, American University. Her freelance work has appeared in numerous national publications.
A-1: Law Library Research Assistant Program: Institutional Jewel in the Crown

Level: Intermediate
90 minutes

Competency: Library Management

Target Audience: Library directors in academic law libraries, and public services librarians who teach or provide faculty services

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to assess the potential for expanded faculty service at their law school libraries, explain the benefits and services of a library-directed research assistant (RA) program for the library and the law school, and identify factors essential to the success of such a program.

2) Participants will learn how to design a library RA program that will support institutional objectives, select the best law student candidates and create an effective training program.

A law library research assistant program can enhance the library’s value and market librarian skills within the institution, while expanding the teaching role of librarians. In addition, students learn effective resource selection and search techniques in a supported employment setting, and gain recommendations from faculty. A library RA program promotes faculty recruitment and retention by providing skilled and accountable research assistants to law faculty. A law librarian will explain how to start and administer a library RA program. A professor and former associate dean and a practicing lawyer who worked as a law library research assistant will discuss how the program benefits them.

Linda Karr O’Connor, Coordinator and Speaker
UCLA School of Law, Hugh & Hazel Darling Law Library

Heather Stern, Cox, Castle & Nicholson LLP

Stephen C. Yeazell, UCLA School of Law

Level: Intermediate
90 Minutes

Competency: Information Technology

Target Audience: Law firm librarians and others who have undertaken “knowledge management” responsibilities

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to describe business processes that foster the sharing of information.

2) Participants will be able to list various software applications currently being used in the Knowledge Management (KM) segment of the legal industry.

Today, law librarians making decisions about KM face a bewildering array of choices, both in terms of effective management procedures and necessary software products. Because KM is so new to many law librarians, most available information on the topic is either hearsay or theoretical. The speakers will give practical, “real-life” examples of what procedures best foster information sharing and what types of software are available to meet legal institutions’ KM needs. Speakers will pay particular attention to document management, taxonomy and portal software applications.

A-3: Passport to the World of Legal Information: Foreign and International Legal Materials on the Web

Level: Intermediate
90 minutes

Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services

Target Audience: Any law librarian can benefit from this program, but the program will be especially useful for librarians in smaller law libraries that do not have a foreign and international collection. Because the session will focus on resources available on the Internet at little or no cost to the user, it will be very valuable for librarians whose libraries cannot afford expensive database subscriptions.

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to frame their foreign and international legal research questions and decide which Internet resource would be the most appropriate to conduct their research.

2) Participants will be able to access and navigate appropriate Web sites to find answers to their foreign and international legal questions.
A-4: Treaty-making—Really

Level: Intermediate 90 minutes

Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services

Target Audience: Librarians from all categories of libraries who in their daily work deal with foreign and international legal materials and seek to understand the workings of international relations

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to describe the treaty negotiating and drafting process conducted by the State Department, addressing related issues such as “fast-track” treaties and “MOUs.” Participants will also be able to get an “inside view” of the Senate’s role during the ratification process.
2) Participants will obtain a wider international scope by understanding the major differences in the treaty-making process in selected foreign jurisdictions.

A member of the Legal Adviser’s Office of the U.S. Department of State will discuss the treaty-making process from the vantage point of the current administration, and will describe how international treaties and agreements are negotiated with foreign powers, the drafting process and what role the department plays in the ratification process. The speaker will cover cooperation and conflict between the legislative and executive branches, the impact of changes in administrations on the treaty process and issues such as “fast track” treaties and “MOUs.” The Minority Counsel of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations will follow, sharing an insider’s view of the difficult and sensitive role the U.S. Senate plays in giving its consent to a proposed treaty. He will cover legal issues, politics and other dynamic factors shaping the ratification process. For comparative purposes, a senior staff member of the Law Library of Congress will give a comparative overview of the treaty-making practices in selected foreign jurisdictions of particular interest.

A-5: Let Me “Edutain” You: Game Shows and Other Unconventional Teaching Techniques in Legal Research Classrooms

Level: Intermediate 90 minutes

Competency: Teaching

Target Audience: Law librarians who teach basic or advanced legal research courses or conduct training sessions

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will list three pedagogical benefits of classroom humor and will analyze game show formats and other nontraditional techniques with regard to these pedagogical benefits.
2) Participants will adapt three creative instructional techniques for their classrooms, using various levels of technology.

In a satirical article, “If It Pleases the Class...”, in the Chronicle of Higher Education, professors Douglas and George stated, “We believe that junior professors... must make teaching entertaining if they are to survive these perilous times in the world of academe.” There are ways to engage students in the classroom that are interesting and entertaining. This program will explore various game show formats and other unconventional techniques that can be used in legal research classrooms. In addition, the speakers will offer practical tips on creating your own instructional tools. A short film of an actual research review using a game show format will be shown.

A-6: Understanding International Licensing Agreements: Copyright and Contract Law Mix It Up in the International Arena

Target Audience: Law librarians charged with reviewing and entering into licensing agreements for databases and digital content.

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will understand how domestic, international and foreign contract law interact with U.S. and foreign copyright law to affect international database licensing agreements with respect to formation, interpretation, enforceability, warranties and remedies.
2) Participants will become better enabled to make decisions with respect to entering into, interpreting, challenging and litigating the provisions of international licenses for databases and digital content.

An attorney will outline the issues presented by database licensing as affected by foreign and international contract law and by U.S. and foreign copyright law. A librarian will present the practical aspects of international licensing. The focus is not on negotiating licenses but on understanding what is unacceptable and when contractual terms may be unenforceable, the remedies for breach, and the various bodies of law that may affect formation and interpretation.

B-1: CreativeCommons.org: Publishing in the Digital Age

Competency: Information Technology

Target Audience: Librarians who deal with information providers and maintain the library's business relationships; publishers and information vendors who are responsible for library customer relations and/or product and systems development.

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to analyze specific publisher practices or publishing trends.
2) Participants will be able to identify and respond to specific trends that affect the business relationships between libraries and information vendors. New developments in legal publishing continue to dominate the library news in 2004, and with good reason. Every aspect of law librarianship is affected by changes in the format and delivery of legal information, and librarians identified numerous issues as "hot" topics. Therefore, the program will focus on the latest trends in the industry, from pricing to business practices to globalization.

B-3: What Else Do You Cut When You Are Already Cut to the Core of Technical Services?

Level: Intermediate 75 minutes

Competency: Library Management

Target Audience: Library managers from all types of libraries involved with the budget or the budgeting process

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to educate decision makers on the effects budget reductions will have on library services.
2) Participants will be able to formulate a plan to minimize the impact of reductions and lobby successfully for it.

Library budgets are being reduced and core services must be suspended or eliminated. Administrators are faced with making hard choices of “what” and/or “whom” to cut. Technical services is often targeted for reductions because of perceived limited direct effect on users. An informative dialogue/role play will be presented by a director and a head of technical services whose department has just suffered its second 10 percent budget cut. How do you make the 10 percent cut? Do you reduce cataloging quality, cut services, eliminate binding, buy less or reduce staff? This program will offer a range of ideas to cope and speculate about the ramifications of these decisions.

B-4: Salary Negotiation Skills for Law Librarians

Level: Introductory 75 minutes

Competency: Core Competencies for Law Librarianship

Target Audience: The membership as a whole

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to successfully navigate the process of salary negotiation.
2) Participants will be able to articulate the positive value that salary negotiation has to the field of law librarianship.

Approximately 75 percent of people never negotiate their salary. For women, the number is closer to 85 percent. Leigh Estabrook, former dean of the University of Illinois Graduate School of Library and Information Science, will discuss the complexities and dynamics of negotiating a compensation package and provide useful advice on successful negotiation. She argues that negotiation will not offend your potential boss or cause the offer to be rescinded, but rather, employers should be wary of potential employees who do not negotiate on their own behalf. Dr. Estabrook possesses 15 highly successful years’ experience working with individuals on salary negotiation.

B-5: Envisioning New Possibilities for Research Training and Collections for Foreign-Trained Lawyers and International LLM Students

Level: Intermediate 75 minutes

Competency: Teaching

Target Audience: Academic and private law librarians who teach and/or provide other services to foreign lawyers and international LLM students

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to plan legal research programs and develop collection management policies that address the needs and research interests of foreign lawyers in law schools and law firms.
2) Participants will identify techniques to enhance communication and interactions with lawyers from other countries.

More and more law schools and law firms are starting programs for foreign lawyers. These programs create special challenges for law schools and law firms due to differences relating to culture, English language proficiency, research interests, and technological skill. Law librarians need to consider these various factors when planning classes, services, and building collections. Speakers will discuss their experiences working with international LLM students and foreign lawyers and share approaches to providing these individuals with legal research instruction and meeting their legal research needs. One speaker will focus on strategies to enhance intercultural communication and interaction within the law school and legal communities.

B-6: Overseas Office Interaction: Global Management of International Branch Libraries

Level: Advanced  75 minutes

Competency: Library Management

Target Audience: Library directors and branch office library managers

Learning Outcomes:

1) Participants will be able to discuss and address obstacles to managing international, multilocation libraries.

2) Participants will be able to implement best practices for managing international, multilocation libraries.

Law firms are rapidly expanding well beyond the borders of the United States. Often when opening an office overseas, a law firm will hire a librarian who is quickly forgotten by colleagues back in the States. Additional barriers created by language, time zones, infrastructure, etc., exacerbate the difficulties of managing a large law library. This program will alert attendees to some pitfalls of managing international, multilocation libraries and teach attendees the best practices for avoiding them.

C-1: Business and Legal Research for Conflicts Searching

Level: Intermediate  60 minutes

Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services

Target Audience: Private law librarians who participate in or manage the conflicts searching function at their organizations

Learning Outcomes:

1) Participants will be able to compare and contrast various corporate family reference sources and measure their relative values when researching different conflict scenarios.

2) Participants will learn which sources provide the most comprehensive and up-to-date information on parent companies, subsidiaries, officers, directors, and other party variables.

The management of a conflicts of interest department has emerged as a major trend among private law librarians in both large and small law firms. This program will focus on specific strategies that librarians can use when researching potential conflicts of interest among parent and subsidiary companies and other complex entities.

C-2: The Virtual Federal Depository Library Program: A Reality for the 21st Century

Level: Intermediate  60 minutes

Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services

Target Audience: The roles and responsibilities of the Federal Depository Library and the Government Printing Office in the 21st century confront all law librarians as we witness the end of print publications and more government information becomes available only remotely through the Internet.

Learning Outcomes:

1) Participants will be able to measure the government’s effectiveness in ensuring the life cycle of electronic government information against the needs of the public in the digital environment.

2) Participants will evaluate agency roles and responsibilities for the virtual Federal Depository Library Program in light of the information policy initiatives at the Government Printing Office.

The future of the Federal Depository Library Program (FDLP) and the role of the Government Printing Office (GPO) in taking responsibility for the entire life-cycle of electronic government information in the 21st century are of great importance to law libraries. Under the leadership of Public Printer Bruce R. James, the GPO is being reorganized and reinvigorated as an agency at the cutting edge of the latest technologies. There is a new awareness of the critically important policy issues regarding electronic government information, including the current trend to move all government information to the Internet; the need for user-friendly and comprehensive finding tools; and the need to ensure the permanent public access, authenticity and preservation of electronic publications. Will Congress continue to fund the Federal Depository Library Program or eliminate tangible or dual-format titles from the program? Will agencies continue their roles, or reinvent themselves to reflect the new electronic environment? AALL is honored to welcome Public Printer Bruce R. James for a discussion of his vision and goals for the GPO and the FDLP for the 21st century.

C-3: OPAC Usability Assessment: Your Passport to an Effective Web Presence
Level: Intermediate 60 minutes

Competency: Information Technology
Target Audience: Librarians involved with the design and organization of their library’s OPAC public interface

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will identify the key elements of an effective OPAC Web interface using selected examples of law library OPACs.
2) Participants will be able to discuss the methods of OPAC usability testing and the relationship of usability assessment to enhanced user service.

Tired of the “out-of-the-box” look that came with your OPAC? Before booting up your favorite Web development software to jazz up your site, consider the effectiveness of various design elements first. Using actual OPAC examples, an experienced Web designer from Interactive Factory in Boston will show participants design elements to enhance user satisfaction. The speaker will also describe the methods and benefits of usability assessment.

C-4: Behind the Scenes: The Work of State Appellate Justices
Level: Introductory 60 minutes

Competency: Core Competencies for Law Librarianship
Target Audience: The program will have broad appeal to all members of our profession.

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will have a more sophisticated and nuanced understanding of appellate court opinions with the knowledge they will gain about how those opinions are created (e.g., compromises that go into the formulation of a majority on a court).
2) Participants will be better equipped to follow the path of cases through the appeals process.

Appellate cases are one of the most important forms of legal information. This program will explore the intricacies of how those opinions are created. Four state appellate court judges will answer questions from the moderator and audience concerning the operation of their courts and the work that an appellate court judge undertakes. Among the questions to be presented: How is opinion writing allocated among the judges on your court? What process does the opinion go through to get to a majority agreement? Does your court exercise any discretionary jurisdiction? If so, how do you decide which cases to hear? Do you “interpret” law or “make” law? To what sources do you turn to find the law? For example, would you ever cite a decision by the European Court of Human Rights? What is your most and least favorite part of the job? What happens when a justice writes opinions in verse (that would be Justice Eakin of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court)?

C-5: Globalization Moved My Cheese: Or, How Do I Find Foreign Law?
Level: Introductory 60 minutes

Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services
Target Audience: New and experienced reference librarians in all types of libraries

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to identify the sources most likely to contain answers to five common types of foreign law questions.
2) Participants will be able to develop a “plan of attack” for responding to most foreign law questions.

Boston to Mumbai: the World of Legal Information
Globalization expanded the universe of materials that library patrons need. Even experienced librarians who can find SEC regulations in their sleep may panic at questions like, “Do you have divorce laws for Indonesia?” This program provides “triage” for most common types of foreign law questions—family law, joint ventures, litigation, etc. The first speaker will present a broad picture of how much foreign law is available and introduce basic electronic and paper sources. The second speaker will take participants through several information searches. A Q&A session will follow. Participants will receive a workbook with sample searches, hints, model answers and a bibliography.

C-6: What in the World Do They Know?: Information Literacy and Today’s Law Students

Level: Intermediate 60 minutes

Competency: Teaching
Target Audience: Law librarians who teach legal research to students or train summer law clerks and/or associates

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will identify skills attributed to information literacy and will be able to assess whether law students possess these skills.
2) Participants will be able to create a survey instrument to measure the information literacy skills of students or law clerks, and will be able to use the survey results to improve legal research instruction and training.

Many incoming law students, who should have had prior research experience, do not have a foundational understanding of how to conduct research. Therefore, they are not only facing the challenge of learning legal research, but of any research. In a program formatted like “60 Minutes,” recipients of an Aspen/AALL grant will discuss their project, “Assessing Information Literacy Among First Year Students: A Survey to Measure Research Experiences and Perceptions.” The speakers will explain what information literacy skills are, discuss the creation and administration of the survey, share the survey results, provide tips for creating a similar survey, and offer guidance on integrating the survey results into legal research instruction programs and training.

D-1: Writing for Fame and Fortune: AALL/LexisNexis™ Call for Papers

60 Minutes

Competency: Core Competencies of Law Librarianship
Target Audience: Experienced law librarians, new members and students

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to describe the secrets of great writing by award-winning authors: tips on topic selection, idea development, the creative writing process and identifying appropriate venues for publication.
2) Participants will be able to identify stylistic approaches for their paper that will attract the attention of editors and lead to publication.

The Call for Papers promotes scholarship, provides an outlet for creativity and recognizes the scholarly efforts of established, new and potential members of AALL. The 2004 winners of the AALL LexisNexis™ Call for Papers Competition will discuss their award-winning papers and provide insights into their writing process. Open division members Mary Rumsey and April Schwartz will discuss their paper, “Paper vs. Electronic Sources for Law Review Cite-Checking: Should Paper Be the Gold Standard?” New member Roy Balleste will describe his paper, “Law Libraries 2.0: AI-Based Agents, Predictions, Decisions and Designs.” Student division winner Katherine Coolidge will discuss her paper, “Baseless Hysteria: The Controversy between the U.S. Department of Justice and the American Library Association Regarding the USA PATRIOT Act – September 2003.” Following the brief presentations by the winning authors, Frank Houdek, editor of Law Library Journal, will describe the criteria for accepting papers for publication and share tips with the audience on how to get started writing. All of the participants will then engage in a panel discussion, fielding questions related to the writing and publication process.

D-2: Crossing Borders: Teaching a Distance Education Research Course

Level: Intermediate  60 minutes

Competency: Teaching

Target Audience: The target audience will be any librarian interested in offering legal research instruction over the World Wide Web. It is assumed that participants will know research instruction methods and issues, as well as the basics of Web page development.

Learning Outcomes:
1. Participants will be able to describe the pedagogical and technological issues raised when creating an online course.
2. Participants will be able to list educational technologies that will meet the demands of the ABA's guidelines on distance education.

This program will describe the creation of an online immigration research distance education course at Boston College Law School during the fall of 2003. Pedagogical and technological issues encountered when moving from a lecture format to an online format will be reviewed, and suggestions for making the course interactive and student-centered will be offered. Finally, with audience members serving as students, educational technologies used in the course will be demonstrated.

Irene R. Good, Coordinator and Speaker

D-3: Negotiating with the Bizarre: Strange Questions at the Reference Desk

Level: Intermediate  60 minutes

Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services

Target Audience: This class is specifically directed toward law librarians who work with the public on a regular basis. This will not address how to conduct a basic reference interview. Rather, this program will discuss what happens when the basic reference interview uncovers very strange questions. We will also look at the difficulty of performing a reference interview with someone who is not sharing your reality.

Learning Outcomes:
1. Participants will learn how to handle strange questions from members of the public.
2. Participants will be able to list three types of strange patrons, how to distinguish mentally ill patrons from misguided patrons and ways to handle the patron appropriately.

Law libraries are natural magnets for people who feel they have been wronged, are being ignored or even stalked. Often their complaints are legitimate. Some people, though, have a mental illness or a warped view of reality, the legal system and how it can help them. Their strange and offbeat questions and requests can disconcert, frustrate and even intimidate law librarians. This program will discuss techniques on how to deal with weird questions and strange patrons, what services law librarians can and should provide to patrons with an alternate view of reality, and of course, recount some of the best and funniest experiences a law librarian can have out at the reference desk.

D-4: Creating and Maintaining Legal History Collections: Collections Development and Analysis Issues for the Law Librarian

Level: Intermediate  60 Minutes

Competency: Collection Care and Management

Target Audience: Law librarians responsible for supporting faculty research and classes in legal history

Learning Outcomes:
1. Participants will be able to assess what belongs in a legal history collection, as well as what formats and general resources are available.
2. Participants will be able to identify the basic issues confronting law librarians in developing their legal history collections and supporting their legal history curricula.

In the last decade, a growing need has developed to establish legal history collections and provide substantive research in historical sources of the law. This program will address issues and concerns related to the needs of law libraries supporting legal history research and curricula, including formulating collections development policies for legal history programs, funding, material availability (e.g., rare books, out-of-print dealers), format availability (e.g., original, facsimile, electronic), and the benefits and drawbacks of original vs. other formats (e.g., English Reports on CD-ROM, Old Bailey Proceedings on the Web, 19th Century Legal Treatises in microform).

Level: Intermediate
60 minutes

Competency: Library Management

Target Audience: Library personnel responsible for gathering/compiling information for the annual ABA questionnaire; the audience at the 2003 program on this subject requested an update at the 2004 AALL Annual Meeting.

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will learn and discuss the nuances of the ABA annual questionnaire with an ABA/law library liaison and a member of the AALL ALL-SIS Statistics Committee in order to develop a standard way of understanding and recording information requested in the survey.
2) Participants will be able to gain insight into the ABA’s rationale for the survey and offer the “library perspective” to the ABA liaison.

Annually, academic law libraries are required to complete and submit library statistics forms to the ABA. Issues addressed in professional listservs speak to the fact that there is some confusion when counting and compiling the information (e.g., interpretation of questions, counting aggregate databases, materials cost/formats, etc.). New items in the questionnaire concern Web-based resources, IT staff and wireless connectivity. Program speakers are among those responsible for compiling the information and completing the forms for their libraries; they will discuss these and related issues. Questions from the audience to generate discussion are highly encouraged.

D-6: Legal Information to the World: Marketing Library Research Services to Multinational Organizations Through Training Programs

Level: Introductory
60 minutes

Competency: Teaching

Target Audience: Librarians and other information professionals responsible for library services and legal research training to multinational or international law school programs, law firms and corporations, and other legal service organizations

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to devise public relations, marketing, and training materials and programs for foreign attorneys within their multinational organization or their organizations’ international practice groups.
2) Participants will be able to identify the educational and cultural differences and expectations of their multinational audience and create training programs taking these differences into account.

In response to a Europe without borders and Asian trade, law firms and corporations are merging and forming multinational organizations. These organizations face legal issues not only across time zones, but countries and continents. Librarians in law schools, firms and legal departments market services to attorneys from varied legal traditions, educational and cultural backgrounds, and language skills. In this program, law librarians for the U.S. office of a multinational firm and a boutique firm noted for its annual training program for Asian attorneys will discuss how they conduct library tours, orientations and training programs while taking these multinational differences, expectations and needs into account.

E-1: GovDocs on the Web: The University of Arizona—Government Printing Office Electronic Depository Library Pilot Project

Level: Intermediate  60 minutes

Competency: Collection Care and Management

Target Audience: All librarians, including those who use federal government documents and are involved with the Federal Depository Library Program

Learning Outcomes:

1) Participants will be able to identify both the challenges and successes with one library’s transition from a tangible (print, CD-ROM, microfiche) government documents collection to an electronic-only, Web-based collection.

2) Participants will be informed about significant issues with the increasing electronic-only Federal Depository Library Program.

From September 2002 through August 2003, the University of Arizona (UA) Library and the U.S. Government Printing Office partnered on the ground-breaking Electronic Depository Project, a pilot project to develop an online depository library. This project arose out of discussions at the October 2001 Depository Library Council meeting in Washington, D.C. At that time, about 60 percent of new depository items were being disseminated on the Internet, and libraries and meeting attendees were discussing the possibility of allowing established depository libraries to select only online items. The final report from the pilot project will be published in late 2003/early 2004. The UA Library project team will provide an overview of the project and highlight the conclusions and challenges—positive and negative—of this initiative.

E-2: Create Powerful Web Presentations Without an Internet Connection

Level: Intermediate  60 minutes

Competency: Information Technology

Target Audience: All

Learning Outcomes:

1) Participants will be able to create presentations that include all Web content including flash, scripts and dynamic effects.

2) Participants will learn to edit Web pages that are captured and to publish these files in an .mht format and save to a CD.

Using a live Internet connection in a presentation can be risky. Connections can be lost and download time can be slow. Using an “Internet agent” allows the presenter to grab single or multiple pages from the Internet and store them for off-line use. All links are maintained and presentations using an Internet agent mimic a live connection perfectly. The agents also allow the presenter to add notes to Web pages, further enhancing the presentation.

E-3: Beyond the Traditional Curriculum: How to Create and Teach a Law Practice Technology Course

Level: Intermediate  60 minutes

Competency: Information Technology

Target Audience: Academic law librarians who teach law students and law firm librarians who work with new associates

Learning Outcomes:

1) Participants will know the importance of technology to the modern practice of law and the importance of law students becoming familiar with such technology.

2) Participants will learn about various models of structuring a course to teach law students about the technologies used in law offices and be prepared to develop their own proposals.

Automation in the law office is essential for making efficient use of time and resources. Current standard applications include document management, case management, litigation support, time/billing/accounting, publishing (newsletters and client brochures), Web site creation and maintenance, trial presentations, exhibit preparations, online CLE courses, electronic court filing, automated calendaring, as well as word processing and online research. A lawyering skills course in law practice technology is becoming a crucial part of the law school curriculum.

The program will give two examples of such courses and offer tips on how attendees can develop such courses at their institutions.

E-5: E-newsletters: What You Need to Know

Level: Intermediate  60 minutes

Competency: Information Technology

Target Audience: Anyone who wants to communicate regularly with their users; also anyone who already uses an e-newsletter or is thinking of starting one

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to identify reliable sources for investigative research on the Web.
2) Participants will learn about utilizing various Web resources for legal research on the Internet.

The growing power of computers and the expansion of commercial databases have made it quicker, cheaper and easier than ever before for anyone to collect information that took our gumshoe predecessors weeks of dogged surveillance and research to piece together. Thus, personal information that used to lie in dusty courthouse files, from financial holdings to a messy divorce, can now be uncovered if you know the secrets. Come join the experts as they reveal their strategies for locating people, public information and hidden resources from all parts of the world via the Internet.

E-6: HIV/AIDS: A Global Epidemic and an Issue of International Law

Level: Introductory  60 minutes

Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services

Target Audience: Academic law librarians, particularly international law librarians, any person interested in the HIV/AIDS epidemic as a political, social and legal issue

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to analyze HIV/AIDS as a global issue.
2) Participants will be able to select and evaluate research tools available to locate international law.

HIV/AIDS is a global epidemic with staggering numbers. This program will explore the current state of the epidemic and its relation to the work of those in the law and library communities. Librarians and scholars face the challenge of researching HIV/AIDS within the context of intellectual property issues related to drug treatments, immigration laws relating to persons with diseases, and discrimination against people with HIV/AIDS in violation of international human rights standards. A representative from USAID, a legal scholar and an international law librarian will discuss these issues, present demographic information and offer suggestions to others researching HIV/AIDS as an issue of international law.

F-2: Let’s Make a Deal: Strategies to Avoid Paying List Price
Level: Intermediate 75 minutes

Competency: Collection Care and Management
Target Audience: Librarians responsible for acquiring print and nonprint materials

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to identify strategies for negotiating a successful deal for materials and services below list price.
2) Participants will be able to practice a scenario for negotiating a deal.

Increasing costs of library materials and shrinking library budgets have a major impact on both vendors and libraries. Librarians are expected to provide the same level of service but with smaller budgets. Now more than ever, it is imperative to get the most bang for the buck from materials vendors. Librarians from different realms will present effective strategies for negotiating with information vendors to provide the most beneficial pricing for products and services needed by their institutions. The session will end with a skit portraying a model negotiation, followed by Q&A.

F-3: “The Centennial Bar Is Now Open: Pour Another Round of AALL History”
Level: Introductory 75 minutes

Competency: Core Competencies for Law Librarianship
Target Audience: General law librarians from all types of libraries and all levels of experience; others interested in the history of AALL and the law librarianship profession

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to understand the significance to them as law library professionals of the upcoming AALL Centennial celebration in 2006.
2) Participants will be able to describe key events and individuals in AALL’s nearly 100 years of existence.

To help raise awareness of the AALL Centennial celebration in 2006, this program will expose attendees to the knowledge, wisdom and wit of some of AALL’s most valued “experienced” members in an informal, informative and entertaining session of “live” oral history. Five AALL “veterans” sit as if at a hotel bar table and chat about their experiences in AALL, law librarianship and wherever the discussion leads. The audience “eavesdrops” on the relaxed exchange as if they were at the next table. Since similar programs using this format were presented in 1989 to 1992, this is a “return to the bar.”

F-4: "Can I Get Some Help Here?": Providing Effective Reference Services While Avoiding Unauthorized Practice of Law

Level: Intermediate  75 minutes

Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services

Target Audience: Librarians who provide legal reference services to self-represented litigants

Learning Outcomes:

1) Participants will gain a firm understanding of unauthorized practice of law issues as it relates to librarians so that they will be better able to provide effective legal educational and reference services within the bounds of the law.

2) Participants will be able to identify what restrictions have been established for court personnel with respect to self-represented litigants and unauthorized practice of law issues and what librarians can do to help fill the legal information gap left by the courts, being ever mindful of UPL as it affects libraries.

Librarians who provide legal reference services to the public are finding they need to do more than just provide access to materials; they are finding their patrons need a basic understanding of legal principles, court procedures and legal research techniques. The speakers will (1) provide a literature review of the current state of the law with respect to UPL and librarians, (2) discuss methods librarians can use to provide effective educational and reference services to the public while avoiding UPL, and (3) discuss how librarians can work with court personnel to produce better prepared and more legally literate litigants.

F-5: New Horizons: The Future of AACR

Level: Advanced  75 minutes

Competency: Collection Care and Management

Target Audience: Catalogers

Learning Outcomes:

1) Participants will be able to analyze the latest developments to AACR rules and the incorporation of FRBR (Functional Requirements for Bibliographic Records).

2) Participants will be able to assess the implications the proposed revisions to AACR will have on law libraries.

The Anglo-American Cataloguing Rules (AACR) is entering an era of significant change. The Joint Steering Committee (JSC) is working toward a new edition of AACR, designed to position the code within an emerging global cataloging environment. Over the next several years, major parts of the rules will be significantly changed. Three speakers, leaders in the work to revise the AACR, will discuss the goal of incorporating FRBR terminology and concepts into the AACR, the work being done to increase consistency and variation in Part 1 of the AACR, and the work of the JSC Format Variation Working Group and its preparation of a new Part 3 on Authorities for the AACR.

F-6: A Current Appraisal of Chinese, Japanese and Korean Legal Research

Level: Intermediate  75 Minutes

Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services

Target Audience: Librarians who collect Chinese, Japanese and Korean legal materials or provide reference services on these jurisdictions

Learning Outcomes:

1) Participants will be able to identify the basic online databases and publications for Chinese, Japanese and Korean legal materials and to use them effectively.

Recent innovations in computing and Internet technologies have made Chinese, Japanese and Korean (CJK) legal materials more sophisticated and more readily accessible. An Asian legal scholar will discuss the current rule of law status and future trends in these countries and how they will impact these countries’ relations with the United States. In addition, librarians will identify the best online CJK legal databases and publications, review their qualities and costs, and show the audience how to use them. The speakers also will demonstrate computer configurations to display CJK characters properly. The Foreign Comparative and International Law Section and the Asian Law Librarians’ Caucus previously co-sponsored research programs on this topic; these two groups wish to update librarians on current CJK legal research trends and tools.

G-1: Keeping Up with the Joneses: Top Tips, Tricks and Tools for Greater Efficiency

Level: Introductory 60 minutes

Competency: Core Competencies for Law Librarianship

Target Audience: Law firm librarians and related professionals who are interested in efficiency tips

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will review and discuss ways to increase efficiency through technology and real-world tools.
2) Participants will review and discuss layout issues involved in maximizing space while downsizing or moving libraries.

“For want of a nail, the shoe was lost …” Small changes can make a big difference. Come view the tips, tricks and tools used by librarians to increase efficiency in small and large tasks, from organizing e-mail to creating effective intranets to moving or downsizing collections. G-2: Designing Artificial Intelligence-based Agents for Your Reference Desk

Level: Introductory 60 minutes

Competency: Information Technology

Target Audience: Law librarians from all types of law libraries

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to assess the use of artificial intelligence (A.I.) technology at the reference desk of two law school libraries.
2) Participants will be able to design and implement an A.I. agent at minimal cost for their institution’s library.

Creative approaches to providing responsive information services and sources to your constituents continue to emerge and evolve. Arguably many Web-based applications have yet to be discovered, others exist only in the realm of imagination, and some fall somewhere between reality and imagination. Artificial intelligence (A.I.) is a technology in progress, with the potential to change how we provide our information and ourselves to the universe of potential users. The St. Thomas University School of Law Library and University of San Diego School of Law/Legal Research Center are exploring virtual agent applications, the use of the “A.I. librarian assistant,” its connection to Web design and its relationship within the context of real-time reference services.

G-3: The “Blog” Phenomenon and Its Impact on the World of Legal Information

Level: Introductory 60 minutes

Competency: Information Technology

Target Audience: Librarians who are interested in how “blogs” are impacting the way in which information is disseminated

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to analyze the impact of blogs on access to information.
2) Participants will be able to assess the impact of blogs on political discourse and advocacy.

Blogs, or Internet Web logs, are online journals. Authors post links to other information and offer their own comments. Blog readers are directed around the Internet to a variety of sites that they might not have otherwise discovered. Blogs can be powerful resources as information aggregators. The speakers will discuss the impact of blogs on how we access information and the role of blogs in the evolution of the Web and the creation of an electronic community.

G-4: Measuring Patron Satisfaction Using LibQUAL+™

Level: Intermediate 60 minutes

Competency: Library Management

Target Audience: Library managers, administrators and patron services librarians

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to evaluate LibQual+™ as a performance measurement tool for application in their libraries.
2) Participants will be able to understand how to implement LibQUAL+™ in their libraries.

Assessing patron satisfaction is key to improving services. The Association of Research Libraries has developed a Web-based assessment tool called LibQUAL+™ that enables libraries to survey users. In 2003, Georgetown University Law Library used LibQUAL+™ to survey hundreds of its students and faculty.

Boston to Mumbai: the World of Legal Information
In 2004, 19 law library members of the Association of Jesuit Colleges and Universities participated in the survey as a consortium. This program will describe LibQUAL+™—how it works, and how libraries and consortia can assess user perceptions of library service quality. Attendees will be able to decide whether LibQUAL+™ is appropriate for them and what is involved in the process.

Martha Kyrillidou, Association of Research Libraries

Level: Introductory 60 Minutes

Competency: Collection Care and Management

Target Audience: Law librarians who are concerned about legal information preservation and their access to legal information is only available in microform format

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to review the enormous diversity of legal information microform titles.
2) Participants will be able to explain the preservation benefits of the microform format, as well as how microform materials can be easily accessed in, and interfaced with, the digital world.

Research law libraries generally encompass in their collection development policy a critical mass of legal information microform titles and routinely select microform formats for preservation and space-saving concerns. In addition, countless organizations choose microform when selecting the best format for preserving documents. This program will discuss numerous legal information microform materials, highlighting key titles; a “gold standard” proposal that states all important legal documents be archived to a preservation medium such as the microform format; and how the digital world can work with the microform analog world to provide excellent access and long-term preservation simultaneously.

G-6: The European Union at a Crossroads: Freedoms in a Federated Europe

Level: Intermediate 60 minutes

Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services

Target Audience: Academic and firm librarians who need an update of new and pending developments in European Union law

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to describe the enlargement of the European Union (EU) and analyze its efforts to become a constitutional de facto federation of once completely sovereign states.
2) Participants will be able to field questions about the EU and the Council of Europe, without confusion among the courts, commissions and committees, and identify key information sources on EU law.

An enlarged European Union (EU) will be a more complex area for legal research than ever before. The complicated institutional structure of the EU makes the identification of the appropriate source of information difficult. The official Web site, Europa (http://europa.eu.int), is complex, and access to EU databases and information via LexisNexis®, Westlaw® and other databases such as Justis or Celex will not be possible for all researchers. The Delegation of the European Commission in Washington and other EU organizations will provide guidance to the documentation and complex terminology.

G-7: Same-Sex Marriage: the Legal Issues

Level: Introductory 60 minutes

Competency: Core Competencies for Law Librarianship

Target Audience: Reference and research librarians in academic, private, and court law libraries. Librarians of all types interested in the legal debate over same-sex marriage.

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will develop an awareness of the complexity of legal issues surrounding same-sex marriage and gain an awareness of the current status of these issues in the courts and legislatures.
2) Participants will be able to identify and explain the various legal concepts involved in researching and analyzing the issue of same-sex marriage including federal and state constitutional law, conflicts of law (recognition of marriage across jurisdictions), federal and state Defense of Marriage Acts, and court challenges.

The legal struggle for same-sex marriage has taken center stage recently. In February 2004, the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court found the state’s refusal to allow same-sex couples access to marriage violated the Massachusetts Constitution (Goodridge v. Dept. of Public Health). In March 2004, Congress began debating proposed amendments to the U.S. Constitution prohibiting same-sex marriage. Several government officials are already issuing marriage licenses to gay and lesbian couples.

Three speakers will analyze the legal challenge of same-sex marriage in the courts and legislatures to assist librarians who are being asked how to research this topic and raise the understanding of the social context of this issue in the legal system. Bennett Klein, an attorney with Gay & Lesbian Advocates & Defenders who participated in the Goodridge case, Professor Libby Adler, a constitutional law scholar at Northeastern University School of Law, and Professor Joseph Singer, a conflicts of law scholar at Harvard Law School, will discuss the issue of same-sex marriage.

H-1: Annual Legislative and Regulatory Update
Level: Intermediate

Competency: Core Competencies for Law Librarianship

Target Audience: This program serves to update all AALL members on the work of the Washington Affairs Office; librarians who are interested in information policy and legislative advocacy.

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be updated on the activities of the AALL Washington Affairs Office, and will be briefed on the upcoming issues concerning the Association and librarians.
2) Participants will be able to articulate AALL positions on a variety of information policy issues.

This annual update has become a tradition since the AALL Washington Affairs Office (WAO) was founded. Representatives from AALL’s Washington Affairs Office will brief the membership on progress with information policy issues and legislative advocacy efforts during the year, as well as pending legislation of particular interest to the membership. A keynote speaker will address a topic of current interest. Two other speakers will explain the positions taken by the WAO on behalf of AALL’s membership and will describe their advocacy activities—sometimes in collaboration with other library and information policy organizations—to promote legislation consistent with AALL’s positions.

H-2: “Parlez-vous le droit?”: Collecting Legal Materials in Foreign Languages
Level: Intermediate

Competency: Collection Care and Management

Target Audience: Bibliographers and acquisitions staff; collection development librarians and managers

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to list major approval plans for collecting foreign language legal materials.
2) Participants will be able to list major vendors of foreign law.

Collecting foreign and international legal materials presents a challenge because of limited budgets, language difficulties, insufficient ordering information, changing vendors and distributors, time lags and short runs—just to name a few. The session will incorporate a game of “Jeopardy” to illustrate how to overcome these obstacles. “Contestants” will include specialists knowledgeable about approval plans, foreign law vendors, consortial agreements and the acquisition of African, Asian, European and Latin American legal materials, as well as international legal materials generally.

H-3: XML and MARC: Should We Remodel or Build Anew?

Level: Intermediate
Time: 90 minutes

Competency: Information Technology

Target Audience: Technical services and systems librarians

Learning Outcomes:
1. Participants will gain an understanding of the emerging relationships between XML and MARC.
2. Participants will see actual implementations of XML-based bibliographic data systems and how they can be used in their libraries.

MARC has been the de facto standard for the representation of bibliographic data for decades. XML is fast becoming a de facto standard for the representation of content optimized for Web delivery. Should we remodel MARC or build anew? Speakers will give an overview of the latest developments in the evolving relationship between XML and MARC and its impact on libraries and library systems. They will also discuss current developments in MARC to XML transfer and its day-to-day applications in technical services.

H-4: The (Under)world of Legal Information: Protecting Networks from Hackers, Worms and Malicious Exploitation

Level: Advanced
Time: 90 minutes

Competency: Library Management

Target Audience: Librarians who are interested in the ways (both simple and complex, technical and nontechnical) that they can keep from being victimized or damaged by an attack on and exploitation of their networks, computers, personal or customer data, identity, or reputation. Also useful for end-users, system and network administrators, managers and attorneys.

Learning Outcomes:
1. Participants will be able to identify the threats and liabilities posed to networked computers and data from hackers, criminals, malicious competitors and automated threats such as worms and viruses.
2. Participants will understand the relationship between security, privacy and governance in the IT field, and how these overlapping elements are affecting everyone who uses computers and the Internet today.

In this program, a panel of technical and legal experts in the field of network security will discuss the threats and liabilities posed by hackers, criminals, malicious competitors and automated threats such as worms and viruses. Participants will learn ways that they can protect their systems from network-based attacks, including effective policies and procedures, technical protections, audits and assessments, and process-based security defenses. The panelists will explain sources of more information about network security and defenses. The program’s ultimate goal is to teach participants about the relationship between security, privacy and governance in the IT field, and how these overlapping elements are affecting everyone who uses computers and the Internet today.

H-5: Hijab, Jihad, Riba and Hudud: Islamic Law in the 21st Century

Level: Introductory
Time: 90 minutes

Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services

Target Audience: Public service and technical services librarians, as well as collection curators who need a better understanding of Islamic law for their work and services

Learning Outcomes:
1. Participants will become familiar with Islamic law as it governs facts, acts and transactions — locally or internationally — including rules or resolutions for conflict of jurisdictional law and Islamic law.
2. Participants will be able to research Islamic law questions and identify important research sources for Islamic law.

Islamic law is one of the universal religious legal systems that today governs the lives of almost a quarter of the world population, including growing communities in the United States and Canada. The program will address Islamic law in interaction with, or in contradistinction to, legal principles and institutes of civil and common law in jurisdictions where Islamic law and other legal systems coexist. Of special interest are the following:

- The religious aspect of Muslim life, ritual law (`ibadat).
- The civil aspects of persons, family and inheritance, forming the core of civil law in all legal systems.
- Commercial transactions (mu’amalat), with emphasis on banking, finance and international trade.
- Public and constitutional law (Islamic law and the state), as well as human rights.
- Criminal law and justice.

H-6: Exploring the New World of Digital Preservation Initiatives

Level: Intermediate 90 minutes

Competency: Information Technology

Target Audience: Academic, government and firm librarians who are interested in the preservation of “born digital” and “converted to digital” information

Learning Outcomes:

1) Participants will be able to identify best practices in the field of digital preservation in order to encourage their institutions and firms to undertake permanent preservation initiatives.

2) Participants will become knowledgeable about the terminology and technical standards employed in the field of digital preservation technology.

Identifying best practices in the field of digital preservation and promoting the adoption of standards by providers of digital legal information is a primary goal of the Legal Information Preservation Alliance (LIPA), the new organization formed last year by a group of law librarians. To spread the word about several of the most innovative projects now underway, LIPA has assembled a panel of groundbreaking explorers who are creating models for others to follow in areas such as digital repositories and e-journal archiving.

I-1: International and Foreign Publishers and Vendors: The Good, the Bad and the Ugly

Level: Introductory 30 minutes

Competency: Collection Care and Management

Target Audience: New acquisitions librarians and intermediate acquisitions librarians needing new resources

Learning Outcomes:

1) Participants will be able to identify vendors of the non-U.S. publishing world in order to facilitate adding foreign materials to their library collections, and develop tactics to resolve questions/problems along the way.

2) Participants will be able to select the proper foreign publisher or jobber that specialize in certain types of materials, i.e. primary or secondary sources, subject areas, or parts of the world.

This program will address the complexities of acquiring international and foreign legal materials for newer acquisitions librarians and provide new resources for seasoned acquisitions librarians.

The presenter will discuss vendor selection for non-U.S. legal materials and identify vendors that specialize in certain subject areas, countries or areas of the world. The presenter will touch on Web sites, responsiveness of publishers to your inquires, shipping and publication delays, foreign currency payments and language barriers. Time at the end of the session will allow audience members to ask questions and share personal tips.

I-2: Indian Tribal Legal Records: A Domestic World of Information
Level: Intermediate 30 minutes
Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services
Target Audience: Law librarians from every type of library who have responsibilities for reference or collection building in the field of American Indian law; librarians interested in Native American law
Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to articulate the importance and utility of American Indian tribal legal records.
2) Participants will be able to overcome the bibliographic challenges inherent in collecting and compiling a tribal legal record.

This program builds on the Native American law programs presented at the 2003 Annual Meeting by responding to inquiries for more specific bibliographic information and guidance. The unique nature of a tribal legal record will be described, along with its importance and uses. Guidance will be offered on the best print and electronic sources to consult when compiling a tribal legal record.

I-3: Google Special Syntax Searches and Google Search Forms
Level: Intermediate 30 minutes
Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services
Target Audience: All librarians who are involved in using the Web for research and helping users to locate information on the Web; public services librarians, electronic services librarians and reference librarians
Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will learn how to craft Google special syntax searches such as: inurl, site, phonebook, intitle, intext, inanchor and others searches.
2) Participants will learn how to use HTML code to create forms that can do a targeted search using special syntax searches and how to add these forms to existing Web pages.

Many people use Google for Web searching, but not many use the special syntaxes Google supports. These include inurl, site, intitle, intext, inanchor and others. Their use can greatly increase the efficiency of a Google search. For example, using Google and entering a keyword or words and then inurl: www.law.fsu.edu/library finds pages that have that URL. Using both the site search and inurl search combined will return results from a subdirectory, which in this example is “library.” Google supports the creation of HTML forms and special syntax searches can be written into HTML forms that can be added to Web pages and Web courses. These forms can include drop-down boxes of sites and subdirectories within sites. Forms can be created that will do very complicated targeted searches. Since the special syntaxes used are embedded in the form, users of that form can do these targeted searches without necessarily knowing how to craft that type of search themselves. These forms can be added to existing Web pages and online tutorials, or can be used with online course management programs such as BlackBoard. An example of the forms in use can be seen at: http://www.law.fsu.edu/library/databases/humanrightspathfinder.php.

I-4: Unravel the Mysteries of the Required SEC Filings of Foreign Companies
Level: Introductory 30 minutes
Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services
Target Audience: Librarians with an interest in the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) filings required by foreign corporations
Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to identify the basic foreign filings.
2) Participants will be able to compare the filings required of domestic and foreign corporations.

Foreign companies doing business in the United States are required by the SEC to make periodic filings similar to those required of United States companies. Why doesn’t a foreign company file a 10-K (annual report)? Is there an equivalent to an IPO filing? What is in the foreign filings? These are just a few of the questions that will be answered by an expert researcher.

I-5: Marketing the Law Library to the World: Getting Published in Judicial, Court and Bar Publications

Level: Intermediate 30 minutes

Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services

Target Audience: Law librarians who wish to publish articles on the value of the law library within professional publications that are read regularly by officers of the court, including judges, attorneys or legal professionals.

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will learn steps by which to query publishers for writing articles concerning the value of the law library.
2) Participants will be able to identify topics that will enhance the success of getting articles published for the larger legal world.

Law librarians are seeing fewer feet crossing their doorways every year. Patrons who are officers of the court may be finding their legal resources will help them stay current with new and developing technologies. Resources will help them stay current with new and developing technologies.

With the many demands placed on today’s libraries and staff, it is hard to stay current with all the latest developments in library technologies, especially with new improvements happening almost every day. Trying to determine which library journals to read, what listservs you should subscribe to, what conferences you should watch or what conferences you should attend can make you want to throw up your hands in surrender. Never fear! This follow-up to last year’s successful program will help you continue to identify and determine what resources you should use to stay on top of the latest in library technologies.

J-1: DOJ Legislative History Digitization Project

Level: Introductory 30 Minutes

Competency: Information Technology

Target Audience: Anyone who is interested in digital library and legislative history research, including administrators, project managers, technical services librarians, reference librarians, and IT/Webmasters.

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will learn the technical issues of planning and starting a digital project.
2) Participants will learn metadata, search field and browse option creation.
3) Participants will better understand the challenge of managing a digital project, such as selecting software and systems, quality control, developing work policies and procedures, dealing with contracting companies and team members.

U.S. Department of Justice libraries have started to use new technology to digitize their unique legislative history collection compiled by DOJ librarians. This provides easy access through the intranet for all DOJ staff and attorneys over the country and preserves the collection well. This program will share the DOJ staff’s experience and lessons with attendees on a digital project.

Digitizing legislative history is not just a new project, it is an initiative. Examining the challenges on technical issues, this project encompasses the many meanings of the term “digital legislative histories.” These include new forms of information collection and new operational information systems with digital content; new means of selecting, preparing, organizing and accessing digital contents; print and digital preservation and archiving; a new work relationship between researchers, technologists and proactive partners; new roles and improved status for librarians; and a new way to manage the digital project.

This program will also cover selecting systems and software, creating metadata, selecting search fields and browse options, ensuring quality control, developing work policies and procedures, and dealing with contracting companies and team members.

J-2: Around the World in 30 Minutes: Or, a Whirlwind Tour of International and Foreign Law Web Sites

Level: Introductory 30 minutes

Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services

Target Audience: Newer librarians who specialize in foreign, comparative and international law, as well as generalists who may encounter foreign and international legal research issues

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to compile a bibliography of Web sites useful for foreign and international legal research.
2) Participants will be able to examine and evaluate a range of innovative uses of the World Wide Web and the Internet for publishing and disseminating foreign and international legal information.

New foreign and international law Web sites are appearing on the Internet and World Wide Web every day. Learning which of these many sites are worth your time to visit can be a daunting task. This program aims to make some of that task a little bit easier. Join us for a whirlwind tour of 30 sites in 30 minutes. You will visit some of cyberspace’s most unusual, innovative, robust or just plain offbeat foreign and international law Web sites. It will be a relaxing and enjoyable way to expand your knowledge of the world of foreign and international legal information.

J-3: Translating the World Wide Web: Selecting and Using Web Site Translation Software

Level: Introductory 30 minutes

Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services

Target Audience: Librarians who may need to translate a Web site

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to select translation software appropriate to their needs and budget.
2) Participants will be able to utilize translation software to translate a Web site for their own use or to provide a Web site in an alternative language for patrons.

Did you know there are software programs that allow you to translate Web sites? Imagine the possibilities—you have found a Web site that seems to have the information that you need, but alas it is in German, which you do not read. Or, your library’s Web site is in English, but you have a large user population whose first language is Spanish. How can you make the Web site more accessible? Take advantage of the speaker’s analysis of a variety of translation software programs including their features, recommended uses and cost. Learn how to evaluate which program will be best for your library’s needs.

J-4: Check Out Those Interesting Documents: Making Great Document Displays

Level: Introductory 30 minutes

Competency: Core Competencies for Law Librarianship

Target Audience: Law librarians who are trying to educate their patrons about government documents or who want to learn how to create excellent displays

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will learn how to develop ideas for compelling document displays that will make patrons stop and observe.
2) Participants will be able to create document displays.

Document librarian Andrew Evans uses his extensive retail management experience to create compelling government document displays shown at http://www.washlaw.edu/doclaw/displays.html. He will discuss his eye-catching displays and explain his methods for developing ideas and turning them into a final product. He will also build a display during the program with the help from the audience.

Chris Anglim is an experienced government documents librarian at the start-up Depository at Prairie View University, an historically black university. His display, involving government documents and the right to vote, was inspired by local events. Students at Prairie View have been involved in an ongoing and passionate high-profile controversy when the Waller County attorney denied them the right to vote in local elections.

J-5: Electronic Law Journals: The Invisible Literature

Level: Intermediate 30 minutes

Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services

Target Audience: Reference librarians, catalogers and collection developers in academic law libraries

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will learn 10 ways to increase the impact factor of their institution’s electronic-only law review.
2) Participants will be able to list several major trends in electronic law journal publication.

The number of law journals published solely on the Web has increased dramatically within the last few years. Nearly one quarter of U.S. law schools now publish at least one, and even academic presses are beginning to produce these electronic-only law journals. This talk will summarize a survey of 65 electronic law journals, concluding that the majority are not cataloged, indexed, aggregated on the Web, included in tables of contents services, or available on LexisNexis® or Westlaw®. The speaker will cover trends in electronic law journal publication, review best examples, and recommend how librarians can support and promote this substantive but “invisible” literature.

J-6: What’s Happening at ALA?
CC:DA and SAC Reports

Level: Intermediate 30 minutes

Competency: Collection Care and Management

Target Audience: Technical services librarians

Learning Outcomes:

1) Participants will be able to explain the functions of the CC:DA and SAC committees.

2) Participants will be able to determine the impact that the committees’ issues will have on law libraries and plan for possible changes in cataloging rules and subject headings.

AALL sends representatives to the semi-annual meetings of ALA’s Committee on Cataloging: Description and Access and the Subject Analysis Committee. Current representatives will briefly describe the function of the committees and the roles they play in determining current rules and practices. They will report on the issues raised during the past year by describing the proposals that were approved and by commenting on the discussion papers that were presented. Emphasis will be on the changes most likely to impact law libraries.

K-1: Reaching the Global Patron: Packaging Your Research Using Adobe Acrobat

Level: Introductory 30 minutes

Competency: Information Technology

Target Audience: Reference/public services librarians who need to deliver their research results to their patrons electronically

Learning Outcomes:

1) Participants will be able to save research documents, Web pages and scanned images into a compact, consolidated PDF file.

2) Participants will be able to organize a PDF file using bookmarks and annotations tools.

Law librarians must frequently provide reference service to patrons outside of the physical library. Delivering the results in a patron-friendly format can be difficult. Adobe Acrobat is an excellent tool to help deliver research results electronically to anyone, anywhere. If you can print or scan a document, you can create a PDF file that’s easy to e-mail. The full-featured version of Acrobat can be used to compile research into a single, organized file complete with table of contents, annotations, highlighting, and more. The speaker will discuss when to use Acrobat and demonstrate the basics of creating PDFs, bookmarking, combining files and grabbing Web pages.

K-2: MARBI Report: What’s the Latest on MARC Standards?

Level: Intermediate 30 minutes

Competency: Information Technology

Target Audience: Catalogers and systems librarians

Learning Outcomes:

1) Participants will be able to analyze recent, major developments in the MARC format.

2) Participants will be able to plan for implementation of MARC changes in their cataloging procedures and local systems.

The U.S. MARC Advisory Committee approves changes to the MARC 21 formats in response to users needs. After a brief description of the committee and its procedures, the AALL representative to the committee will discuss the issues raised during the past year by describing the proposals that were approved and by commenting on the discussion papers that were presented. The emphasis will be on the changes most likely to impact law libraries.

K-3: U.S. Immigration in the Post 9-11 World

Level: Introductory
30 minutes

Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services

Target Audience: Librarians whose patrons are personally affected by or who research immigration issues

Learning Outcomes:
1. Participants will be able to navigate efficiently the new rules and regulations regarding immigration to the United States.
2. Participants will be able to assist effectively patrons who are researching the new immigration requirements.

The tragic events of September 11, 2001, prompted the creation of the Department of Homeland Security and the reorganization of federal agencies that focus on aliens. How has this affected immigration into the United States and the rights of aliens in this country? What does this mean for our society as a whole? What are the best resources to track these changes? Boston immigration attorney Sharryn E. Ross will deliver an update on these developments and their implications.

K-4: An Introduction to Poster Design and Production

Level: Introductory
30 Minutes

Competency: Teaching

Target Audience: Librarians who are involved with teaching, meeting presentations, marketing or demonstrative evidence

Learning Outcomes:
1. Participants will be able to discuss basic principles of graphics communication.
2. Participants will be able to list three design considerations for posters.

Libraries continuously create signs and posters regarding procedures, equipment operation, department locations and upcoming events. Beyond traditional lectures and workshops, professional association meetings often include “poster sessions,” during which presenters graphically depict reports and research. Law firm librarians may be called upon to assist with the development of charts, tables and other graphics for demonstrative evidence. This focused program will review key aspects of graphic communication, highlighting content crystallization and arrangement, as well as examine and illustrate poster design considerations concerning text, color, illustration and the optimal amount of information.

K-5: Lost That Whistle-while-you-work Feeling? Staff Meeting Management Strategies for Library Directors and Managers

Level: Advanced
30 minutes

Competency: Library Management

Target Audience: Library directors and managers

Learning Outcomes:
1. Participants will be able to identify strategies to shape the meeting culture of their libraries and to ensure realization of staff meeting goals.
2. Participants will be able to design techniques for maintaining focus and achieving desired outcomes during staff meetings.

Library directors and managers spend hundreds of hours in meetings with staff each year. Often when the time devoted to staff meetings does not produce the desired outcomes, a meeting-resistant culture may develop within the institution. To avoid wasted time and effort spent in meetings, this session will identify for library directors and managers meeting management strategies designed to turn staff meetings into decision-making and problem-solving vehicles. Library leadership will be able to accomplish the staff meeting results they desire by implementing these techniques to shape the meeting cultures of their libraries and ensure that meetings maintain their focus and achieve goals.

K-6: Effective Slideshow Presentations

Level: Introductory
30 minutes

Competency: Teaching

Target Audience: Librarians who create computer presentations

Learning Outcomes:
1. Participants will be able to identify the key elements of a successful electronic slideshow presentation.
2. Participants will be able to create effective electronic slideshow presentations.

Electronic presentations are used as a visual method of displaying information when giving a lecture. Slides should supplement and complement the oral presentation. The speaker will identify when using an electronic presentation is appropriate. This program will then discuss ways to incorporate slides into lectures so as to enhance the delivery of information.

W-1: Quick Start Basic Legal Reference
Friday, July 9 • 8:30 a.m. – 5:00 p.m.
Level: Introductory Full day

Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services
Target Audience: Librarians new to legal reference

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to identify the components of successful reference interviews that determine the actual research needs of patrons.
2) Participants will be able to identify the boundaries of legal reference and practice techniques that will enable them to provide useful assistance to legal researchers.

You only need two essential skills to become a great legal reference librarian: clairvoyance (to understand what is actually being asked by the patron) and omniscience (to be able to answer the question). This workshop is designed for librarians new to legal reference, either because they are new to law libraries or because they are new to reference. It will teach participants how to amaze patrons with their ability to provide insightful, useful research guidance and answers to reference questions. This workshop is appropriate for librarians from all types of law libraries.

W-2: Shopping in the Global Marketplace: Information Sources for International Trade
Friday, July 9 • 8:15 a.m. – 5:30 p.m.
Level: Introductory Full day

Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services
Target Audience: Newer librarians who specialize in foreign, comparative and international law, as well as generalists who may encounter international trade research

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to explain the basic principles and legal framework of the major international and regional trade organizations.
2) Based on the materials presented, participants will be able to create instructional programs and guides to serve the research needs of law schools, government agencies or law firms.

International agreements fostering the growth of international trade have proliferated in recent years. Some of these agreements have established institutions wielding massive political and economic power. They are also prolific publishers, producing material crucial to legal scholars, practitioners, economists, legislators, nongovernmental organizations and others. Law librarians are finding it increasingly necessary to be conversant with this body of literature. This workshop was developed to help educate newer foreign and international law librarians and generalists across the professional spectrum about the array of international trade organizations and how they can find and use key international trade documents.

W-3: SCCTP (Serials Cataloging Cooperative Training Program) Integrating Resources Cataloging Workshop

Friday, July 9 • 9:00 a.m. – 5:00 p.m.
Saturday, July 10 • 9:00 a.m. – 1:00 p.m.
Level: Intermediate 1 1⁄2 days

Competency: Collection Care and Management

Target Audience: Cataloging librarians, database management librarians, technical services librarians and librarians who will want to know more about cataloging integrating resources and the potential changes that this new bibliographic level will have on their library’s cataloging workflow

Learning Outcomes:

1) Participants will be able to explain the revised AACR2 chapters 9 and 12 rules.
2) Participants will be able to catalog integrating resources, including updating Web sites, databases and loose-leaves, and apply the revised rules.

This workshop is based on the revised chapters 9 and 12 of AACR2 and covers all integrating resources. Instructors will discuss the new and revised rules now found in these chapters and provide timely guidance to monograph, serials and electronic resource catalogers. The sessions include: an introduction to integrating resources and their identification, instructions for cataloging and updating Web sites, databases and loose-leaves; making changes to records; case studies and more difficult aspects of cataloging electronic integrating resources; resource selection and options for access; and cataloging of loose-leaf services. Participants will hear lectures, perform exercises and have time for questions, answers and discussion.

W-4: Share Your Library with the World: Grant Writing Basics and More

Saturday, July 10 • 8:00 a.m. – 5:00 p.m.

Level: Introductory Full day

Competency: Collection Care and Management

Target Audience: Library directors, department heads or any other staff member responsible for writing grant applications with little or no grant writing experience

Learning Outcomes:

1) Participants will choose and prepare a grant proposal properly, evaluating appropriate funding sources and project preparation.
2) Participants will write a polished grant proposal using appropriate grant terminology, and develop an accompanying budget.

Sharing libraries with the world through the Internet requires funding. This workshop focuses on the research, preparation and writing phases of the grant proposal process. Participants will learn about tools to help identify sources of funding and create a strong proposal package. The development of various components of a proposal will also be covered, including the statement of need, preparing a timeline, outlining project objectives or outcomes, detailing project activities, preparing and presenting a clear budget, and outlining evaluation plans. Participants will write a grant proposal incorporating all three phases: research, preparation and writing.

W-5: Taking the Law into Your Own Hands: Establishing an In-house Book Repair Program

Saturday, July 10 • 8:00 a.m. – 5:00 p.m.

Level: Introductory
Full day

Competency: Collection Care and Management

Target Audience: Librarians and para-professionals responsible for the physical care of their library collections

Learning Outcomes:
1. Participants will analyze book structure, typical damage and treatment options, and make appropriate treatment decisions using both in-house and outsourcing options.
2. Participants will be able to develop a small, in-house book repair program and provide necessary training for other library staff to perform basic book repair techniques.

Law collections pose some unique problems in terms of their physical care due to filing and updating practices, use patterns and special binding structures such as loose-leaves and pocket parts. This workshop is designed to address specific preservation needs of law collections through lecture, demonstration and hands-on opportunities. Participants will learn the fundamentals of book repair, treatment options and decision-making, and preservation best practices. Emphasis will be placed on moving knowledge into practice through guidelines for establishing institution appropriate in-house book repair programs, by training the trainers in basic book repair techniques and by providing all participants with a start-up tool kit.

CONELL Conference of Newer Law Librarians

Saturday, July 10 • 7:30 a.m. – 5:00 p.m.

The Conference of Newer Law Librarians (CONELL) is held every year at the American Association of Law Libraries Annual Meeting and Conference. The purpose is to welcome the newer members of the profession to the organization, introduce them to the Association and its leaders, and provide a setting for newer members to become acquainted with each other. Participants will have an opportunity to talk with representatives from AALL’s many Committees and Special Interest Sections to find out firsthand how to get involved and enjoy the benefits of Association membership. CONELL offers a chance to learn about the Association while meeting new people and having some fun.

After lunch in the Sheraton Boston Hotel, the afternoon will be devoted to a guided tour of Boston. You’ll see Beacon Hill and visit Back Bay, one of the most elegant neighborhoods in Boston. Then you’ll drive by the Waterfront and walk into the North End, Boston’s famous Italian neighborhood. There you’ll visit the Old North Church to see where the lanterns were hung to signal the beginning of Paul Revere’s ride.

For the first time this year, CONELL will sponsor “Dutch Treat Dinners” at 7:00 p.m. on Friday, July 9. These dinners will give CONELL participants a chance to meet each other and members of the Mentoring Committee before the beginning of the official conference.

Advanced registration required.

The Association gratefully acknowledges West for its support of this program.
Special Opportunities

Chapter Leadership Roundtable: Professional Development
Saturday, July 10 • 8:00 a.m. – 12:00 p.m.
Sheraton Boston Hotel – Hampton Room (AB)

Chapter leaders who are or will be involved in educational program planning are invited to this half-day workshop. This program will discuss the basic principles of professional development programming—analyzing, developing, designing, implementing and evaluating. Share experiences with your peers and leave with new ideas to enhance your chapter’s educational offerings.

CONALL/Mentoring Program (Conference of Newer Academic Law Librarians)
Tuesday, July 13 • 5:15 p.m. – 6:15 p.m.
Harvard Law School Library
Sponsored by BNA, Inc.

The Academic Law Libraries Special Interest Section (ALL-SIS) presents a special event each year to introduce newer academic law librarians to the world of law school librarianship. This year’s event will take place just before the ALL-SIS Reception. Combining fun and humor with frank and serious discussion, the event will raise issues particular to serving law students and faculty and to promoting legal scholarship and research within the campus community. It will also give the members of the ALL-SIS “entering class” and their mentors a chance to begin the exciting process of forming new professional relationships, and then to continue this process as the group moves to the Reception. A special bus will be provided for transportation to Harvard Law School Library, departing from the Sheraton Boston Hotel at the Dalton Street entrance.

Diversity Symposium: Promise, Purpose and Potential: Brown v. Board of Education at Home and Abroad
Saturday, July 10 • 2:00 p.m. – 5:00 p.m.
Sheraton Boston Hotel – Independence Ballroom (East)
Judy Floyd-Evans, Chair, Committee on Diversity

As groups around the country celebrate the 50th anniversary of the landmark decision Brown v. Board of Education in 2004, it is especially appropriate that the American Association of Law Libraries bring together a diverse group of scholars to discuss the case, its implications and its legacy. The Symposium will examine the historical context of the Brown case, the progress made over the last 50 years and the potential that exists for further progress. The Brown case has impacted institutions and people not only in the United States but all around the world. As the 97th Annual Meeting and Conference examines the reach of legal research and resources around the world, it is fitting that we look at how this case has changed—and continues to change—the legal and cultural ways of other countries.

Our speakers will be Judge Sylvia Cooks, Third Circuit Court of Appeals in Louisiana, Michal Kurlaender and Chungmei Lee, both with the Civil Rights Project, Harvard University, and Professor Guy Stuart, Kennedy School of Government. Please join us for what will be a stimulating discussion of the impact of Brown at home and abroad. Our speakers will cover a variety of issues including re-segregation of school systems, desegregation exit plans now in effect in numerous large U.S. cities and what still needs to be accomplished 50 years later.

The Association gratefully acknowledges LexisNexis™ for its support of this program.

Legislative Advocacy Leadership Training
Saturday, July 10 • 8:30 a.m. – 12:00 p.m.
Sheraton Boston Hotel – Gardner Room (AB)

This practical half-day workshop will train participants to become effective communicators when dealing with federal, state and local policy makers. This opportunity is aimed at representatives from AALL’s chapters, but is open on a first-come, first-served basis to all members of AALL who want to become more active in supporting AALL’s legislative and regulatory agenda. We hope to have participants from each chapter and every state so that we can develop chapter leadership, broaden support for our legislative work and train a larger number of highly skilled advocates. No specific background knowledge or experience is required, except for a keen desire to understand the issues thoroughly and become actively engaged with your elected representatives.

Breakout sessions will train participants in outlining strategies for greater participation on specific issues, such as funding for county law libraries, access to government information, database protection and UCITA. Participants also will contribute information about local issues and gain support for local policy matters of interest to them that are reflective of AALL’s agenda.

Advance registration required.
TRIALL
Teaching Research in Academic Law Libraries
Thursday, July 8 • 8:00 a.m. – 5:00 p.m.
Friday, July 9 • 8:00 a.m. – 5:00 p.m.
Sheraton Boston Hotel – Commonwealth Room
LexisNexis™, in conjunction with AALL, is offering the Teaching Research in Academic Law Libraries (TRIALL) Conference. The TRIALL Conference will be held July 8-9, 2004, in Boston as a preconference to the AALL Annual Meeting and Conference. TRIALL offers a professional development opportunity regarding instruction in an academic setting. Through a variety of interactive, participatory and problem-solving sessions, conference attendees will learn what effective instruction entails. Enrollment will be limited to 30 participants to maximize the learning and sharing of information. The TRIALL Conference will include presentations, structured breakout sessions, demonstrations and ample opportunity for networking with the faculty, council and other attendees.

LexisNexis™ is working with an Advisory Council of Academic Law Librarians to develop and present the curriculum of this conference. The Advisory Council members include:

Prano Amjadi, Santa Clara University, Heafy Law Library
Tim Coggins, University of Richmond, School of Law
Vicki Szymczak, Brooklyn Law School
Michael Whiteman, Northern Kentucky University, Salmon P. Chase College of Law Library

Advance registration required.
Exhibits at the 2004 Annual Meeting and Conference

The Annual Meeting and Conference provides access ... Access to exemplary education programs ... Access to professional colleague exchanges ... Access to more than 20,000 square feet of exhibits featuring the latest professional materials and services to help guide you and your library into the next century. The 2004 Exhibit Hall will offer a breadth and depth of vendors designed with law librarians' needs in mind. From publications to technologies, you will find countless innovative opportunities that complement this year's global theme.

Located in the Hynes Convention Center (HCC), the Exhibit Hall will also offer hands-on experience with the tools designed to help you manage daily, on-the-job challenges.

The wide range of products exhibited includes:
• Books
• Online services
• Computer hardware and software
• Journals
• Internet products and services
• Periodicals
• CD-ROM
• Electronic mail systems
• Furniture
• Shelving
• Library supplies
• Office equipment
• Architectural services
• Movers
• Bibliographic services

Set aside plenty of time for the exhibits: Join your colleagues for the 9:00 a.m. Sunday Ribbon Cutting and Coffee Break. Monday and Tuesday afternoon breaks will take place in the Exhibit Hall, during which time attendees will have the chance to win fabulous prizes such as a laptop computer, portable DVD player, and digital camcorder.

Log onto the Web: Also located on the exhibit floor is the AALL Internet Room. Plenty of terminals will be available for you to check e-mail or visit your favorite Web site.

The 2004 Exhibit Hall will be open Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

West Customer Appreciation Event

Monday, July 12 • 7:00 p.m. – 9:30 p.m.
Sheraton Boston Hotel – Grand Ballroom

Continue the Monday night tradition at the AALL Annual Meeting and Conference by joining your friends from West for an evening of food, fun and foot-stomping. Plenty of fun activities and, of course, great prize drawings await you. See you on July 12th!
