STRATEGIZE!
VALUES ◇ VISIONS ◇ VISTAS

98th AALL
ANNUAL MEETING AND CONFERENCE

San Antonio, Texas
July 16–20, 2005
Welcome to the 98th Annual Meeting and Conference of the American Association of Law Libraries. The Annual Meeting theme, “Strategize! Values ~ Visions ~ Vistas,” emphasizes the importance of forward thinking. Pondering the past is useful; however, success in the future requires the ability to think and act strategically.

Librarians are faced with constant and rapid change in both the universe of legal information and in our institutions. Not only is change a constant companion, but the professional challenges we face are increasingly complex. Responding successfully to these challenges depends on our ability to stay current in all areas: legal information retrieval, delivery techniques, customer service, information policy and legal changes. Our need for relevant and substantive programs is greater than ever before. Education is the foundation for achieving our professional goals.

The 2005 Annual Meeting Program Committee (AMPC) worked hard to assemble an array of educational opportunities illustrating the theme. In reviewing the schedule, it is important to remember that each program was developed by members for members. After reviewing 195 proposals, the committee gleaned 63 programs and four workshops geared toward all levels of experience and addressing all AALL Competencies of Law Librarianship. A variety of program lengths is offered, including the increasingly popular 30-minute programs.

This conference provides information professionals with the opportunity to attend diverse educational programs and hands-on workshops, listen to stimulating keynote speakers, and participate in important meetings of SISs, committees and other groups. This gathering is also a chance to celebrate our achievements and, of course, to socialize. Let’s use this time to meet, to learn, to share and to strategize!

Closing Banquet
Marriott Rivercenter, Grand Ballroom Salons (B-E)
Wednesday, July 20  6:00 p.m. – 12:00 a.m.

¡FIESTA!
Come help us say ¡Gracias y Adios a Tory! for a spectacular job as President of AALL. A mariachi trio will greet you during the reception. Then stroll into the ballroom for dining on Rodeo Salad, Filet Mignon and Pistachio Chicken, followed by Margaritaville Key Lime Pie. Line dancing instructors will help burn those calories away, and a lively band will provide dancing music 'til midnight. Prefer a quieter venue? A solo pianist will soothe your convention weary soul and feet in the Grand Ballroom Foyer. Dress is “Texas formal,” which means your best-pressed blue jeans, shirt and Stetson hat or your after-five finest!

Table reservations for the Closing Banquet may be arranged at the Hospitality Booth before noon on Tuesday, July 19.

Convenient Center Access
The main entrance for AALL is through the Market Street entrance, across from the Marriott Riverwalk. The doors are open from 6:00 a.m. - 10:00 p.m.

Daily Newspaper
Want to know what major people, programs, events and products will be happening at the San Antonio meeting? Pick up a copy of AALLamo News, the newspaper filled to the brim with tasty convention goodness. Published Sunday through Wednesday, AALLamo News will report on programs and speakers, feature interviews with AALL officers, and give you the inside dope on the best local venues. We’ll clue you in on where to see armadillos, buy the best bluebonnet souvenirs and eat the best Tex-Mex. And now this year: AALLamo News will appear each morning on www.aallnet.org.

If you would like to submit an article, announcement or news to AALLamo News, please bring an electronic copy to the News office in the Henry B. Gonzalez Convention Center, Room 208. Copy deadline is 1:30 p.m. for the next day’s issue. If you have questions about AALLamo News, please visit Room 208 or contact Sharon Blackburn at sharon.blackburn@ttu.edu.

Educational Program Handout Materials
ONCE AGAIN! The online Educational Program Handout Materials Collection has been available since mid-June for attendees to download at http://programmaterials.aallnet.org. Now you can preview, print and bring only the materials for the programs you wish to attend. The Educational Program Handout Materials Book is no longer included in your registration bag, but kiosks are available in the registration check-in area of the Gonzalez Convention Center for printing these materials if you have not already done so. If you purchased the complete Educational Program Handout Materials Collection in print or on a CD when you pre-registered, you may pick it up at the Registration Desk when you check in.

Excursions/Tours
All excursions will depart from the Marriott Rivercenter Hotel at the Commerce Street entrance. Please arrive for your excursion 5-10 minutes prior to the start time. Confirmation letters have been sent via U.S. Postal Service. Refunds for any tour cancelled by Circa Texas, Inc. will be mailed to registrants without penalty. Tours can be booked on site as well at the Circa Texas, Inc. Booth. See page 12 for hours.
Exhibit Hall
Fiesta sounds of a mariachi band will herald the ribbon-cutting ceremony opening the Exhibit Hall on Sunday, July 17, at 9:00 a.m. Come join in the festivities that include complimentary coffee and pastries from 9:00 a.m. to 10:00 a.m. This is just the beginning of your opportunity to explore more than 20,000 square feet of exhibits featuring the latest professional materials and services. Monday and Tuesday afternoon breaks will take place in the Exhibit Hall, during which time attendees will have the chance to win fabulous prizes such as a laptop computer, Sony PSP and iPod Mini. Stroll through the AALL Activities Area and learn the latest news from the AALL Committees, Special Interest Sections, Chapters and Caucuses. The Exhibit Hall closes on Tuesday, July 19, at 3:00 p.m., so plan your schedule to take full advantage of this unique information marketplace. Exhibit Hall access is limited to persons 16 years and older unless they are accompanied by an adult.

The AALL Centennial Committee will also host a special drawing on Monday, July 18, for next year’s meeting in St. Louis.

Sunday, July 17 9:00 a.m. – 5:00 p.m. (ribbon-cutting ceremony, 9:00 a.m. – 10:00 a.m.)
Monday, July 18 9:00 a.m. – noon (afternoon break, 1:45 p.m. – 2:15 p.m.) 1:30 p.m. – 5:00 p.m.
Tuesday, July 19 9:00 a.m. – 3:00 p.m. (afternoon break, 1:15 p.m. – 2:15 p.m.)

Family Fun-time Round-up
Marriott Rivercenter, Salon (I)
Saturday, July 16 4:30 p.m. – 6:00 p.m.
Yee-haw! Join us for the “Family Fun-time Round-up,” where you and your children will enjoy cowboy-themed games, music and food. The children will delight in the balloon creations by the Cowgirl Clown. This is an opportunity for parents to meet and learn about San Antonio’s exciting family attractions.
Advance registration required.

Hospitality/Information
The Hospitality Booth is located just outside the entrance to Exhibit Hall C of the Henry B. Gonzalez Convention Center. Local information professionals will help you find your way around San Antonio and answer questions on places to eat, shop and sightsee. Sign up for daily raffles of Texas-themed gift baskets, and make table reservations for the Closing Banquet. Reservations must be made by noon on Tuesday, July 19. See page 12 for hours.

Library Tours
Some of this year’s tours will be on foot, some on San Antonio’s downtown streetcars and one via water taxi. All tours will begin and end at the entrance to the Henry B. Gonzalez Convention Center in front of the Lila Cockrell Theater. All tours involve some walking, but no more than 15 minutes on foot to and from the destination libraries. Please bring a small bottle of water with you, wear sunscreen and comfortable shoes, and wear a hat if you are particularly sensitive to the sun. Public transportation costs are included in the tour. Attendee badges will be required for all tours.
Advance registration required. Confirmations have been e-mailed to all registrants.

Lost and Found
Turn in, inquire about or claim lost articles at the AALL Staff Office, located in the Henry B. Gonzalez Convention Center, Room 209, for the duration of the conference. Direct all post-conference inquiries to the Henry B. Gonzalez Convention Center Security office.

Medical Assistance
A first-aid office is located in Room 1068 (street level), down the hall from AALL Registration. EMT services will be available throughout the meeting. In the event of a medical emergency at the Henry B. Gonzalez Convention Center, please dial the Security Office at 210.207.7773 immediately from any office phone. At the Marriott Rivercenter Hotel, dial “6070” on any house phone. At the Marriott Riverwalk Hotel, dial “6515” on any house phone. Always be prepared to state your location and the nature of the illness or emergency.

Opening Event
Henry B. Gonzalez Convention Center, Ballroom (C)
Sunday, July 17 8:30 p.m. – 10:30 p.m.
Sponsored by LexisNexis®
LexisNexis® is proud to sponsor the 2005 Opening Event at the AALL 98th Annual Meeting and Conference in San Antonio. Please join us after dinner for a Dessert Extravaganza, with a showcase as BIG as the heart of Texas. This delectable dessert gala will delight your taste buds and give you yet another reason to “remember the à la mode!”

Public Relations Showcase
Could your library use some new marketing ideas? Don’t miss the 13th Annual Public Relations Showcase, sponsored by the AALL Public Relations Committee. Located in the Activities Area of the Exhibit Hall, the PR Showcase will display brochures, publications, bookmarks, tool kits and other items created by librarians for successful public relations campaigns in all types of law libraries. At specified times, Public Relations Committee members and public relations leaders from selected libraries will be on hand to discuss effective public relations strategies, provide samples and answer questions. The schedule of participating librarians will be on hand to discuss effective public relations strategies, provide samples and answer questions. The schedule of participating librarians will be posted in the AALL Activities Area, and will appear in the daily newspaper, AALLamo News. Come and be inspired by your colleagues’ PR skills.

Registration Policies
Payment: Registrations received without payment will be held until payment is received.
Cancellation Policy: AALL reserves the right to cancel workshops, programs and events if there is insufficient registration or for any other reason. AALL is not responsible for cancellation charges assessed by airlines or travel agencies, or other losses incurred due to cancellation of workshops, programs and events.
Refund Policy: Cancellations faxed or postmarked before June 16, 2005, will receive a full refund. Cancellations faxed or postmarked June 16 through June 30, 2005, will be assessed a 30 percent cancellation fee. Cancellations faxed or postmarked July 1 – July 15, 2005, will receive a 50 percent refund. No cancellations will be accepted after July 15, 2005. All requests for refunds must be made in writing by letter or fax. Refunds will be issued after the conclusion of the meeting. This policy applies to all forms of payment.
Substitutions: Institutions that have remitted payment of the required fee are permitted to “substitute” a replacement attendee from the same institution in place of the original registrant at any time.
No Wait-list: All registrations will be processed in the order in which they are received with payment. Once a program or event is fully subscribed, registration will be closed for that program or event. WAIT-LISTS WILL NOT BE MAINTAINED! DO NOT PLAN ON ATTENDING A PROGRAM OR EVENT UNLESS YOU RECEIVE A CONFIRMATION NOTICE THAT WILL ADMIT YOU TO THE SESSION. If you choose to pay by credit card, your card will be charged only for those sessions for which you receive a confirmed registration. If you make payment by check, your check will be deposited and a refund of the registration fee for the closed event will be mailed within six weeks after the end of the Meeting.

Restaurant Booth
Creative Dining & Entertainment, our on-site convention concierge service, will assist you in finding the perfect restaurant for the type of food and price range you’re seeking. They are located in the Registration check-in area to provide you with dining information and assist you with making reservations, as well as providing menus and coupons. See page 12 for hours.

Speaker Assistance
Speakers and Coordinators needing assistance should visit the AALL Staff Office at the Henry B. Gonzalez Convention Center, Room 209 or dial 210.582.7000.

Staff Office
The AALL Staff Office is located in the Henry B. Gonzalez Convention Center, Room 209. See page 12 for hours.

Taxis
Taxis can be hailed and are plentiful. There are taxi stands at the hotels.

Rules of Conduct for AALL General Business Meetings

The Association will conduct two business meetings during the San Antonio Annual Meeting and Conference. The following rules, adopted by the Executive Board, will apply:

- All substantive motions, amendments to motions and amendments to the Bylaws must be submitted in triplicate to the Secretary of the Association before the Motion may be placed in discussion. A single copy will be acceptable only if the Motion must be drafted during a business meeting, when it is not practical to provide copies in triplicate.

- Voting members of the Association are required to wear their Annual Meeting badges to business meetings in order to be eligible to vote.

- Before speaking in debate or making a Motion, a member must use one of the microphones on the floor, address the chair and state his/her name and library affiliation and receive recognition.

- Attention is called to pertinent parts of the Association’s Bylaws.

- Article IV (Summarized) – Rights of voting shall be restricted to individual members, designated institutional members under institutional membership, student members and retired members.

- Article XII, Section 1 (Excerpted) – Proposed amendments shall be voted on during the Annual Meeting of the Association and shall be adopted upon approval by two-thirds of the members present and voting unless 5 percent or more of the Association members eligible to vote have signed a petition requesting a mail ballot. Such petitions must be submitted to the Secretary before the beginning of the business meeting at which the vote on amendments is to be called.

Plenary Session I
Sunday, July 17 • 1:30 p.m. – 2:30 p.m.
Keynote Speaker: Roy Tennant

Building the Libraries Our Users Deserve
Services like Google and Amazon have both drawn our users and demonstrated new possibilities. Meanwhile, new standards and technologies offer us opportunities to serve our clientele much better than they have ever been served before. What should we be doing differently? Where are we failing and where are we most likely to succeed? Where should we focus our efforts? These and other questions will be explored in a presentation for which there are no sacred cows.

Roy Tennant is User Services Architect for the California Digital Library (CDL). At CDL, he has been instrumental in creating the eScholarship Repository and the eScholarship Editions.

Tennant also owns the Web4Lib and XML4Lib electronic discussions, and created and serves as editor of Current Cites, a current awareness newsletter published every month since 1990. He has also been instrumental in the development of the Simple Web Indexing Software for Humans - Enhanced (SWISH-E) software, and the Internet resource guides Librarians’ Index to the Internet and KidsClick!

His books include Managing the Digital Library, XML in Libraries, Practical HTML: A Self-Paced Tutorial, and Crossing the Internet Threshold: An Instructional Handbook (co-authored with John Olear and Anne Lipow). Tennant writes a monthly column on digital libraries for Library Journal and has written numerous articles in other professional journals. In 2003, he received the American Library Association’s LITA/Library Hi Tech Award for Excellence in Communication for Continuing Education.

Plenary Session II
Wednesday, July 20 • 10:45 a.m. – 11:45 a.m.
Keynote Speaker: Jerry Kang

Pervasive Computing: Embedding the Public Sphere
Ubiquitous, wireless access to the Internet and the miniaturization of environmental sensors are converging to produce a new information environment of pervasive computing (“PerC”). The tenuous line between cyberspace and real space is starting to blur as the real world gets embedded with a digital nervous system. What might this new world look like and how will it inform our world of information access and retrieval, our values and beliefs about privacy, publicity, and the public sphere? What are the legal, ethical and social issues that should be addressed in anticipation of this new reality?

Jerry Kang is Professor of Law at UCLA School of Law and Visiting Professor of Georgetown Law Center (2004-05).

His teaching and scholarly pursuits include civil procedure, race and communications. On race, he has focused on the Asian-American community and has written and spoken nationally about hate crimes, affirmative action, the Japanese-American internment and its lessons for the “War on Terror.” He is a co-author of Race, Rights, and Reparation: The Law and the Japanese American Internment (Aspen 2001).

On communications, Kang has published on the topics of cyberspace privacy, pervasive computing, social cognitive analyses of mass media policy and cyber-race (the techno-social construction of race in cyberspace). He is also the author of Communications Law & Policy: Cases and Materials (Aspen Publishers 2001), a leading casebook in the field. His work regularly appears in leading journals, such as the UCLA, Stanford and Harvard law reviews.

During law school, Kang was a supervising editor of the Harvard Law Review and special assistant to Harvard University’s Advisory Committee on Free Speech. After graduation, he clerked for Judge William A. Norris of the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals, then worked at the National Telecommunications and Information Administration on cyberspace policy.

He joined UCLA in the fall of 1995 and was elected Professor of the Year in 1998. At UCLA, he helped found the Concentration for Critical Race Studies, the first program of its kind in American legal education and acted as its founding co-director for two years.
A-1: Creating and Using Interactive Electronic Legal Research Lessons

Level: Intermediate  90 minutes

Competency: Teaching

Target Audience: Librarians who teach an entire course, specialized classes or short tutorials

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will assess the value of using interactive electronic legal research lessons in their teaching.
2) Participants will learn how to apply techniques for creating interactive electronic legal research lessons.

Are you searching for a productive way to use technology to engage your students and improve the learning process? Would you like to develop tutorials for use outside the classroom? Did you know that it is possible to modify existing lessons to meet your instructional needs? This program will outline the benefits of using interactive electronic legal research lessons as part of your instruction and show how easy it is to utilize interactive electronic lessons in your teaching. You will see how simple it can be to create your own lessons or tutorials.

Kristina L. Niedringhaus, Coordinator and Speaker, Phoenix International School of Law
Elizabeth Adelman, Georgia State University, College of Law Library
Deb Quentel, Center for Computer-Assisted Legal Instruction
Katherine Topulos, Duke University, School of Law Library

A-2: Outsourcing: Odious or Out-of-the-box?

Level: Intermediate  90 minutes

Competency: Library Management

Target Audience: Library and records managers primarily in the private legal environment, i.e., firms and corporate law departments

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will list and compare six different outsourcing models for information department management.
2) Participants will be able to identify effective methods for approaching the justices or judges who employ them about expanding pro se patron services or offering new services that may be controversial.

As a management strategy, the concept of outsourcing generally fills information professionals with equal amounts of fear and loathing. These feelings are not always justified, as outsourcing is not necessarily synonymous with job elimination. This program will examine the many facets of outsourcing in the information professions, focusing on libraries and records-management departments in the private legal environment. Panel speakers will discuss new outsourcing models, including direct marketing of fee-based legal reference services to lawyers and firm administration, and the hot topic of offshore legal work and its ramifications for law librarians. A case study of one law firm’s “co-sourcing” strategy presents a tested methodology for success in managing an outsourcing relationship.

Lee R. Nemchek, Coordinator and Speaker, Morrison & Foerster LLP
H. Larry Eiring, Thomson - Elite
Ganesh Natarajan, Mindcrest Inc.

A-3: May It Please the Court: Strategies for Discovering Pro Se Services That Judges Crave

Level: Intermediate  90 minutes

Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services

Target Audience: Law libraries or law librarians working with pro se or pro per litigants

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will learn how to design a survey for judges in their court systems to discover how judges think the quality of pro se litigants’ services can be improved so they are better prepared for court.
2) Participants will identify best practices in developing a successful partnership with an outsourcing service provider.

Pro se litigants end up in front of judges who pray they have done their homework, understand court decorum, and have something to present that the judges will be able to act upon. While many law librarians are working to increase the range and depth of services to pro se patrons, few, if any, are investigating what knowledge and perspective their state judiciary may bring to their efforts, a perspective particularly crucial where the judiciary/librarian relationship is one of employer/employee. A panel of judges will evaluate strategies for how law librarians can better work with judges to assist pro se patrons, discuss the results of judicial surveys recently taken in their states, and consider what impact services to pro se patrons may have on librarian relations with the local bar and judiciary.

Judith A. Flader, Coordinator, Pacific/McGeorge School of Law
Jason Raymond, Coordinator, Wyoming State Law Library
Thomas T. C. Campbell, Circuit Court, First Judicial District
A-4: Treaty-making—Really, Part II
Level: Intermediate 90 minutes
Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services
Target Audience: Librarians who deal with foreign and international legal materials and who want to understand the workings of international relations
Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to differentiate between treaties and executive agreements, their status and the circumstances under which one type of agreement is more appropriate than the other.
2) Participants will be able to identify and describe sources for executive agreements and explain how to access them.

What are U.S. executive agreements, and how do they differ from treaties? When is an international agreement determined to be an executive agreement? Who determines whether an agreement is a treaty or an executive agreement? A member of the Legal Adviser's Office of the U.S. Department of State will compare and contrast executive agreements and treaties, describing the role of the executive branch in negotiating executive agreements with foreign powers and in the drafting and implementation process. The Minority Counsel of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations will discuss the oversight role of Congress over nonbinding agreements and the occasional conflict between the two branches on the form of the agreement. Finally, a senior staff member of the Law Library of Congress will describe the sources of executive agreements and the methods of locating these difficult-to-find materials.

Donna Scheeder, Coordinator and Moderator, Law Library of Congress
Robert Dalton, U.S. Department of State
Robert N. Gee, Law Library of Congress
Brian McKeon, U.S. Senate Committee on Foreign Relations

Level: Intermediate 90 minutes
Competency: Collection Care and Management
Target Audience: Law librarians who have an interest in collection development and/or social issues
Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to demonstrate how socially responsive collections support the mission of the special library.
2) Participants will understand how to build a socially responsive law library collection.

Collection development isn't what it used to be. As our societal values change, visionary librarians have developed special collections that support research on a variety of social issues. The law does not exist in a vacuum, as social and legal issues often overlap. Hence, collection development strategies should be responsive to our social realities. Librarians from three libraries that exemplify this ideal of social responsibility in collection development will speak about why and how their collections were started. These collections include the Williams Project at the UCLA School of Law, which facilitates scholarship in the area of sexual orientation law and public policy; the University of Texas at Austin School of Law's collection on Law in Popular Culture, which supports research on the popular image of law in our society; and the National Death Penalty Archive at the University at Albany (State University of New York), which supports research on the history of capital punishment.

Larry Reeves, Coordinator, Loyola Law School, William M. Rains Library
Courtney Selby, Moderator, University of Tulsa, College of Law, Mahre Legal Information Center
Amy Atchison, UCLA School of Law, Hugh & Hazel Darling Law Library
Brian Kough, University at Albany, SUNY
Roy M. Mersky, University of Texas at Austin, Jamail Center for Legal Research
B-1: Deadwood: The Power of Film to Teach Foundations in Native American Treaty Law and U.S. Territorial Law

Level: Intermediate 75 minutes

Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services

Target Audience: Individuals who use audiovisual materials to enhance education, as well as librarians and legal professionals who are involved with Native American treaty law or U.S. territorial law.

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to explain how audiovisual materials can facilitate the achievement of complex learning objectives.
2) Participants will be able to identify historical Native American treaty law and U.S. territorial government issues.

The 1874-1879 development of territorial government in the Black Hills and the virtually simultaneous federal government's renegotiation of the Treaty of Laramie with the Sioux, serves as a case study for understanding analogous issues in current law. This program will demonstrate the educational opportunities afforded by audiovisual materials, as it draws upon the powerful images of the HBO series Deadwood to explain historical federal government responses to territorial encroachment and mine claims, local efforts to gain federal recognition of land claims, and territorial government. The session will also show the federal government tactics to pressure the Sioux to cede their Black Hills.

Laura Ray, Coordinator and Speaker, Cleveland State University, Cleveland Marshall College of Law Library
Robert Mead, University of Kansas, Wheat Law Library
Victoria Sutton, Texas Tech University, School of Law

B-2: Los Archivos de las Indias: Judicial and Legislative Information from the Spanish Colonial Period in the United States

Level: Intermediate 75 minutes

Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services

Target Audience: Librarians, archivists and historians involved with Colonial Spanish materials and research

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will learn about the basic administrative and judicial framework of the Spanish colonial system in North America, as well as the available types of information concerning the legal and political life in the Southern and Southwestern United States under Spanish rule.
2) Participants will be able to identify sources of Spanish archival information in the United States, Spain and the Caribbean.

The Spanish empire established and maintained colonies in the Americas from 1492 until the early 1800s. Spanish possessions within the present boundaries of the United States were very distant from the major government centers such as Mexico City and Lima. When Spain ceded its U.S. colonies, many records were removed or destroyed, resulting in enormous challenges for one seeking information often critical to litigating water and property disputes successfully. The speakers will present an overview of the Spanish colonial administration, as well as an account of accessible Spanish colonial archives and effective methods for locating this information in those archives.

Christopher A. Vallandingham, Coordinator and Speaker, University of Florida
Bruce Chappell, University of Florida, Department of Special and Area Collections

B-3: Preservation Surveys by the Book: Seven Librarians Strategize Ways to Add Value to Their Collections

Level: Intermediate 75 minutes

Competency: Collection Care and Management

Target Audience: Law librarians who are responsible for decision-making about preservation issues

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to describe how to conduct a preservation survey.
2) Participants will be able to list at least five potential hazards to their collections.

Seven law libraries undertook a 10-month collaborative project to conduct in-house preservation surveys using the Northeast Document Conservation Center's “Assessing Preservation Needs: A Self-Survey Guide.” Together, they identified which of the 26 included worksheets would be mandatory for each library and decided on common deadlines. Individually, they analyzed climate control, building security, fire protection and other areas that affect long-term preservation. One librarian will describe preservation surveys in general and the group’s cooperative process. Three group members will have a dialogue on their findings and compare project notes. This session will show how nonpreservation specialists took straightforward forms and discovered all the information they needed to write a dynamic preservation plan to address problems and deficiencies.

Patricia K. Turpening, Coordinator and Speaker, University of Cincinnati, College of Law, Robert S. Marx Law Library
Sally H. Wambold, Moderator, University of Richmond, School of Law Library

Level: Intermediate
75 minutes

Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services

Target Audience: The program will have broad appeal to all members of our profession, but it will be of specific interest to law librarians, law library directors and attorneys who seek to expand significantly their access to foreign, international, comparative and U.S. legal materials and who seek opportunities to provide leadership in the field of law librarianship through the development of collaborative initiatives with the Law Library of Congress.

Learning Outcomes:

1) Participants will be able to assess how the American Bar Association’s vision for the Law Library of Congress as a National Law Library can most effectively be shaped and utilized to benefit their own institutions and their ability to serve their constituents.

2) Participants will be able to identify and explore with Law Library of Congress management how the participants and their constituents can best benefit from partnering and working with the largest law library in the world.

Whether your constituent is a member of Congress, judge, member of the legal community, or the general public, chances are that the foreign, international, comparative and U.S. legal materials needed are available at the Law Library of Congress. This program will explore how the Law Library of Congress can best serve as a resource for libraries throughout the United States and global community. The law librarian of Congress will describe his vision for the future, as well as the changes the Law Library of Congress has undergone to meet the challenges of the 21st century. He will discuss the impact of ever-changing new technologies that are fueling rising expectations, while facing continuing budget constraints.

The President of the ABA Standing Committee on the Law Library of Congress will describe bold ways in which the Law Library of Congress could expand its primary mission to Congress, as well as the executive and judicial branches of government and the legal community throughout the United States, to become a National Law Library and the nation’s premier center for international, comparative and foreign law research. The director of law library services will expand on how the Law Library wishes to serve as a catalyst for collaborative projects as a way of opening a dialogue with the law library community. Additionally, the director of legal research will discuss the value of international and foreign comparative analysis and explore how the directorate of legal research can better provide in-depth research and legal reports to the legal community.

B-5: Now Serving at the Centennial Cantina: Margaritas, Nachos and AALL History

Level: Introductory
75 minutes

Competency: Core Competencies for Law Librarianship

Target Audience: Law librarians with all levels of experience as well as others interested in the history of AALL and the law librarianship profession

Learning Outcomes:

1) Participants will learn about key events and individuals in AALL’s nearly 100 years of existence.

2) Participants will be more aware of the significance of the AALL Centennial celebration in 2005-06 to them as law library professionals.

This program is designed both to help raise awareness of AALL’s Centennial celebration in 2005-06, and to expose attendees to the knowledge, wisdom and wit of some of AALL’s most valued and “experienced” members in an informal, informative and entertaining session of “living” oral history. “Overheard at the Bar” is based on a format that has been successfully used in the past: five or six AALL “veterans” sit together as if at a table in a hotel bar and chat about their experiences in AALL and law librarianship. The audience “eavesdrops” on the relaxed exchange as if they were at the next table in the bar.

C-1: Raise Your Standards, Improve Your World and Create Universal Web Pages
Level: Intermediate  60 minutes
Competency: Information Technology
Target Audience: Librarians who are responsible for designing or supervising designers of Web pages

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to assess the value of designing accessible Web pages that comply with Web standards and can be viewed on a computer, PDA or phone.
2) Participants will be able to list several types of Web standards and identify methods of separating design from content on their Web pages using CSS (Cascading Style Sheets), XHTML and templates.

Patrons no longer connect to the Internet solely through a laptop or desktop computer. Increasingly people view Web pages through PDAs, screen readers and even phones. They expect constantly fresh content and design. This presents a challenge for Web designers, since they must create and continually update pages that work in many different environments without exhausting themselves and their resources. This program will demonstrate how Web standards separate content from design, which enables you to create universally accessible Web pages while making it easier to update your site.

June Liebert, Coordinator and Speaker, University of Texas at Austin
David J. Cook, University of Texas at Austin

C-2: Finding Government Documents Today
Level: Introductory  60 minutes
Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services
Target Audience: Public service librarians who search for and assist patrons with government documents

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to identify four strategies to locate online federal government publications.
2) Participants will be able to compare and explain four sources of online federal government publications.

The government documents world has been digitized and electrified as the Federal Depository Library Program moves away from the distribution of titles in paper. What does this mean for reference librarians who are not documents specialists, but need to navigate the .gov universe? Ever feel you are looking for docs in all the wrong places? In this fast-paced and practical program, two experienced documents and reference librarians will share sites, tips and techniques for finding federal government documents in an ever-expanding online environment.

C-3: Basic Legal Reference for Non-law-librarian Librarians: An Outreach Program
Level: Intermediate  60 minutes
Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services
Target Audience: Academic/state, court and county law librarians

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will learn the logistics involved in creating a basic legal reference outreach program targeting nonlaw librarians.
2) Participants will learn how to create the format and content of a basic legal reference outreach program for nonlaw librarians.

Public, academic, prison and school librarians are often called upon to assist patrons with law-related questions. Lacking a background in legal research, they are put in a position where they are expected to assist these patrons, as well as select appropriate tools to address any law-related questions that may arise. The University of Nebraska Law Librarians have developed a successful outreach program to address these issues: how to assist patrons in researching legal questions and how to choose appropriate tools. This session will provide participants the opportunity to learn how to create an outreach program to teach non-law-librarian librarians basic legal reference/research skills. Participants will learn the logistics of marketing and implementing such a program, a teaching format for the program and a suggested curriculum.

C-4: Improving Your Virtual Reference Service
Level: Intermediate  60 minutes
Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services
Target Audience: Librarians who participate in virtual reference service and want to improve their service by learning evaluation techniques and upgrading online reference interview skills
Strategize! Values • Visions • Vistas

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to develop a plan to evaluate virtual reference sessions and translate the results to better improve library service.
2) Participants will be able to analyze and identify five essential reference interview skills and how they transfer from the traditional to an online environment.

Virtual or online chat reference is a concept being embraced by libraries of all types as a way to provide quality service to patrons that goes beyond the structure of their buildings. Participating librarians today face a range of challenges, including managing technology-driven expectations and turning them into experiences that will benefit library users. Two of the most needed skills to achieve patron satisfaction are completing a good reference interview and evaluation techniques. Unfortunately, these are both often lost in the electronic environment. This program will focus on two major training needs: evaluation of service and the transferability of more traditional reference skills, especially question manipulation and communication, from face-to-face reference transactions to the virtual environment.

Sarah Sabasteanski, Coordinator and Speaker, Los Angeles County Law Library
Molly Solazzo, Orange County Public Law Library

C-5: Roy Tennant on the Top Trends in Library Systems

Level: Intermediate 60 minutes

Competency: Information Technology
Target Audience: All systems and technical services librarians who want to keep current with their profession

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to identify the latest trends in library system administration.
2) Participants will be able to analyze what technology advances will benefit their library.

Roy Tennant, author of Managing the Digital Library and famous for his provocative columns in Library Journal, will elaborate on his call for the "death of MARC." He will provide systems and technical services librarians with updates on the latest trends in the field.

Georgia Briscoe, Coordinator and Moderator, University of Colorado Law Library

D-1: The Great Disappearing Act: Preserving URLs Cited in Judicial Opinions

Level: Intermediate 60 minutes

Competency: Collection Care and Management
Target Audience: Court librarians who are concerned about the stability of Web citations and their access to source information that is only available electronically

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will learn about the history and instability of URL citations in court opinions.
2) Participants will learn why and when an appellate court judge cites an URL in an opinion.
3) Participants will compare various methods of preserving and accessing URLs cited in judicial opinions.

Librarians know that researchers seek out the sources cited within appellate opinions. The use of URLs in court opinions is a new challenge. Coleen M. Barger in “On the Internet, Nobody Knows You’re a Judge: Appellate Courts’ Use of Internet Materials” 4 J. of Appellate Prac. and Proc. 417 (No. 2, Fall 2002) warns about the instability of Web citations. The article points out that 84.6 percent of the URLs cited by federal appellate judges are no longer accessible on the Web and that Internet citation instability is as significant a problem for recent opinions as for older ones. Our speakers will address why judges cite URLs on the Internet and what strategies libraries should employ to ensure that this information is accessible when needed.

D-2: Moving and Downsizing Private Law Firm Libraries: Drive the Process Through Strategic Leadership

Level: Advanced 60 minutes

Competency: Library Management
Target Audience: Private law firm librarians
Learning Outcomes:

1. Participants will benefit from hearing real-life experiences and leave with the tools necessary to lead this often painful, difficult and potentially political process.

2. Participants will learn to create a plan that best meets the firm's needs, align with key decision makers, handle the period leading up to the move including last-minute design changes and staff anxiety, survive the day(s) of the move and evaluate the move.

As law firms remodel, build out or move to new locations, the library is often downsized in the process. However, a move is an excellent time for librarians to take a strategic leadership role in the firm in order to preserve the library's important function. This program will examine how librarians in a management role can showcase their business savvy and forward-thinking mentality during firm changes. Rather than sit back and accept what is presented to them, attendees will learn how to make a case for a library that best meets the business needs of the firm and its attorneys.

D-3: Specialized Legal Research Courses: When Advanced Legal Research Isn't Enough

Level: Advanced 60 minutes

Competency: Teaching
Target Audience: Academic, law firm and court law librarians who are interested in teaching legal research to law students
Learning Outcomes:

1. Participants will be able to prepare a proposal for a specialized advanced legal research course for a law school curriculum committee review.

2. Participants will be able to describe successful strategies in designing and implementing a specialized legal research course.

With the increasing specialization of law firm practice groups, there is a growing need to tailor legal research courses to specialized practice areas such as environmental, tax and labor law. Typical advanced legal research courses have too much content to provide in-depth coverage of any one topical area. This presentation will highlight the specialized advanced legal research courses developed at the University of Kansas and Boston College. The speakers will emphasize successful strategies for gaining permission from curriculum committees to teach specialized research courses. Additionally, the speakers will suggest useful course elements including syllabi and assignments.

D-4 Copyrights, Copywrongs and the Gray Areas In-between

Level: Intermediate 60 minutes

Competency: Library Management
Target Audience: Law librarians who have some knowledge of copyright and who need to develop and/or explain their library’s policies regarding copyright; librarians who are interested in copyright issues
Learning Outcomes:

1. Participants will be able to identify fact situations that potentially lead to copyright problems.

2. Participants will be able to articulate AALL model policies and their own library policies/procedures that address copyright issues.

The adoption of new technologies combined with changes in the copyright law in recent years have resulted in many gray areas in the application of copyright law to the library setting. Each session of Congress brings new legislation affecting copyright. Access that used to be governed by copyright is now controlled by technology and/or licensing. Long-standing doctrines like “fair use” and “first sale” are being reinterpreted. Meanwhile, technology has enabled library staff to disseminate information in new and exciting ways and to create their own derivative works and/or compilations. Where does this leave the librarians who must provide leadership and create policies to address the intersections of these issues? This program will look at recent developments in copyright law relevant to the management of your library.

D-5: “Don’t Throw That Away!”: Ensuring Future Access to Legal Information in an Age of Digital Media

Level: Intermediate 60 minutes

Competency: Collection Care and Management

Target Audience: Librarians who are responsible for collection development at libraries and institutions that have switched, or are considering switching, their data storage technology to electronic media

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be alerted to little known possible long-term consequences of maintaining and archiving electronic information that, in previous data storage media, did not pose the same difficulties.
2) Participants will be able to create long-term strategies and policies that will help them adapt to long-term information retrieval difficulties inherent in electronic media, and to ensure access to this material regardless of future changes in media and vendors.

With ever-shrinking budgets, many law libraries are turning to electronic versions of material that formally were archived in hard copies. However, due to their digital nature, it is uncertain that this material will be preserved. This panel will 1) review and evaluate how libraries are dealing with the challenge of providing long term access to digital material; 2) discuss possible solutions being developed, such as NDIIP funded web archiving for government and legal information; and 3) discuss the efforts of the Legal Information Preservation Alliance (LIPA) to provide leadership and organizational frameworks for libraries that are preserving materials.

D-6: Publishing Outside the Law Library Box: Opportunities Beyond Law Library Publications

Level: Intermediate 60 minutes

Competency: Core Competencies for Law Librarianship

Target Audience: Librarians who wish to publish in non-law library-related publications, particularly those librarians who have already written for law library publications and those coming to their job as a second or third career with experience in other fields such as law, technology or teaching

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to identify various non-law library markets for their publication efforts.
2) Participants will hear how to apply the practical advice offered by the speakers in order to write articles with the above-mentioned publishing outlets in mind.

Be it for tenure, public relations or simply professional interest, getting published is a goal of many law librarians. Previous excellent programs have aimed at assisting new and new-to-writing law librarians in getting published, primarily in law library publications. This program seeks to expand on those programs by providing information on publishing for non-law library markets. Speakers will share how they made their start in or transition to writing for law reviews, bar journals and technology journals, as well as authoring books and CLE materials, and answer questions from the audience.

E-1: A Town Meeting with Public Printer Bruce James and Superintendent of Documents Judy Russell: GPO’s Strategic Plan for the 21st Century and New Partnerships with Law Libraries

Level: Intermediate 60 minutes

Competency: Information Technology

Target Audience: Users of government information from all types of law libraries; law librarians who manage and use electronic federal government information

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will evaluate GPO’s roles and responsibilities in the 21st century for the virtual Federal Depository Library Program and the GPO Access system in light of its mission of “informing the nation.”
2) Participants will be able to measure GPO’s effectiveness in meeting the needs of the public in the digital environment by ensuring the life cycle of electronic government information.

The transition of the Federal Depository Library Program (FDLP) in the past decade into an almost totally electronic program has enormous implications for both depository and nondepository law libraries. Public Printer Bruce James and Superintendent of Documents Judy Russell have transformed the Government Printing Office (GPO) and the FDLP in innovative ways that provide enhanced electronic access to both current and historic government information.

GPO’s new strategic plan reflects the agency’s determination to move all government information to the Internet, develop user-friendly and comprehensive finding tools, and ensure the permanent public access, authenticity, and preservation of electronic government information. AALL is honored to welcome Superintendent of Documents Judy Russell for a dialog with our community about her vision for public access and the Federal Depository Library Program in the 21st century, as well as the role of law libraries in achieving the goals of GPO’s new strategic plan.

E-2: Form and Function: The Basics of Designing and Building Your Law Library

Level: Intermediate 60 minutes

Competency: Library Management

Target Audience: Law library directors, managers or other staff who are currently involved or anticipate becoming involved with the design and construction or renovation of a law library

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will understand the design and build process involving the collection of background information, as well as the architect’s focus, drawings and language.
2) Participants will be better able to mesh the library’s and organization’s needs and priorities.

The librarian and architect share the same goal: to create the best possible facility. However, law librarians are not often full participants in the design and building of their new or renovated facility. Collaborative interaction between the librarian and architect is most beneficial when they both understand the factors that contribute to the project. The speakers will address the design and building timeline, architectural and library language, architectural plans and drawings, and the librarian’s perspective and contribution. Common mistakes and pitfalls will also be reviewed.

E-3: Managing for Cultural Diversity

Level: Intermediate 60 minutes

Competency: Library Management

Target Audience: Managers and supervisors who work with minority employees; people who wish to develop knowledge and/or skills to work effectively with a diverse workforce

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to identify the diverse styles in which employees of various cultures or ethnicities communicate and interact in the workplace. Examples include participation in meetings, receiving and offering instructions/suggestions, and relating to supervisors, peers, and subordinates.
2) Participants will be able to use their new knowledge of diverse communication styles and apply these skills to communicate and interact more effectively with their staff, particularly with minority employees.

Eye contact, body language, manner of speaking and interacting with co-workers may vary greatly depending on a person’s cultural or ethnic background. Misunderstood, these stylistic variations in communication may be viewed negatively, causing frustration for both the employer and employee. In a profession predominated by white supervisors and managers, it is crucial for people in authority to understand cultural or ethnic differences in communications and to be able to create an environment that supports and values all communication styles. This program seeks to raise the awareness of all employers, particularly among nonminority managers and supervisors, so that they can work with minority employees more productively.

E-4: Marketing, Schmarketing!

Level: Introductory 60 minutes

Competency: Library Management
Target Audience: Law firm librarians and other librarians

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to revitalize their library program by improving their marketing strategies.
2) Participants will leave this program with concrete promotional ideas they can immediately use.

Marketing is such a buzzword that librarians shy away from using it, but good marketing tactics can pay off in increased attendance to training programs, elevated awareness of library programs and services, and increased library support. But where do good ideas come from? Here is a chance to listen to the experiences and ideas of two law firm librarians from Washington, D.C. who have used creative marketing ideas to their advantage. They will share their success stories and the ideas that crashed and burned, along with the reasons behind both. From National Library Week ideas to Limerick Contests to April Fools Jokes gone horribly wrong, this session will provide numerous ideas to help you market and promote your library throughout the year.

E-5: STRENGTHS, PROBLEMS, OPPORTUNITIES AND THREATS (SPOT): Analyzing the Dynamics of a Successful Library Organization

Level: Intermediate 60 minutes

Competency: Library Management
Target Audience: Law librarians, especially managers and reference librarians

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will learn how to use a SPOT analysis to identify and analyze the Strengths and Problems of their organizations, as well as the Opportunities and Threats revealed by the information they gather on their external environment.
2) Participants will be able to use the elements of the SPOT analysis to prepare or amend plans for problem-solving and decision-making.

When conducting strategic planning for any library, whether online and/or off line, it is useful to complete an analysis that takes into account not only your own library, but also your competitor’s. A “SPOT” analysis is one such analysis. SPOT stands for Strengths, Problems, Opportunities and Threats. Completing a SPOT analysis helps you identify ways to minimize the affect of problems in your library while maximizing your strengths. Ideally, you will match your strengths against market opportunities.

F-1: AALL/LexisNexis® Call for Papers

60 minutes

Competency: Core Competencies for Law Librarianship

The Call for Papers promotes scholarship, provides an outlet for creativity and recognizes the scholarly efforts of established, new and potential members of AALL. The 2005 winners of the AALL/LexisNexis® Call for Papers competition will discuss their award-winning papers and provide insights into their writing process. New Division: David Hollander will discuss his paper, "Jewish Law for the Law Librarian." Open Division: 1) Virginia Kelsh will discuss her paper, "Build It Right and They Will Come: The Librarian’s Role in Library Construction"; 2) Karen S. Beck will discuss her paper, "A Working Lawyer’s Life: The Letter Book of John Henry Senter." Following each presentation, a panel consisting of AALL/LexisNexis® Call for Papers 2004-05 committee members and the editor of Law Library Journal will query the authors regarding their papers and the writing process. Criteria for accepting papers for publication and tips how to get started writing will be shared.

F-2: Nabbing vs. Sharing: Z39.50 and the Ethics of Directly Importing MARC Records

Level: Introductory
60 minutes

Competency: Core Competencies for Law Librarianship

Target Audience: Librarians who are concerned with the ethical dimensions of sharing MARC records

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to decide if using Z39.50 in their catalog department is good practice for their library.
2) Participants will be able to identify unethical library practices involving Z39.50.

The Z39.50 protocol allows librarians to search multiple online library catalogs and import MARC records from other libraries. Ethical questions arise when the hard work of one library is appropriated by another, bypassing OCLC or RLIN. Z39.50 will be introduced and the simplicity of the procedure demonstrated. The director of cataloging products from OCLC will explain their concerns. Two prominent library directors will debate the benefits and costs of using Z39.50 in their libraries.

Level: Intermediate
60 minutes

Competency: Information Technology

Target Audience: Public, private and academic law librarians who extensively use government Web sites to locate government information

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will learn how to evaluate different approaches to ensuring permanent public access to electronic government publications.
2) Participants will be able to develop methods to encourage state governments to preserve electronic government information.

One of the most important developments concerning the Internet has been the rapid embracing of this new technology by government at all levels—federal, state and local—to provide the public with access to government information. Unfortunately, most state governments fail to recognize the need to ensure that electronic government information will be preserved for permanent public access. In 2003, the Government Relations Committee comprehensively documented this problem in its “State-by-State Report on Permanent Public Access to Electronic Government Information.” This program will explore efforts by members of the Government Relations Committee to ensure that state governments take steps to reverse this trend. Committee members will discuss developments and efforts underway in Montana and New Jersey.

F-4: “The Guide to Fair Business Practices”: Where Do We Go from Here?

Level: Intermediate
60 minutes

Competency: Library Management
Target Audience: Librarians who have relationships with information vendors

Learning Outcomes:
1. Participants will learn how to use the guide effectively in negotiations with information vendors and in problem solving with them.
2. Participants will explore the guide’s future use between the librarian and publishing/vendor communities in order to discover the best possible outcome for its usage.

During this session, panel members will discuss the future of “The Guide to Fair Business Practices” and its use in building relationships between libraries and information vendors. The session will explore how to best utilize the guide in negotiations and relationships, and how to implement the guide in order to hold vendors accountable.

F-5: Partnering for Shared Success

Level: Intermediate
60 minutes

Competency: Library Management
Target Audience: Librarians who want to build additional relationships within their organizations

Learning Outcomes:
1. Participants will learn how to interact with other departments within their organizations.
2. Participants will be able to increase their visibility within their organizations.

Do you know how to increase your sphere of influence? Who will be your next champion? Librarians face challenging circumstances in the current law firm environment. We all need to have an understanding of what we can do to communicate our value to our organizations more effectively. This program will provide an opportunity to share strategies for partnering with other firm departments (conflicts, recruiting, marketing, IT, training, accounting, HR, etc.) to better work toward common goals/objectives. The speakers will explain how to communicate this strategy to management and how partnering will affect the perceived value of the library within the entire firm.

F-6: Realizing Visions and Valuing History: Twenty Years of the Standing Committee for Lesbian and Gay Issues

Level: Introductory
60 minutes

Competency: Core Competencies for Law Librarianship
Target Audience: Librarians and members who are interested in lesbian and gay issues, the history of AALL, or the formation of standing committees within AALL

Learning Outcomes:
1. Participants will hear about the history of the Standing Committee for Lesbian and Gay Issues—who the players were and why it was needed.
2. Participants will understand the value of the Standing Committee for Lesbian and Gay Issues and what it offers AALL members.

In the early 1980s, a handful of law librarians had a vision for AALL as an inclusive organization on the forefront of anti-discrimination. In 1985, that vision began to be realized when the Contemporary Social Problems (now Social Responsibilities) Special Interest Section of AALL approved a Standing Committee for Lesbian and Gay Issues (SCLGI). Over the last 20 years, the SCLGI has continued to realize this vision by presenting 15 educational programs, publishing a bibliography on sexual orientation and the law, proposing anti-discrimination member resolutions, encouraging the inclusion of sexual orientation to the Association’s anti-discrimination policy, and encouraging the AALL Executive Board to cancel a proposed annual meeting in Denver after the state’s passage of an anti-gay proposition. Together these actions make for a rich history that has greatly enhanced the value of AALL. Each panelist is a pioneer, instrumental in the formation of SCLGI and its efforts to promote nondiscrimination in our profession. Together these visionaries demonstrate how the foresight of individuals brought and continues to bring value to AALL. Imagine our five pioneers as if sitting around the campfire at the end of a long day, staring across a beautiful vista, casting back to their pioneering efforts to establish the SCLGI and promote nondiscrimination in our profession. The audience will be part of this casual campfire reminiscence, listening to the panelists’ experiences, visions and ideas for the vistas ahead.

G-1: So, Now You’ve Got an IP Practice
Level: Intermediate 75 minutes
Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services
Target Audience: Librarians in a full-service law firm who must support an Intellectual Property (IP) practice
Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants who are new to IP will be able to identify the research and documentary delivery resources necessary to support an IP practice.
2) Participants will be able to list the print and electronic titles constituting a core collection for an IP practice.

Several members of the Intellectual Property Librarians Caucus (PLL-SIS Caucus) will discuss resources needed to support an intellectual property (IP) practice. They will help participants new to intellectual property get acclimated by discussing best practices, available resources and the necessary core collection for intellectual property.

G-2: Room at the Top: Strategy Tips from the Hiring Squad
Level: Intermediate 75 minutes
Competency: Core Competencies for Law Librarianship
Target Audience: Librarians who want to position themselves for promotion to middle management, associate director or director levels
Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to identify the challenges in achieving leadership positions.
2) Participants will be able to apply the hiring tips given to position themselves for advancement.

With the “baby boomers” approaching retirement age, many openings for upper-level law library positions will become available. This program will address how you can professionally position yourself as an attractive candidate for these openings. The speakers in this program will offer guidelines on how to prepare yourself realistically and creatively for advancement: what criteria the “hiring squad” is looking for in potential candidates, what professional activities candidates should be cultivating for advancement, and what challenges candidates face in achieving leadership positions. Other topics will include creating marketing skills to use with prospective employers, defining realistic advancement goals, and designing an effective strategy to achieve those goals.

G-3: Indexes, Taxonomies and the Google Generation: What You Don’t Know Will Hurt You

Level: Introductory 75 minutes

Competency: Core Competencies for Law Librarianship

Target Audience: Librarians who are interested in how the use of online classification schemes such as taxonomies and indexes can improve search results.

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will learn how the use of human-created classification in online databases can save time and improve accuracy.
2) Participants will be able to compare success rates between the use of indexes or taxonomies and full-text searching.

When electronic replaces print, you can find everything you need through word searches, right? A once widely held belief is put to the test. The panel will share experiences comparing the results of research tasks attempted by users with and without the aid of an index or taxonomy. The session will also feature a discussion of the West Key numbering system by two publishers who build and study the use of online classification schemes and a firm librarian and an academic librarian who work with attorneys and students conducting online searches. This program will highlight some of the pitfalls of relying only on full-text searching and serve as a reminder of the value of human input in organizing and classifying legal information in the digital age.

G-4: The ABCs of TOCs: Enhancing Your OPAC with Tables of Contents

Level: Intermediate 75 minutes

Competency: Collection Care and Management

Target Audience: Librarians who are concerned with providing enhanced access to materials via the library’s catalog

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will know at least three methods of adding tables of contents to their catalogs.
2) Participants will be able to identify at least three access, display, and/or implementation issues to consider before providing tables of contents in their catalogs.

In an effort to increase access, library catalogs are beginning to offer a variety of useful enhancements. One increasingly common enhancement is the addition of table of contents information to bibliographic records. While this information can create a more informative display and tremendously enlarged keyword access, this seemingly simple addition generates many issues to consider. Seasoned cataloging librarians will share their experiences using a variety of sources (both free and via vendors) to obtain table of contents information. In addition, the speakers will explore the display, indexing, authority control and workflow ramifications of adding this information to bibliographic records.

G-5: Mexican Americans and the Law

Level: Introductory 75 minutes

Competency: Core Competencies for Law Librarianship

Target Audience: Law librarians

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will analyze current legal issues facing Mexican Americans.
2) Participants will obtain a list of major resources on legal issues facing Mexican Americans.

The co-authors of the new book, Mexican Americans and the Law: ¡El Pueblo Unido Jamás Será Vencido!, will engage in a panel discussion on major legal issues facing Mexican Americans today—their struggle for educational equality, language rights, voting rights, affirmative action, immigration, gender and criminal justice issues. The authors will also discuss the transformation of this book into a traditional casebook for law students (available in Fall 2005). The panel presentation will be supplemented by a legal research guide and bibliography.

H-1: Navigating the Maze of U.S. Treaty Research: Strategies for Finding Treaties, Treaty Actions and Interpretive Materials

Level: Introductory 60 minutes

Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services

Target Audience: Academic and firm librarians who need to locate treaty sources for international law and supporting documentation

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will learn to identify and evaluate research tools for locating treaties.
2) Participants will be able to describe the treaty framework of international law.

From mail service to international air transport, intercountry adoption and free trade agreements, provisions of bilateral or multilateral treaties govern the movement of goods, services and persons across national borders. The expanding network of international treaty obligations requires that the local practitioner, as well as the international corporate attorney, be prepared to locate treaties, status and signatory information, and interpretive materials. Without an up-to-date, official U.S. treaty collection, the researcher must use a variety of sources to locate a treaty. This program will identify in all formats treaty indexes, full text collections and materials that update and interpret U.S. treaty obligations.

H-2: Hot Topic: Identity Theft and Personal Identifying Information

Level: Introductory 60 minutes

Competency: Core Competencies for Law Librarianship

Target Audience: Librarians who have access to personal identifying information

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will learn what identity theft is and how to protect themselves.
2) Participants will become aware of the security measures they have to take when utilizing services from information brokers that contain personal identifying information.

Identity theft is one of the fastest growing crimes in the country. Librarians are in a unique position; we rely on databases containing personal identifying information to do our jobs, but the very information we use can also make us potential victims of identity theft. The news is full of stories everyday about lapses in security surrounding sensitive consumer data. As a result, legislators at all levels of government are drafting legislation to better protect this information. This program will focus on identity theft, protecting yourself, what to do if you are a victim and what our responsibilities are as information professionals.

H-3: Prove Your Worth: Computing Library Value

Level: Advanced 60 minutes

Competency: Library Management

Target Audience: Librarians who need to demonstrate the value of their services and collections or librarians who must justify their library or position

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to identify ways to measure the value of information.
2) Participants will be able to compute specific dollar values for library services that administrators can easily understand.

This program will provide an overview of measures for computing the value of information. It will also suggest ways to compute specific numbers when asked what the library accomplishes. Participants will learn how to provide answers with specific facts, figures and detailed analysis. In addition, attendees will be armed with methods to demonstrate cost savings and avoided costs for reference services, document delivery and routing services. For example, attendees will learn how one library director was able to demonstrate a benefits to cost ratio of 12:1 and an annual return on investment of $7.6 million.

H-4: Federated Searching and OpenURL

Level: Introductory 60 minutes

Competency: Information Technology

Target Audience: Librarians who are interested in learning how federated searching provides a single, unified interface to multiple products, resulting in better use of resources; librarians who are interested in learning the fundamentals of the OpenURL standard

Learning Outcomes:

1) Participants will be able to explain what federated search services are and their impact on libraries.
2) Participants will be able to apply the OpenURL standard and other linking initiatives that relate to these new services.

Are you ready to provide the next level of library searching services to your users? Federated searching is the next generation in library services on the Web. The speaker will describe how federated searching provides a single, unified interface to multiple products resulting in the better use of resources. Current federated search services will be discussed, as well as how to implement a federated search service in your library. The speaker will also talk about how the OpenURL standard and other linking initiatives relate to these new services.

H-5: e-Rulemaking: Breaking Out of the Beltway

Level: Intermediate 60 minutes

Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services

Target Audience: Firm, academic and public law librarians

Learning Outcomes:

1) Participants will learn how e-rulemaking will radically overhaul the federal administrative process.
2) Participants will be able to assist patrons in participating in e-rulemakings.

In “creating” the Code of Federal Regulations, agencies use notice and comment rulemaking to flesh out the provisions of congressional enactments. Presently, public participation is largely indirect and controlled by groups based in Washington, D.C. However, the status quo is changing now that agencies are installing electronic docket rooms that display all the comments submitted. This session will look at how the Internet can improve rulemaking transparency by displaying all the background materials in an easily accessible manner. More importantly, new technologies can be used to enhance participation by stakeholders and the public outside Washington, D.C. Web-based mechanisms for notification and commenting online can encourage deliberation and potentially promote greater collaboration between the government and its citizens. Lastly, the program will look at standards for record retention.

H-6: What Is a Core Collection Anymore?

Level: Intermediate 60 minutes

Competency: Collection Care and Management

Target Audience: Academic law librarians who are responsible for budgeting, administration, collection management and technical services

Learning Outcomes:

1) Participants will address the problems of applying American Bar Association Standards 605 and 606 for core collections to today’s information formats.
2) Participants will learn how to build collections that meet the criteria applied by accreditation inspectors.

With shrinking budgets, expanding collections and the transition toward collecting in electronic vs. traditional formats in the past decade, what does the core collection look like today? Will “access” in any format suffice with regard to ABA standards? Is a core list of titles as applicable today as it was years ago, and if so, what are they? Does the concept of a core list even still exist today? Panelists will introduce these issues from the perspectives of the ABA as well as acquisitions/collection development librarians. The program will then open into a discussion forum.

I-1: Annual Legislative and Regulatory Update
Level: Intermediate 90 minutes

Competency: Core Competencies for Law Librarianships

Target Audience: AALL members who want updates on government information policy issues, including the work of the AALL Washington Affairs Office; librarians who are interested in information policy and legislative advocacy

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will learn about the activities of the AALL Washington Affairs Office and will be briefed on legislative and information policy issues affecting the Association and librarians.

2) Participants will be able to identify the AALL positions on a variety of information policies.

Continuing a tradition started when the AALL Washington Affairs Office (WAO) was founded, the annual Legislative and Regulatory Affairs Update presents the AALL membership with news about progress with information policy issues and legislative advocacy efforts during the year, as well as pending legislation of particular interest to the membership. A keynote speaker will address a topic of current interest. Two other speakers will explain the positions taken by the WAO on behalf of AALL’s membership and describe their advocacy activities, sometimes in collaboration with other library and information policy organizations, to promote legislation consistent with AALL’s positions.

I-2: Holding Difficult Conversations
Level: Intermediate 90 minutes

Competency: Library Management

Target Audience: Supervisors and managers in all types of libraries

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to identify and explain the five filters that obstruct communication in conflict situations.

2) Participants will practice techniques to manage conflict constructively.

From time to time, we all engage in difficult conversations, whether with patrons at the circulation desk, faculty members or deans, law firm associates or partners in the law firm, or library co-workers. Computer-mediated communications such as e-mail and the familiar “flame war” add further complications to already problematic situations. There is no shortage of management books on techniques such as “active listening” intended to help us learn to manage conflict in communication more productively, but too often these techniques come off as artificial or mechanical and fail to achieve their desired result. This program will offer a practical approach to applied conflict resolution grounded in successful law school teaching and research by renowned dispute resolution expert Michael Moffitt.

I-3: Recover 100 Percent of Online Research Costs
Level: Advanced 90 minutes

Competency: Library Management

Target Audience: Law firm library managers and administrators

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to describe successful strategies for recovering all aspects of online legal research costs.

2) Participants will receive examples of language used in marketing pieces, prior approval for online research letters, and descriptive billing entries to assist with the recovery of the associated costs of online legal research.

Private law librarians from different sized law firms will discuss successful strategies used to meet or exceed their firm’s online costs-recovery goals. Participants will learn strategies for encouraging attorneys who routinely write-down or write-off research costs to become allies in the firm’s recovery efforts through marketing and offering in-house CLE programs that outline cost-effective research and recovery strategies. Librarians will discuss the tools used for recovery efforts and how to craft effective billing descriptions that emphasize the value of online legal research.

I-4: Shrinking Budgets and the Long-term Impact on Library Collections

Level: Intermediate 90 minutes

Competency: Collection Care and Management

Target Audience: Collection development librarians and managers

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will analyze the potential long-term impact of research libraries’ decisions to cancel, not order or turn to electronic sources.
2) Participants will examine some libraries’ responses to shrinking collections budgets and their efforts to minimize potential long-term negative impacts.

Budget pressures are affecting all academic law libraries, big and small. Many libraries are responding to these pressures by cutting print subscriptions and moving toward a more electronic collection. Libraries are also increasing their cooperative efforts and reliance on document delivery/ILL. This program will explore how libraries moving in these directions are changing their definitions of collections and their philosophy regarding ownership vs. access. The program will also include a speaker from a major academic research library who will address how the current budgetary climate is affecting collecting practices and offer suggestions for handling the increased demands upon collections.

J-1: Citing the Unpublished Opinion: The Ohio Change and What It Might Mean to You

Level: Introductory 30 minutes

Competency: Information Technology

Target Audience: Law librarians

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to compare the changes occurring nationwide in court rules allowing citation to unpublished opinions.
2) Participants will be able to describe the effect of Ohio’s recent elimination of the distinction between published and unpublished opinions on Ohio appellate decisions.

Courts nationwide are re-examining rules that forbid or discourage citation of unpublished opinions—the “no-citation” rules. The recent ability of attorneys to have almost comprehensive access to previously “unpublished” cases through electronic databases has forced courts to start rethinking their traditional stance on the matter. For example, Ohio has abolished the precedential distinction between unpublished and published opinions. In order to give access to all cases to all attorneys, the Ohio Supreme Court has begun to publish all appellate opinions on its Web site and has mandated a new citation format to go along with this change. After covering the current status of the movement to abolish the so-called “no-citation” rule and its possible effects on legal research and law libraries, the results of a research project about whether the change in Ohio rules has had any effect on the citation of appellate cases will be presented.

J-2: 30 Cheap Web Development Tools in 30 Minutes
Level: Introductory 30 minutes

Competency: Information Technology
Target Audience: Librarians who are responsible for designing intranets or Web pages

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to identify free and low-cost Web development tools.
2) Participants will be able to use Web development tools to enhance their Web pages.

Librarians of all types use intranets and Web pages to push information to their patrons. Patrons expect to be able to find basic information about a subject or library on the Web. Many librarians are thrown into supervisory or Webmaster roles without a generous supporting budget or much training. This program identifies free and low-cost Web development tools to help librarians improve their Web sites without breaking their budget.

Susan M. Boland, Coordinator and Speaker, Northern Illinois University, College of Law Library

J-3: How to Create a Privacy Policy Statement
Level: Intermediate 30 minutes

Competency: Library Management
Target Audience: Librarians who want to articulate and evaluate protections of reader privacy

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to identify components of a clearly written policy that affirms personal privacy.
2) Participants will be able to alert visitors of library facilities and users of remotely accessed library services to the privacy choices they face.

Traditionally, libraries have championed the protection of personal privacy. Keeping confidential information that associates individuals with their use of library materials can be an articulated part of library service. In this program, a librarian will present a recently adopted policy statement that was drafted by working librarians, reviewed by lawyers and commented on by public privacy advocates. In addition, the audience will hear mini-policy statements about library cards and circulation records, radio frequency identification (RFID); public computer use and the library’s online system; e-mail, Web forms and reference questions; information automatically collected and stored; links from the library’s Web site; network security; and dealings with law enforcement and actions to intercept and obstruct terrorism under the USA Patriot Act. These statements can serve as the springboard for participants to use in creating privacy policy statements for their libraries.

Maria E. Protti, Coordinator and Speaker, City and County of San Francisco

J-4: Health Law in Cyberspace: Visionary Strategy or Recipe for Disaster?
Level: Intermediate 30 minutes

Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services
Target Audience: Reference librarians, especially those whose clientele (whether attorneys or the general public) are interested in health-related issues

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will become familiar with the sheer volume of health law materials available online.
2) Participants will learn about the advantages and dangers of relying on health information on the Internet.

The scope of health law continues to expand, as does the health-law-related topics available on the Internet. Attorneys, the general public and even health care providers now consult the Internet for information on such topics as legal aspects of health care, research guides, medical and scientific information, databases of experts, communications forums and even audio-visual materials. This wealth of information can be a blessing or a curse. Access to the broad scope of materials results in a more informed public, but not all sites are created equal. There is the danger that even sophisticated researchers are not always cognizant of the consequences of relying on some electronic sources. As law librarians serve their patrons seeking information on health law or medical issues, they must become knowledgeable in the area to guide patrons properly to the most appropriate sources. The presentation will be accompanied by an annotated handout listing Web site names and URLs for health industry research sites, health law research sites, and medical and scientific research sites.

J-5: Researching International Marine Environmental Law

Level: Intermediate 30 minutes

Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services

Target Audience: Reference librarians and bibliographers

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to list prominent legal issues concerning the marine environment.
2) Participants will be able to locate relevant legal documents.

Do you value relaxation? Does sunbathing, walking along a seashore or cruising on a luxury liner match your vision of relaxation? Increased marine traffic is threatening these ocean vistas and related commercial enterprises. This program will describe how globalization and international trade are harming the global marine environment. It will detail the work of the International Maritime Organization (IMO) to protect the marine environment from pollution caused by ships. Participants will learn how to find treaties and other IMO information on legal protection of the marine environment. The program will be supplemented by a legal research guide and bibliography.

K-1: Multimedia Presentations: How to Get Copyright Clearance and Other Permissions for Digital Projects

Level: Intermediate 30 minutes

Competency: Information Technology

Target Audience: Teachers and presenters

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will receive a list of legal issues related to multimedia presentations.
2) Participants will receive contact information and tips for overcoming legal hurdles in order to create successful multimedia presentations.

Anticipating legal issues is critical before starting a multimedia project. This session will examine how to get copyright clearance and other permissions for multimedia presentations. In addition, the speaker will discuss intellectual property aspects of using sound and images in digital projects. Following the presentation will be a step-by-step guide on the types of permissions or rights you need and the actual addresses for getting the right to use nonpublic domain works in multimedia presentations. The program will be supplemented by a resources guide on the Computing Services-SIS Web site.

K-2: Is Virtual Reference Right for Me?

Level: Introductory 30 minutes

Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services

Target Audience: Reference librarians and all librarians who assist in patron services

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to evaluate the need for virtual reference services in their libraries.
2) Participants will be able to strengthen and enhance their current virtual reference services.

With virtual reference becoming a new reference tool being used by many academic libraries, law libraries are beginning to evaluate their current services and how they can use virtual reference. This program will provide participants with the tools for evaluating the need for virtual reference and for enhancing current virtual reference services.

Patricia A. Kidd, Coordinator and Speaker, Howard University Law Library

K-3: Beating the Boredom Blues: How to Give Presentations Without Putting Your Audience to Sleep

Level: Introductory 30 minutes

Competency: Teaching

Target Audience: Librarians and other professionals who communicate to groups in formal or informal settings

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be introduced to effective presentation strategies and the reasons behind their success.
2) Participants will learn to identify and correct weaknesses in their presentation styles.

Librarians possess great information, but sometimes tend to lull audiences to sleep with the delivery of that information. Good information is not enough! They must effectively deliver the information as well. This program will show ways to improve public speaking and communication skills so that the important information isn’t drowned out by the sound of snoring.

K-4: Beyond the Blog: RSS, Wikis and Blikis

Level: Intermediate 30 minutes

Competency: Information Technology

Target Audience: Librarians who want to get a handle on all the blogs they read and who want to participate in collaborative projects

Learning Outcomes:

1) Participants will be able to identify current law and research RSS feeds and Wiki projects that will help them stay up to date.

2) Participants will be able to create their own RSS syndicators and Wiki projects.

By now, most of us have heard of “blogs.” Many librarians use them to help stay current. But with ever-increasing numbers of legal and research blogs from which to choose, how can you possibly keep track of them all? RSS (Really Simple Syndication) feeds can help you organize your favorite blogs in one place with little time and effort. This session will show you several available programs and offer pointers about how to find new feeds.

Although blogs help to organize information, they are not an ideal solution for long-term projects. Enter “wikis” and “blikis.” Wikis (from a Hawaiian word meaning “fast”) are sites especially designed for collaborative information projects. They can be set up quickly and edited by any project member. Blikis are crosses between blogs and wikis—metablogs that can be edited by blog participants. This program will also demonstrate how wikis and blikis are already used in research and in the law, as well as how you can create them yourself.

As the banking and securities industries have grown and evolved over the last decade, the insurance industry has become an influential partner. Law librarians in corporate as well as academic libraries need to know more about how to locate insurance materials. This program will be presented by an insurance law specialist who provides support to the only Insurance Law LLM program in the United States. The speaker will present information regarding how to locate insurance information on the Internet and will provide an introduction to the breadth of the insurance collection held at the University of Connecticut School of Law Library.

L-1: Use e-Instruction to Make Class Time More Interactive

Level: Introductory 30 minutes

Competency: Teaching

Target Audience: Teachers and presenters who want more student participation

Learning Outcomes:

1) Participants will be able to identify ways to make their classes interactive.

2) Participants will learn how to increase voluntary classroom participation by students.

E-instruction offers a classroom performance system that can make classes more interesting and interactive. The system can take attendance, give anonymous or graded quizzes and instantly display the results in graphs or charts, facilitate review or discussion, and organize team activities. This session will present a 30-minute demonstration of this system for novice users.

Diane Murley, Coordinator, Moderator and Speaker, Southern Illinois University Law Library
Eric Gilson, Rutgers University Law School Library

L-2: Creating a Native American Surplus Book Bank

Level: Introductory 30 minutes

Competency: Collection Care and Management

Target Audience: Librarians who want to learn how a Caucus turned an idea into a reality

Learning Outcomes:

1) Participants will learn how surplus books and materials can benefit nascent tribal law libraries.
2) Participants will learn first-hand how such projects get off the ground and the status of this surplus book bank.

This program will focus on a brief overview of a recent surplus legal books and materials project undertaken by the Native Peoples Law Caucus and the presenters. It will include lessons learned and pitfalls to avoid in order to accomplish a surplus book bank, as well as how this project can and does benefit tribal law libraries.

L-3: Values, Video and Vignettes: Using Video Oral History Techniques to Document the Unwritten Histories of AALL

Level: Introductory 30 minutes

Competency: Information Technology

Target Audience: Academic, firm and court law librarians who are interested in starting oral history projects for the Association, special interest sections or regional and local chapters

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to use the “three Rs” of oral history—recognition, research and recording—to develop oral history projects that preserve personal and organizational histories.
2) Participants will be able to evaluate the relative strengths and weaknesses of the various video technologies available to them for their oral history projects.

Many aspects of an organization or profession’s history are not recorded in formal written records, such as articles or meeting minutes. The values and visions that underlie key decisions can often only be clearly identified through discussions with the decision makers and their colleagues. Video technology offers the opportunity to preserve and broadly disseminate these discussions for the future. In particular relevance to AALL’s upcoming Centennial Celebration, this program will offer basic training on how to plan an oral history project and select appropriate video technology for law librarians who are interested in preserving the history of the Association and profession.

L-4: Not Just for Bedtime Anymore: Using Storytelling Skills as a Leadership Tool

Level: Advanced 30 minutes

Competency: Library Management

Target Audience: Library directors and managers

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to identify the core elements of a compelling story.
2) Participants will be able to design strategies to become effective storytellers.

Corporate America has rediscovered storytelling as a leadership tool. The business community recognizes that well-told stories possess unique power to influence and persuade. At a time when law library directors and managers face challenges in securing the support needed to make their libraries prosper, effective storytelling skills can become a powerful leadership tool to influence, motivate and inspire others to support the law library and its mission. Storytelling opens others to your point of view. Stories inspire others to reach the same conclusion you have reached and do what you want them to do. Facts are neutral until a storyteller provokes an audience to add their own meaning to the story. This program will identify the core elements of a compelling story. Attention will focus on designing personalized strategies to become an effective storyteller for your library.

L-5: Shortcuts for Safer Keyboard Use

Level: Introductory 30 minutes

Competency: Information Technology

Target Audience: Law librarians who use a keyboard

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to integrate computer keyboard shortcuts into their daily work.
2) Participants will be able to do their work with fewer keystrokes and save wear-and-tear on their hands and wrists.

You don’t need to suffer ergonomically any more! Do your work more efficiently and less painfully. Keystroke by keystroke, two experienced law librarians will share the specific shortcuts they have discovered that make their work easier and less strenuous on their hands and wrists.

Saturday, July 16 • 9:00 a.m. – 5:00 p.m. (8:30 check-in/breakfast)
Level: Intermediate Half day

Competency: Collection Care and Management
Target Audience: Cataloging librarians, technical services librarians or others involved in the education and training of catalogers. With this course, librarians who have attended the AALL institutes on basic or intermediate cataloging will expand their knowledge and expertise to the next level.

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to explain the principles and rules of subject analysis and the Library of Congress subject heading system.
2) Participants will be able to assign and verify subject headings in bibliographic records for all types of library materials, including print and electronic resources.

This workshop is based on the full subject analysis training program developed by subcommittees of the ALCTS Subject Analysis Committee and the PCC Standing Committee on Training. Instructors will discuss basic subject cataloging principles and tools, and provide training in the application and use of LC subject headings. The sessions include an introduction to the principles, structure and syntax of LCSH; essential tools; subject authority records; application of headings and subdivisions; geographic and chronological subdivisions; names as subjects; MARC coding; the SACO Program; and special subject sessions; geographic and chronological subdivisions; names as subjects; MARC coding; the SACO Program; and special subject areas and formats. Participants will hear lectures, perform exercises and have time for questions, answers and discussion.

W-2: Systems Thinking: A New Way to Strategize
Henry B. Gonzalez Convention Center, Room 210 (AB)
Saturday, July 16 • 8:00 a.m. – 12:00 p.m. (7:30 check-in/breakfast)
Level: Intermediate Half day

Competency: Library Management
Target Audience: Experienced information professionals in high-stress library environments with some managerial or administrative responsibility who seek ways to affect customer relationships and strategic developments impacting the information process

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will learn how the tenets of systems thinking effect managers’ interaction with all levels of their organizations, their immediate reports and their exterior clients.
2) Participants will understand how the acceptance of systems thinking can change individual work decisions and philosophies.

Participants in this course will be introduced to the basics of systems thinking and provided definitions to ground them in the process. The workshop will also review personal behaviors and thought processes that support an individual’s adaptation of a systems approach to work. Additionally, workshop exercises will help participants explore their own behavior and help their staff members understand their own readiness to adopt systems thinking philosophies.

W-3: New Vistas and Values for Europe: Strategies for Researching European Law
St. Mary’s University School of Law
Saturday, July 16 • 8:30 a.m. – 4:00 p.m.
Level: Intermediate Full day

Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services
Target Audience: Firm and academic librarians who want to locate documents and need to identify sources quickly and understand the context thoroughly

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will refresh and demonstrate their use of European Union database research to incorporate a newly available interface for official documents.
2) Participants will identify several changes in the structure of the European Union (EU) and its membership crucial to legal research in the area.

With enlargement of its membership and constitutional developments reflecting new values and new economic realities in Europe, legal research in European Union (EU) law demands new strategies and skills. Beginning with the Treaty Establishing a Constitution for the European Union (signed October 29, 2004), this workshop will focus on detailed identification of documents, sample reference questions and new information on late-breaking developments in the world of EU legal research. An interactive format will energize participants and engage them in issues of national legislation and implementation of directives in member states, as well as hot topics on enlargement, trade, monetary policy and case studies on newly admitted states. A dynamic learning system using alternating contextual and textual information will prepare participants to locate what their patrons need quickly.

W-4: Electronic Resources from Acquisition to Access: Selecting, Negotiating, Licensing, Managing and Delivering e-Content for Your Library

Henry B. Gonzalez Convention Center, Room 213 (AB)
Saturday, July 16 / rhombus4
8:00 a.m. – 5:00 p.m.
Level: Intermediate Full day

Competency: Collection Care and Management

Target Audience: Librarians involved in the acquisition and management of electronic resources

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will develop a comprehensive understanding of the complex issues involved in licensing electronic resources.
2) Participants will learn about the future of authentication, beyond the current gold standard of IP authentication.

This will be a full-day workshop examining the life-cycle of the electronic resource as a library acquisition. The workshop will cover the selection and acquisition process before lunch, and management and access issues after lunch. In the morning, participants will hear about selection and collection development policies and what issues need to be considered in the electronic information era, and whether radical change is necessary to accommodate electronic (vs. print) acquisitions.

Next, the workshop will cover negotiating strategies, focusing on general negotiation tactics but with special attention given to e-resources. The final section of the morning will cover licensing issues, focusing on the revised AALL Licensing Principles for Electronic Resources.

After lunch, a panel of librarians and vendors will examine several methods for managing e-resources once they have been acquired and will share their solutions. Finally, the speakers will discuss delivery—how to get the content to patrons in the most efficient and effective manner. Additionally, speakers will explore the problems with current methods of authentication (password, embedded URL and IP) and present some possible solutions that developing technologies may offer.

CONELL
(Conference of Newer Law Librarians)
Saturday, July 16 / rhombus4
7:30 a.m. – 5:00 p.m.

The Conference of Newer Law Librarians (CONELL) is held every year at the American Association of Law Libraries Annual Meeting and Conference. The purpose is to welcome the newer members of the profession to the organization, introduce them to the Association and its leaders, and provide a setting for newer members to become acquainted with each other. Participants will have an opportunity to talk with representatives from AALL’s Committees and Special Interest Sections to find out firsthand how to get involved and enjoy the benefits of Association membership. CONELL offers a chance to learn about the Association while meeting new people and having some fun.

After lunch in the Marriott Rivercenter Hotel, the afternoon will be devoted to a guided tour of San Antonio. First, you will tour the Institute of Texas Cultures, a museum operated by the University of Texas, to learn more about the history of the Lone Star State. Then you will have the opportunity to visit the Alamo and learn about its pivotal role in Texas history. Tour the exhibits about the famous battle or explore the beautifully landscaped grounds. Finally, you will visit the largest of San Antonio’s Missions, the Mission San Jose. While touring this restored Mission, you can see its famous “Rose Window.”

CONELL will sponsor “Dutch Treat Dinners” at 7:00 p.m. on Friday, July 15. These dinners will give CONELL participants a chance to meet each other and members of the Mentoring Committee before the beginning of the official conference.

Advance registration required.

The Association gratefully acknowledges Thomson West for its support of this program.
AALL Awards Ceremony

Henry B. González Convention Center, Room 210 (AB)
Sunday, July 17 • 2:45 p.m. – 4:00 p.m.

This event will honor the recipients of various AALL awards, including the AALL/LexisNexis® Call for Papers, AALL Spectrum and Law Library Journal Articles of the Year supported by CCH INCORPORATED, and the AALL/Thomson West Excellence in Marketing. Previously, AALL awards were presented to recipients at the Association Luncheon. This year award winners will be honored at a separate ceremony. (Please note that the Marian Gould Gallagher Distinguished Service Award and the Joseph L. Andrews Bibliographical Award will still be presented at the Association Luncheon.)

Chapter Leadership Workshop: Professional Development (by invitation)

Marriott Riverwalk, Salon (A)
Saturday, July 16 • 8:00 a.m. – 11:30 a.m.

Chapter leaders who are or will be involved in educational program planning will be invited to this half-day workshop. This program will discuss the basic principles of professional development programming—analyzing, developing, designing, implementing and evaluating. Share experiences with your peers and leave with new ideas to enhance your chapter’s educational offerings.

CONALL / Mentoring Program

(Conference of Newer Academic Law Librarians)

St. Mary’s University School of Law
Tuesday, July 19 • 5:15 p.m. – 6:15 p.m.

Sponsored by Thomson West

The Academic Law Libraries Special Interest Section (ALL-SIS) is once again pleased to present the Conference of Newer Academic Law Librarians (CONALL) to help introduce newer academic law librarians to the world of law school librarianship. This year’s CONALL event will raise issues particular to serving law students and faculty and promoting legal scholarship and research within the campus community.

CONALL is conveniently scheduled right before the ALL-SIS Reception and Awards Ceremony, allowing newer members a chance to become more comfortable before attending such a large gathering. Both events will be held at St. Mary’s University School of Law.

Always an effective “ice-breaker,” CONALL continues to provide the newest members of ALL-SIS and their mentors a chance to begin the exciting process of forming new professional relationships. Registration is not required for this event, but attendance is limited to newer academic law librarians and their mentors. A special bus will be provided for transportation to St. Mary’s Law School, departing from the Marriott Rivercenter Hotel at the Commerce Street entrance at 4:45 p.m.

(Diversity Symposium: A Larger Patch in the Quilt: Hispanic-Latino Americans and Their Expanding Political and Cultural Influence

Marriott Rivercenter, Salon (CD)
Saturday, July 16 • 2:00 p.m. – 5:00 p.m.

Allen R. Moye, Chair, Committee on Diversity

The number of Americans identifying themselves as having Latino or Hispanic heritage has been on a steady increase in the last few years. Since the 2000 census, this group is now estimated to be at 35 million (just over 12 percent of the population) and may have already surpassed African Americans as the “majority minority” in the United States today. Just who are they? Where are they coming from? More importantly, what are the issues being raised by their incorporation into the fabric of American culture and society?

Please join us for a stimulating and enlightening discussion of the growing impact of the Hispanic-Latino influence on our society. Our speakers will cover a variety of issues from pop culture, to immigration reform, to the power of the Hispanic-Latino vote. This year we are pleased and honored to have on our panel of speakers:

- Reynaldo Anaya Valencia, St. Mary’s University, San Antonio, Texas
  Professor Valencia is a graduate of Stanford University and Harvard School of Law. He was a White House Fellow during the Clinton Administration, and he teaches courses and seminars on bankruptcy, business associations, gender discrimination, and race and racism in American law.

- Edward J. Williams, Professor Emeritus of Political Science at the University of Arizona
  Professor Williams received his undergraduate and master’s degrees from Duquesne University, and earned his doctorate in political science from Johns Hopkins University. Professor Williams teaches, researches and writes on Latin American, Mexican and borderlands public policy and politics.

- Francisco Lara-Valencia, Arizona State University, College of Architecture and Environmental Design
  Professor Lara-Valencia has a doctorate in planning from the...
University of Michigan at Ann Arbor and a master's degree in regional development, from El Colegio de la Frontera Norte, Mexico. He has researched and written in the areas of borderland studies, environmental planning, health and economic issues, transportation planning, water issues, trade patterns and international planning.

The Association gratefully acknowledges LexisNexis® for its support of this program and the reception that follows in Salon (I).

Legislative Advocacy Leadership Training
Marriott Riverwalk, Salon (C)
Saturday, July 16 • 8:30 a.m. – 12:00 p.m.
This practical half-day workshop, available at no cost to AALL members, has become an annual tradition thanks to the support of our Executive Board. Participants will learn important new skills to become effective communicators when dealing with federal, state and local policy makers. This opportunity is open on a first-come, first-served basis to all AALL members who want to become more active in supporting our legislative and regulatory agenda.

Participation is sought from each chapter in every state to develop chapter leadership, broaden support for AALL legislative work and train a larger number of highly skilled advocates. No specific background knowledge or experience is required, just a keen desire to join AALL’s grassroots advocacy program. We’ll give you the practical tips and tools you’ll need to communicate with your elected representatives on a variety of important policy issues.

Our focus this year is on changes to the Federal Depository Library Program (FDLP) and funding for state, court and county law libraries. Participants will be able to participate in a breakout session on either of these important issues. You’ll learn how to develop your message and deliver it most effectively, whether by e-mail, letter or in person. Most of all, you’ll gain confidence that you, too, can be part of AALL’s advocacy network!

TRICALL Conference
( 教学研究在法院和机构法律图书馆会议)
Marriott Riverwalk, Ballroom (EF)
Thursday, July 14, and Friday, July 15 • 8:00 a.m. – 5:00 p.m. (both days)
The LexisNexis® Librarian Relations Group, in conjunction with the American Association of Law Libraries, is offering a professional development opportunity for law librarians in court, county, government agency and membership library settings—Teaching Research in Court and Agency Law Libraries (TRICALL) Conference. The TRICALL Conference will be held in San Antonio, Texas, as a preconference to the AALL Annual Meeting.

The TRICALL Conference will include presentations, structured breakout sessions, demonstrations and ample opportunity for networking with the faculty, council and other attendees. The conference will be limited to 30 participants in order to maximize learning and sharing of information. LexisNexis® is working with an Advisory Council of Court and Agency Law Librarians to develop the curriculum of the conference. The Advisory Council members include:

Jean Holcomb, King County Law Library
Judy Meadows, State Law Library of Montana
Maralena Murphy, U.S. Court of Appeals, Fifth Circuit Satellite Library, Baton Rouge
Susan Skyzinski, LexisNexis®
Cindy Spohr, LexisNexis®
