PIONEERING CHANGE

Centennial Celebration
AALL Annual Meeting & Conference

St. Louis, MO • July 8–12, 2006

A Century of Leadership
1896–2006
The American Association of Law Libraries
QUESTION:
What makes this working relationship so successful?

ANSWER:
“We have an awesome exchange of ideas, and we’re not afraid to voice them.”
Ruth Armstrong, Global Director of Library & Information Resources, White & Case LLP

Great working relationships don’t just happen by themselves. West understands that your information needs are varied, and your standards are high. Find out how your West Librarian Relations manager can work with you.

Welcome to the 99th Annual Meeting and Conference of the American Association of Law Libraries. While in St. Louis, we will celebrate our Centennial and plan our next century of innovation by “Pioneering Change.” Our raison d’être in the information society is clear: To ensure our future, law librarians must be visionaries in reinventing our profession. The St. Louis Annual Meeting Program Committee is pleased to present a slate of premier programs and workshops. Members will find educational opportunities that offer professional training for all levels of expertise and experience and present successful strategies for pioneering internal and external change.

In this new century of information, law librarians understand and must communicate the challenges and implications of technology in the creation, access and retrieval of information. We must build strategic alliances to foster collaboration and cooperation nationally and internationally, and actively communicate our value when we interact with our constituent groups and outside disciplines. We welcome our VIPs and guest speakers from other professions, including law, technology information, health and government, to participate in our visions for the future.

The Annual Meeting Local Advisory Committee provides a tempting variety of events to enrich the spirit – from library tours and fun excursions to wonderful local activities. The Centennial Committee concludes its yearlong celebration highlighting the history and significant contributions of law librarians.

At this Centennial Celebration Annual Meeting, we invite you to partake of the rich, diverse educational programs, which will provide the learning, networking and enriching opportunities for you to become successful pioneers of change!

Introducing a NEW Landmark Series from Annual Reviews

ANNUAL REVIEW OF LAW AND SOCIAL SCIENCE

Volume 2, December 2006—Available Online and in Print

Visit Annual Reviews at Booth #712 at the AALL Annual Meeting to Learn More!

Editor: John Hasen, Northwestern University

Associate Editors: Kim Lane Scheppele, Princeton University and Tom R. Tyler, New York University

The Annual Review of Law and Social Science seeks to enhance the understanding of the complex connections between law, culture, and society by focusing on social scientific studies of law and law-like systems of rules, institutions, processes, and behaviors. This groundbreaking series provides multidisciplinary insights into the impact of law, organized human behavior and interaction, analytic and normative justifications, the dynamics of decision making and enforcement of authoritative rules, as well as the variations and changes in legal institutions and the management of social change by these institutions.

Planned Authors and Contents in Volume 2 (Subject to Change):

- Preliminary, John Hasen
- Legal Realism, Richard Dobson
- After Post-Communism: The Rise Phase, Berno Krenz, Adriaan Geuze
- Citizenship and Rights, Morgan Sears, Christopher Roberts
- Economic Contributions to the Understanding of Crime, Shaye D. Levy, Thomas J. Miller

Immigration Law Doesn’t Just Affect Immigration Lawyers

Detention and deportation are very real consequences facing undocumented workers and foreign-born U.S. residents. As immigration remains a hot topic in Congress, it is imperative law libraries carry reliable immigration law references.

The American Immigration Lawyers Association (AILA) publishes a number of titles critical to attorneys representing foreign-born clients.

- Kurzban’s Immigration Law Sourcebook
- AILA’s Asylum Primer
- Essentials of Immigration Law
- Essentials of Removal and Relief
- Immigration Consequences of Criminal Activity
- Immigration Law Today
- AILALink

General Information

Centennial Variety Show

Renaissance Grand, Landmark 4-7
Tuesday, July 11  9:00 p.m. – 10:30 p.m.

Ten fabulous musical acts and comedy sketches, showcasing the talents of geographically diverse law librarians employed in a variety of settings, will be performed at this cabaret-style event. The Centennial Variety Show Band, under the able leadership of the show’s musical director, Bennie Braxton, of Sughrue Mion in Washington, D.C., will play for your entertainment pleasure between performances. A cash bar will be available (though it certainly won’t be necessary to enjoy the show).

The Association gratefully acknowledges William S. Hein & Co., Inc. for its support of the show.

Closing Banquet – Happy Birthday, AALL!

America’s Center, America’s Ballroom
Wednesday, July 12  6:00 p.m. – 12:00 a.m.
(reception, dinner, dance)

You won’t want to miss this year’s closing banquet, a once-in-a-hundred-years’ opportunity to be a part of AALL’s official birthday party! We’ll have music to represent our past (St. Louis Ragtimers), as well as our present and future (Fantasy), and in-between we’ll be honoring 100 years of AALL. Be ready for surprises as we celebrate who we were, who we are and who we will be. Table reservations for the closing banquet may be arranged at the Hospitality Booth before noon on Tuesday, July 11.

Convention Center Access

The entrances for AALL attendees are through either the Washington Avenue Entrance across from the Renaissance Grand Hotel, or the Convention Plaza Entrance on 7th Street. The doors are open from 6:00 a.m. to one hour after each day’s last scheduled meeting/event.

Child Care

Most conference hotels can provide the names of licensed, bonded services to baby-sit for AALL members. Please make your arrangements as early as possible since services vary by hotel.

Excursions/Tours

All excursions will depart from the America’s Center, Convention Plaza entrance (the circular drive on 7th Street). Please arrive for your excursion 5-10 minutes prior to the start time. Confirmation letters have been sent via the method of registration, and tickets will be held for pickup at the Excursions/Tour Desk in the Registration area of America’s Center. Registration fees for any tour canceled by Destination St. Louis will be refunded without penalty. Space permitting, all tours except “Dining and Dancing on the Mississippi” may also be booked on site at the Excursions/Tour Desk. (An additional $3.00 fee per ticket will apply.) See page 12 for hours.

Educational Program Handout Materials

The online Educational Program Handout Materials Collection has been available since mid-June for attendees to download at http://programmaterials.aallnet.org. Now you can preview, print and bring only the materials for the programs you wish to attend. The Educational Program Handout Materials Book is no longer included in your registration bag, but books are available in the registration check-in area of the America’s Center for pre-registrants. If you purchased the complete Educational Program Handout Materials Collection in print or on a CD when you pre-registered, you may pick it up at the Registration Desk when you check in.

Daily Newspaper

Published Sunday through Wednesday, Gateway Gazette will clue you in on the important people, programs and products of the 2006 Annual Meeting. Expect to be informed with articles on the best of St. Louis, interviews with AALL officials, and the latest announcements about meetings and events. Pick up a copy of Gateway Gazette, the convention newspaper guide to what’s happening during the St. Louis meeting!

If you would like to submit an article, announcement or news to Gateway Gazette, please bring an electronic copy (MS-Word and/or WordPerfect attachments accepted) to the Daily Newspaper office in the America’s Center, Room 115. Copy deadline is 1:30 p.m. for the next day’s issue. Please bring Room 115 or contact editor James Duggan at duggan@siu.edu.

Exhibit Hall
Join us for the ribbon-cutting ceremony that opens the Exhibit Hall on Sunday, July 9, at 9:00 a.m. and celebrate with complimentary coffee and pastries from 9:00 a.m. to 10:00 a.m. This is just the beginning of your opportunity to explore more than 20,000 square feet of exhibits featuring the latest professional materials and services. Monday and Tuesday afternoon refreshment breaks will take place in the Exhibit Hall, during which time attendees will have the chance to win fabulous prizes, such as laptop computers, digital cameras and iPods. Stroll through the AALL Activities Area and learn the latest news from the AALL Committees, Special Interest Sections, Chapters and Caucuses. The Exhibit Hall closes on Tuesday, July 11, at 3:00 p.m., so plan your schedule to take full advantage of this unique information marketplace. Exhibit Hall access is limited to persons 16 years and older unless they are accompanied by an adult.

Sunday, July 9
9:00 a.m. – 5:00 p.m.
• 9:00 a.m. – 10:00 a.m. ribbon-cutting ceremony

Monday, July 10

Family Social Hour
City Museum, 701 N. 15th Street
Saturday, July 8 4:00 p.m. – 6:00 p.m.

 Truly a one-of-a-kind, not-to-be-missed experience, City Museum is a fabulous floor-to-ceiling labyrinth of caves, forests and climbing structures created out of recycled pieces from our city’s demolished buildings. City Museum is also home to Everyday Circus, a “multi-talented company dedicated to making every day a Circus Day” and at 5:30, our children will have an opportunity to participate in the circus! A circus member will lead the kids in creating their own circus while we enjoy circus refreshments (popcorn and soda). City Museum is located at 701 N. 15th St., an easy ½ mile walk from the convention hall. Our event officially ends at 6:00 p.m., however, the museum is open until 1 a.m., so you are welcome to stay! For more information about the museum see www.citymuseum.org. Advance registration is required.

First-time Attendees
If this is your first AALL Annual Meeting and Conference, be sure to pick up a white “First-time Attendee” ribbon at Registration. If you’re an Annual Meeting master, be sure to welcome our newcomers when you see them!

Hospitality/Information
The Hospitality Booth is located outside Exhibit Hall 3 in the America’s Center. Local information professionals will help you find your way around St. Louis and answer questions on places to eat, shop and sightsee. Sign up for daily raffles of St. Louis-themed gift baskets, and make table reservations for the Closing Banquet. Reservations must be made by 12:00 p.m. on Tuesday, July 11. See page 12 for hours.

Library Tours
Some of this year’s tours will be on foot, some on MetroLink (St. Louis’s light rail system), and one by bus. All tours will depart from the Convention Plaza Entrance. Bus tours will begin loading 15 minutes prior to departure and will leave promptly at their designated times. All tours involve some walking. Please bring a small bottle of water with you, wear sunscreen and comfortable shoes, and wear a hat if you are particularly sensitive to the sun. Public transportation costs are included in the tour. Attendee badges will be required for all tours. Advance registration required. Confirmations have been e-mailed to all registrants.

Lost and Found
Turn in, inquire about or claim lost articles at the AALL Staff Office, located in the America’s Center, Room 122, for the duration of the conference. Direct all post-conference inquiries to the America’s Center Security Office, Room 109 (next to the Cyber Cafe).

Medical Assistance
A first-aid office is located next to Room 115, outside of Exhibit Hall 3. EMT services will be available throughout the Meeting. In the event of a medical emergency at the America’s Center, please dial the Security Office at “5081” immediately from any house phone. Outside of the America’s Center, the Security Office can be reached at any time by dialing 314.342.5081. At the Renaissance Grand Hotel, dial “5959” on any house phone or 314.418.5959. Always be prepared to state your location and the nature of the illness or emergency.

New Orleans Housing
Hotel reservations for 2007 in New Orleans will be available starting Sunday, July 9, 2006! Stop by the Ambassadors Hotel Services desk in the registration lobby during this year’s conference for information on the official AALL hotels and to reserve your room.

Opening Event
America’s Center – America’s Ballroom
Sunday, July 9 8:30 p.m. – 10:30 p.m.
Sponsored by LexisNexis®

LexisNexis® is proud to sponsor the 2006 Opening Event at the AALL Annual Meeting and Conference in St. Louis. We invite you to join us after dinner for a Dessert Extravaganza, featuring an array of tasty selections as grand as the Gateway Arch. This festive event will be held at the America’s Center in downtown St. Louis.
Historic St. Louis, home of the 1904 World's Fair, is the ideal city to expand knowledge and leadership, and become pioneers for change. Join us as we kick off the Centennial Celebration with a delectable dessert gala that will delight your taste buds. We look forward to seeing you in St. Louis!

Placement Services
America's Center, Room 255

The Placement Office will be open the following days and hours:

| Monday, July 10 | 7:00 a.m. – 5:00 p.m. |

| Tuesday, July 12 | 9:00 a.m. – 12:00 p.m. |

The Placement Office will have information on file about positions and candidates seeking positions. The Placement Office also posts job listings on bulletin boards, provides a resume drop-off service and provides limited space for interviews.

Public Relations Showcase
Could your library use some new marketing ideas? Don’t miss the 14th Annual Public Relations Showcase, sponsored by the AALL Public Relations Committee. On display in the Activities Area of the Exhibit Hall will be brochures, publications, bookmarks, tool kits and other items created by librarians for successful public relations campaigns in all types of law libraries. At specified times, members of the Public Relations Committee and public relations leaders from selected libraries will be on hand to discuss effective public relations strategies, provide samples and answer questions.

The schedule of librarians participating will be posted in the Activities Area and will appear in the daily newspaper, Gateway Gazette. Come to be inspired by the PR skills of your colleagues!

Registration Policies

Payment: Registrations received without payment will be held until payment is received.

Cancellations: AALL reserves the right to cancel workshops, programs and events if there is insufficient registration or for any other reason. AALL is not responsible for cancellation charges assessed by airlines or travel agencies, or other losses incurred due to cancellation of workshops, programs and events.

Refunds: Cancellations faxed or postmarked before June 12, 2006, will receive a full refund. Cancellations faxed or postmarked June 12 through June 26, 2006, will be assessed a 30 percent cancellation fee. Cancellations faxed or postmarked June 27 through July 7, 2006, will receive a 50 percent refund. No cancellations will be accepted after July 7, 2006. All requests for refunds must be made in writing by letter or fax. Refunds will be issued after the conclusion of the meeting. This policy applies to all forms of payment.

Substitutions: Institutions that have remitted payment of the required fee are permitted to substitute a replacement attendee from the same institution in place of the original registrant at any time.

No Wait-lists: All registrations will be processed in the order in which they are received with payment. Once a program or event is fully subscribed, registration will be closed for that program or event. WAIT-LISTS WILL NOT BE MAINTAINED! DO NOT PLAN ON ATTENDING A PROGRAM OR EVENT UNLESS YOU RECEIVE A CONFIRMATION NOTICE THAT WILL ADMIT YOU TO THE SESSION. If you choose to pay by credit card, your card will be charged only for those sessions for which you receive a confirmed registration. If you make payment by check, your check will be deposited and a refund of the registration fee for the closed event will be mailed within six weeks after the end of the Annual Meeting.

Restaurant Booth
St. Louis Convention & Visitors Commission, our on-site convention concierge service, will assist you in finding the perfect restaurant for the type of food and price range you’re seeking. They are located in the Registration check-in area to provide you with dining information and assist you with making reservations, as well as providing menus, maps and other city information. See page 12 for hours.

Speaker Assistance
Speakers and Coordinators needing assistance should visit the AALL Staff Office at the America’s Center, Room 122 or dial “5600.” Speakers needing audio-visual assistance prior to their presentations or those who would like the opportunity to preview their presentations are encouraged to stop by the “Speaker Ready Room” in Room 261 in advance of their scheduled programs.

Staff Office
The AALL Staff Office is located in the America’s Center, Room 122. See page 12 for hours.

Taxis
Taxis can be hailed and are plentiful. There are taxi stands at the hotels.

Volunteers
We couldn’t have done it without you! We are grateful for all the volunteers who stepped up to assist the Local Advisory Committee in offering the exciting events and activities listed in your final program. If you see a green ribbon fluttering from a name badge, take a moment to thank these hard-working folks for their efforts.
Personal Learning Inventory

Looking for learning opportunities? The Annual Meeting and Conference provides the setting for many formal and informal types of learning. Below you will find an inventory of activities in which we hope you'll find such opportunities! It's not too early to identify as many ways to learn as possible. You are invited to use this checklist to develop your personal education plan for the 2006 Annual Meeting and Conference.

Educational Programs and Workshops
• Attend programs and workshops in my area of responsibility.
• Attend programs in areas not currently my responsibility.
• Participate in planning a program, or speak as presenter.
• Ask questions from the audience at programs.
• Talk with speakers after presentations.

AALL Association Business
• Attend business meetings.
• Attend the opening reception, luncheon and closing banquet.
• Participate in planning an AALL meeting or event.
• Ask questions from the floor.
• Volunteer to participate in an activity for next year.
• Talk with an AALL officer/staff member.

Exhibit Area
• Talk with vendors.
• Preview new products or services.
• Ask vendors to send additional information.
• Attend events sponsored by vendors.

SIS/Committee/Chapter/Caucus Activity
• Attend programs sponsored by a SIS/Committee/Chapter/Caucus.
• Attend meetings sponsored by a SIS/Committee/Chapter/Caucus.
• Participate in planning a program, meeting or event.
• Speak as a presenter.
• Ask questions from the audience at activities.
• Volunteer to participate in an activity for next year.

Volunteer for Activities
• Local Advisory Committee.
• Placement Office.
• AALL/SIS/Committee/Chapter/Caucus.
• Serve as a mentor.
• Write an article.
• CONELL activities.

Personal Networking
• Introduce myself to someone I don’t know at a program, meeting, reception, social event or exhibit.
• Tour a library, museum or local site.
• Join colleagues for a meal, tour or social event.

Rules of Conduct for AALL General Business Meetings

The Association will conduct two business meetings during the St. Louis Annual Meeting and Conference. The following rules, adopted by the Executive Board, will apply:

• All substantive motions, amendments to motions and amendments to the Bylaws must be submitted in triplicate to the Secretary of the Association before the Motion may be placed in discussion. A single copy will be acceptable only if the Motion must be drafted during a business meeting, when it is not practical to provide copies in triplicate.

• Voting members of the Association are required to wear their Annual Meeting badges to business meetings in order to be eligible to vote.

• Before speaking in debate or making a Motion, a member must use one of the microphones on the floor, address the chair and state his/her name and library affiliation and receive recognition.

Attention is called to pertinent parts of the Association’s Bylaws:

• Article IV (Summarized) – Rights of voting shall be restricted to individual members, designated institutional members under institutional membership, student members and retired members.

• Article XII, Section 1 (Excerpted) – Proposed amendments shall be voted on during the Annual Meeting of the Association and shall be adopted upon approval by two-thirds of the members present and voting unless 5 percent or more of the Association members eligible to vote have signed a petition requesting a mail ballot. Such petitions must be submitted to the Secretary before the beginning of the business meeting at which the vote on amendments is to be called.

Plenary Session I
Sunday, July 9 • 1:30 p.m. – 2:30 p.m.
Keynote Speaker: Linda Greenhouse
Supreme Court Correspondent, The New York Times

Writing Justice Blackmun

The challenge was to extract, in a few short months, a coherent narrative of Justice Harry Blackmun’s life from the 600 linear feet of material, 1,585 boxes of it, sitting on shelves of the Library of Congress’s Manuscript Division. The result was Becoming Justice Blackmun, a 251-page biography published in May 2005, barely a year after the enormous treasure that is the Harry A. Blackmun Collection opened to the public.

Linda Greenhouse talks about researching and writing her book, based almost entirely on the documents in a collection that included such unexpected limns as a childhood diary and a personal chronology of 24 years on the Supreme Court. For a daily journalist, accustomed for more than three decades to chronicling the day’s events in 1000-word snapshots, the 300-page finding aid compiled by the Manuscript Division’s curators was not only an indispensable tool, but a passport to another world.

Linda Greenhouse has been the Supreme Court correspondent for The New York Times since 1978. In 1990, she was named a Senior Writer for the Times. In other assignments for the Times, she has also covered Congress and the New York State Legislature. In addition to her print journalism duties, she has appeared regularly since 1980 on the PBS program Washington Week.

For her coverage of the Supreme Court, she was awarded the Pulitzer Prize in Journalism (beat reporting) in 1998. Her biography of Justice Harry A. Blackmun, Becoming Justice Blackmun, was published in May 2005 by Times Books/Henry Holt.

She is a fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, where she serves on the council; an honorary member of the American Law Institute; and a member of the American Philosophical Society. She also is on the council of the Schlesinger Library on the History of American Women, at Harvard’s Radcliffe Institute for Advanced Study.

Linda Greenhouse has received the 75th Anniversary Medal from Boston College Law School; the William Green Award for Professional Excellence from the University of Richmond School of Law; and the Anvil of Freedom Award from the E学院 International Center for Journalism and New Media at the University of Denver.

Plenary Session II
Wednesday, July 12 • 10:45 a.m. – 11:45 a.m.
Keynote Speaker: Robert C. Berring, Jr.
Walter Perry Johnson Professor of Law, University of California, Berkeley

Pioneering Change by Remembering Pioneers

For the past century, law librarians have followed a simple but elegant dictum: helping researchers find the information that they need. In doing this, we have not been passive consumers; law librarians have constantly worked to improve the information. Law librarians have labored to guarantee that legal information was accurate and reliable.

Keeping legal information accessible to everyone in society has been one of our central tenets. In the past decade, the legal information industry has morphed into something new just as information itself has profoundly transformed. Even more important, the legal researchers who we all serve have changed. Is this a crisis or an opportunity? Perhaps the most important thing that we can do is remind of ourselves of the values that we have always cherished.

Robert Berring, Jr. has a rich history with AALL, serving as president (1986-1987), and as founding editor of the Legal Reference Services Quarterly, for which he edited the first 17 volumes. He has published widely on legal information and has spoken to law library groups throughout the world.

Before joining the Boalt faculty, Berring worked at the University of Washington, Harvard University, the University of Texas and the University of Illinois.

In 1982, Berring came to Boalt to serve as a professor and the director of the law library. From 1986 to 1989, he held a joint appointment as dean of the School of Library and Information Studies. Berring also served as interim dean of the law school from January 2003 to June 2004. He stepped down as director of the library in 2005.

Berring teaches contracts, advanced legal research and courses covering Chinese law. He also regularly teaches an undergraduate course about China for the Legal Studies Department, and offers freshmen seminars about law and cognitive studies.

In 1999, Berring was named to the Walter Perry Johnson Chair. In 1987, he was awarded LC Berkeley’s Distinguished Teaching Award. In 2003, he won the Frederick Charles Hicks Award for contributions to law librarianship.

Berring is the author of several texts on legal research and has written extensively about the conversion of information from print to electronic form. His recent publications include Finding the Law (with Beth Edinger, 11th ed., 1999) and Legal Research Survival Manual, (with Edinger, 2002). He also created the award-winning video series, Legal Research for the 21st Century.

A-1 Exploring Uncharted Territory: The Culture and Context of the University

Level: Introductory 90 Minutes

Competency: Core Competencies for Law Librarianship

Target Audience: Academic law librarians and those interested in learning about universities

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to identify the unique cultural characteristics of their own and other academic institutions.
2) Participants will be able to plan their career paths knowledgeably and advocate for their library’s needs more effectively.

Almost everything that happens in an academic institution is guided by the principles of shared governance and academic freedom. Yet, even many long-time academicians do not fully understand how these concepts play out. The shared governance of a university makes it unique among organizations, and it protects and strengthens the academic freedom of faculty, staff and students. This program will explain these important concepts; analyze the types of faculty status, responsibilities and obligations; and demystify tenure. Panelists will demonstrate how the concepts are implemented through a university’s committee structure and governance groups, and relate the concepts to the daily operations of the academic law library.

Barbara A. Bintliff, Coordinator and Speaker, University of Colorado Law Library
Penny A. Hazelton, Moderator and Speaker, University of Washington, Gallagher Law Library
Richard A. Danner, Duke University School of Law Library
James E. Duggan, Southern Illinois University, School of Law Library

A-2 Competitive Intelligence: Transitioning from Librarians to Analysts

Level: Introductory 90 Minutes

Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services

Target Audience: Librarians, primarily those who work in a private legal environment such as a firm or corporate law department

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will better understand the need for competitive intelligence in today’s information environment and how they as librarians are positioned to advance this course of action within their organizations.
2) Participants will be able to identify the specific skills needed by competitive analysts and use their new knowledge to strengthen alliances with key decision makers and better serve their organizations and their clients.

Employed by research and development departments within high-tech or manufacturing companies, “competitive intelligence” is only now coming into its own within law firms. Librarians have long provided the research and data that serves as the basis of competitive intelligence. Increasingly, librarians are partnering with marketing departments, human resource departments and practice groups in order to provide a better understanding of clients’ needs, related industries and competing entities. Librarians are being asked to expand their responsibilities to include analytical skills, technical writing and sophisticated knowledge of information delivery and presentation. This panel presentation will examine the role of competitive intelligence professionals, discuss the particular skills needed and offer suggestions on how librarians might obtain those skills.

Level: Intermediate 90 Minutes

Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services

Target Audience: Law librarians who support pro se litigants

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to identify the steps for building relationships with pro se self-help centers, online legal aid Websites and pro bono partners.
2) Participants will compare collaboration models to create a comprehensive method for delivering services to pro se patrons.

Are you searching for ways that law librarians and other self-help providers might work together to assist self-represented litigants? This program will offer a vision for self-help services that capitalizes on collaboration. Representing a variety of perspectives, panel members will explain their roles in supporting pro se litigants and recommend ways that law librarians can partner with others (including public librarians) to build better services for pro se litigants.

A-4 Preservation of Digital Information: Global Trends in Digital and Analog Archiving

Level: Intermediate 90 Minutes

Competency: Information Technology

Target Audience: Librarians who are interested in long-term preservation of electronic information

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to outline preservation methods of maintaining a digital archive, including migration, emulation and encapsulation, as well as explain the long-term technical and economic complexities of developing and maintaining such systems.
2) Participants will be able to describe hybrid archival systems currently being used and developed, as well as explain the negative and positive implications of storing information in analog form.

Law librarians and legal publishers are now working in an era where electronic information exists in near dominance over traditional library information formats and services, resulting in irreversible changes in how librarians think about and care for their collections. One very significant change is in the profession's perception of preservation, shifting from a very tangible paper-based and human-readable platform to an intangible electronic medium existing on some form of computer storage as machine-readable code. Over the past several years, the international effort to develop digital preservation into a workable science has materialized into applications that universities and publishers are now employing. This program will analyze and discuss two primary data preservation models: first, a purely digital response involving the construction of a renewable data infrastructure that preserves data through migration and software emulation; and second, a hybrid—or digital insurance—model that functions as a redundancy between digital preservation systems and analog media such as archival microfilm. Speakers will discuss the advantages and disadvantages of each model, the characteristics and evolving architecture of each, digital archiving activities in Europe, archival preservation of legal information in a truly hybrid context, and the evolving nature and application of computer-generated archival microform.

A-5 Pioneering the Transformation of Technical Services Librarians into Digital Librarians

Level: Intermediate 90 Minutes

Competency: Core Competencies for Law Librarianship

Target Audience: Technical services librarians and managers; those responsible for or involved in building and maintaining digital collections; library directors or others interested in transformative organizational change

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be prepared to initiate concrete, incremental changes to the traditional tasks performed by their technical services departments in order to transform those departments, over time, into metadata and digital library services departments.
2) Participants will be able to apply this model of change to other library departments, where it can provide unexpected benefits for staff as they take on new areas of responsibility and re-educate themselves.

The University of Oregon’s Libraries’ traditional cataloging department has transformed itself to include the creation and maintenance of digital collections. In addition, the department has assumed operation of the campus institutional repository, including policy-making and marketing documents. Other new responsibilities include software administration and upgrades; public Web pages; digital and photographic reproductions of library materials; exhibit services; microfilming of newspapers, theses and on-demand reproductions; preservation and conservation of print materials; and traditional photography and darkroom work for library and campus publicity and publications. Carol Hixson will discuss how she and her staff requested these changes and worked toward the library’s successful transformation.

Cynthia May, Coordinator and Moderator, University of Wisconsin Law Library
Carol Hixson, University of Oregon Libraries
A-6 Developing Foreign, Comparative and International Law Collections: Sources, Strategies and Techniques

Level: Introductory 90 Minutes

Competency: Collection Care and Management

Target Audience: Librarians who are or will become responsible for developing international and/or foreign collections for their libraries; librarians who are not presently involved in collection development work but who want to expand these skills

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to develop a collection policy for foreign, comparative and international law tailored to their home law library, including defining collection goals as well as planning the scope, breadth and depth of a foreign and/or international law collection.
2) Participants will be able to identify and assess foreign, comparative and international law materials.

Law libraries face an increasing demand for foreign, comparative and international law (FCIL) materials. However, FCIL collection development can be hard, expensive and intimidating. This program will introduce librarians to collection development practices, strategies and techniques that can be tailored for use in libraries of different sizes and collection strengths. Topics will include writing collection development policies, deciding which international and foreign materials are essential for a given law library, determining how often to update materials, and figuring out the role of free and subscription-based electronic materials. Handouts will include sample collection development policies, bibliographies and other resources.

B-1 “Give Me One Box to Access Our Electronic Resources”: The Pioneering Google Search Appliance Beta Test

Level: Intermediate 75 Minutes

Competency: Information Technology

Target Audience: Law librarians interested in providing their patrons with “one-box,” Google-like access to their OPACs and other electronic databases

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to describe a Google Search Appliance and list the ways the GSA provides “one-box” search access to a library’s electronic resources.
2) Participants will be able to judge whether the Franklin Pierce Law Center Library’s beta-test with the Google Search Appliance has been a success and if a GSA might work in their own libraries.

Federated searching once seemed to be “the answer” for libraries that wanted to provide “one search box” access to all their electronic resources. However, when a team of librarians from the Franklin Pierce Law Center Library investigated purchasing a federated searching product, they found all too be very expensive and sorely lacking. In the summer of 2005, the Franklin Pierce Law Center Library, with the backing of NELLCO, began a beta test of a “Google Search Appliance.” Several vendors, including HeinOnline and LLMC Digital, agreed to participate in the beta test with Pierce Law. At this program, a member of the Pierce Law One Box Implementation Team, Jerry Dupont from LLMC Digital and Hans Marquardt from Google will report on the success of the test. Participants will learn about a Google Search Appliance—how it works; what time, talents, and tenacity are required to install it; and how this new frontier of searching affects law librarianship.

B-2 Forensic Science Techniques and the Rules of Evidence
Level: Intermediate 75 Minutes
Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services
Target Audience: Librarians from all types of law libraries
Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to identify three of the latest techniques in crime scene investigation.
2) Participants will be able to define the evidentiary implications of these techniques.

St. Louis University has been described as "the mecca of death scene investigation education." In 2005, its School of Medicine played host to more than 300 trained medicolegal death investigators who discussed the latest advancements in forensic sciences. This program will tie together various techniques in forensic investigation and their evidentiary foundations. Topics will include techniques of forensic investigation and their implications for federal and state rules of evidence.

B-3 Dred Scott in St. Louis: Freedom Pioneer
Level: Introductory 75 Minutes
Competency: Core Competencies for Law Librarianship
Target Audience: Law librarians who are interested in gaining a better understanding of this historic decision
Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to more fully appreciate the historical significance of this famous court decision.
2) Participants will learn about this famous case from a local perspective through the research findings of a St. Louis Dred Scott descendant.

In 1846, Dred Scott sued for his freedom in St. Louis, the city where AALL will gather for its Centennial Celebration. His lawsuit, which eventually went to the U.S. Supreme Court, pioneered change by contributing greatly to the rising tensions between free and slave states just before the American Civil War. In this program, Paul Finkelman, a distinguished scholar of slavery in America, will discuss the Dred Scott case and its significance to American history. Lynn M. Jackson, a St. Louis resident and a descendant of Dred Scott, will also discuss her extensive research on her great-great grandfather's case.

Dwight King, Coordinator, Notre Dame Law School, Krege Library
Paul Finkelman, Albany Law School, Government Law Center
Lynne M. Jackson, Bryan Cave LLP

B-4 Defending Democratic Values in a Culture of Secrecy
Level: Intermediate 75 Minutes
Competency: Core Competencies for Law Librarianship
Target Audience: All law librarians and users of government information
Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to identify reasons why a culture of government secrecy impacts negatively our open and democratic society.
2) Participants will be able to develop strategies for their libraries and communities to combat government secrecy and to promote government openness.

Imagine this change: A library user needs information about a government energy task force deliberations, but you can't find it. A client needs information about hazardous chemical dangers revealed to the government, but the findings are not available to the public. In response to 9-11, government agencies are classifying documents “sensitive” and declining to make them available for public review. Freedom of Information Act requests for documents are being refused at a rate higher than ever in the country's history. This is not a change; it is today's reality. The program will explore the current culture of government secrecy and how it affects librarians, researchers, citizens and even elected officials. A law librarian will address the ethical dilemma faced by librarians charged with facilitating citizens' right to know. The Executive Director of the Reporters Committee for Freedom of the Press will discuss federal and state government information policies since 9-11 and the impact those policies have on library users' rights to equitable and equal access to government.

B-5 From Railroads to the Internet: The Impact of Technology on the Practice of Law

Level: Intermediate  75 Minutes

Competency: Information Technology

Target Audience: Law librarians from all segments—law firms, academic, government and corporate

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will better understand the various ways that technology has changed the practice of law over time.
2) Participants will learn how technology will impact the practice of law into the future.

When they hear the word “technology,” most librarians immediately think of computers, blogs, PDAs and cell phones. But Harvard Law Professor Arthur Miller’s definition of technology expands well beyond today’s use of the term. At this program, Professor Miller will explain how all types of technology, from railroads to the Internet, have impacted the practice of law as we know it today. To end the session, he will hypothesize on how evolving technology will change the face of the legal world in the years ahead.

B-6 Annual Legislative and Regulatory Update

Level: Intermediate  75 Minutes

Competency: Core Competencies for Law Librarianship

Target Audience: All AALL members who are interested in updates about government information policy issues, including the work of the AALL Washington Affairs Office, and information about legislative advocacy

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to identify the AALL positions and policies on a variety of information policy issues.
2) Participants will learn about the activities of the Washington Affairs Office as well as legislative and information policy issues affecting the Association and librarians.

The Annual Legislative and Regulatory Update will provide AALL members with the latest news on the progress with information policy issues and legislative advocacy efforts during the year, as well as pending legislation and administrative actions of particular interest to the membership. This year, Kennie L. Gill, Democratic Staff Director and Chief Counsel for the Committee on Rules and Administration of the U.S. Senate and a 2005 recipient of a Presidential Certificate of Merit, will present an insider’s view of the strategies and decision-making processes affecting many government information policy issues. Other topics will cover the positions and advocacy actions taken by the Washington Affairs Office and other organizations on behalf of AALL’s membership.

Timothy L. Coggins, Coordinator and Moderator, University of Richmond School of Law Library

C-1 100-year-old Interest Rates and Beyond: How the Federal Reserve and FRASER® Can Meet Your Legal Research Needs

Level: Intermediate  60 Minutes

Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services

Target Audience: Law librarians in need of information from the Federal Reserve; reference and government documents librarians

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be introduced to the free sources of current and historical economic data available from FRASER®, FRED® and ALFRED™.
2) Participants will be able to explain to economists the importance of real-time data and discuss some of the issues surrounding a large scanning project.

The Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis has initiated the FRASER® (Federal Reserve Archival System for Economic Research) project and a new historical component to FRED® (Federal Reserve Economic Data), called ALFRED™ (Archival Federal Reserve Economic Data), an automated system that will allow researchers to retrieve historical real-time economic data series. FRASER® is an image archive of historic economic data publications that allows for sophisticated retrieval of statistical tables over many years. Archival publications related to the Federal Reserve are now being added to FRASER®, beginning with the supporting material from Allan Meltzer’s book, A History of the Federal Reserve Vol. 1, 1913-1951. These two new tools will allow researchers to access economic data as it was presented at a particular moment in time, and with each subsequent correction and update. The presentation will discuss these two tools, their development and use.

Lawrence R. Meyer, Coordinator and Moderator, San Bernardino County Law Library
Robert H. Rasche, Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis
Katrina Stierholz, Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis

C-2 Let’s All Wiki Wiki! Creative Uses for Wikis in Any Library
Level: Introductory 60 Minutes
Competency: Information Technology
Target Audience: Librarians who want to create interactive and collaborative online projects

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will explore using wikis to create and manage projects.
2) Participants will compare the features of two wiki software products.

More libraries are using “wikis” (online collaborative document systems) to manage projects and provide patron services. Libraries have now created wikis to answer reference questions, manage e-reserves, and highlight useful electronic and Internet resources. Some are using wikis to manage their intranets. This program will describe the many possibilities of wikis in a library environment. Participants will assess two applications used to create wikis and identify the differences between wiki syntax and HTML. (No prior experience with wikis is needed.)

Deborah Ginsberg, Coordinator and Speaker, Chicago-Kent College of Law Library

C-3 Colonial Virginia’s Legal History
Level: Intermediate 60 Minutes
Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services
Target Audience: Academic, state, court and county librarians interested in legal history

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will learn how English legal writers influenced legal thinking in 17th century Virginia.
2) Participants will review originalism in the writings that influenced the framers of the Constitution, in particular St. George Tucker and the authors of the Second Amendment.

Virginians made an important contribution to both legal and political thought in American history. Commemorating the 400th anniversary of the founding of Virginia in 2007, this session will offer participants a view of colonial Virginia history from the viewpoint of two distinguished historians. Dr. Warren Billings, one of the leading scholars on 17th century Virginia history, will discuss English influences on legal thought of the era. Dr. David Konig, an expert on Anglo-American legal history, will present the originalism debate among historians over influences on the framers of the Constitution by examining certain Virginia authors like St. George Tucker, who was an important early contributor to American legal thinking through his edited works on Blackstone’s Commentaries, and other authors who affected the debates over the Second Amendment.

Deborah Ginsberg, Coordinator and Speaker, Chicago-Kent College of Law Library

C-4 The New Frontier in Scholarly Publishing
Level: Introductory 60 Minutes
Competency: Library Management
Target Audience: All librarians who are interested in an important change in law publishing—originating with authors rather than publishers—that will revolutionize law library collections and services

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to assess the impact of open access on their libraries.
2) Participants will be able to explain the importance of open access to the field of law.

Student-edited law reviews have long been the mainstay of legal scholarship, but the pattern of scholarly publishing is rapidly changing. Legal scholars want to share their work, often at an early stage, and repositories such as SSRN, BePress and law school Web pages have made it possible to distribute new work quickly and easily to a much larger audience. As the repositories grow, faculty are challenging established rules for licensing agreements and copyright, and pushing for open access initiatives that will ensure widespread dissemination of their work. Meanwhile, print law review collections are now stored as low-use items, are no longer bound or have disappeared from library shelves. This program will explore the future of scholarly publishing, the open access movement and the impact on your library.

Keith Ann Stiverson, Coordinator, Chicago-Kent College of Law Library
Paul George, Moderator, University of Pennsylvania Law School, Biddle Law Library
James Boyle, Duke Law School
C-5 Interns = Opportunity!
Level: Intermediate 60 Minutes
Competency: Core Competencies for Law Librarianship
Target Audience: Library managers/heads in law firms, government agencies and academia
Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will learn how they can coordinate their needs with those of the graduate library school program and play a role in encouraging library students to enter the field of law librarianship.
2) Participants will be able to demonstrate to their employer the benefits of having an internship within their own library, accomplishing special projects and staying current with their professional field.
Law librarians and library educators who are involved with library internships will explain the benefits for both private law and academic libraries. Detailed discussion will cover needs of the intern, types of projects or assignments, and the necessary feedback required for effective evaluation of interns.
Janice Leichter, Coordinator, Maslon Edelman Borman and Brand
Paul D. Healey, Moderator and Speaker, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, Albert E. Jenner Memorial Law Library

C-6 Debunking the Myth: LawBore, Indispensability and Becoming the Vanguard of Change
Level: Introductory 60 Minutes
Competency: Information Technology
Target Audience: Librarians in an academic setting or law firm who are involved in the creation of portals
Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be qualified to list the features of a gateway/portal that will arouse and sustain their users’ interest.
2) Participants will be able to state the potential pitfalls or obstacles to be avoided in the creation of a portal.
LawBore is a unique UK legal portal that provides not only a gateway to Internet resources, but also offers a host of features not traditionally in the domain of the law librarian such as chat rooms, alumni contributions, careers advice and a mooting guide.
Emily Allbon, Coordinator, Moderator and Speaker, City University, London

D-1 Public Speaking: A New Frontier?
Level: Introductory 60 Minutes
Competency: Core Competencies for Law Librarianship
Target Audience: Librarians who want to improve their public speaking abilities
Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to identify techniques that reduce stress related to public speaking.
2) Participants will learn the essential skills to improve public speaking.
Public speaking is a common stress for most everyone, but it doesn’t have to be! Learn how to connect to your audience through powerful public speaking. Avoid the pitfalls of the “ahs and ums,” and learn about eye contact and vocal variety. This program will provide examples of how you can improve your presentations by demonstrating some of the components of a Toastmasters™ meeting. Toastmasters™ is an international program where people from all backgrounds learn to effectively speak, conduct a meeting, manage a department or business, lead, delegate and motivate. Attendees will hear from librarian Toastmasters™ who will share how they have been able to overcome their fear of public speaking and how it has helped them advance in their careers. Are you ready to become a pioneer in the frontier of public speaking?
Ronda Fisch, Coordinator and Speaker, Reed Smith LLP
Thomas L. Moore, AT&T

D-2 Pioneering Change Through Technology: The Evolving Role of Handheld Devices in Law Libraries
Level: Introductory 60 Minutes
Competency: Information Technology
Target Audience: Academic, law firm, public and court law librarians who are interested in delivering library content through handheld devices
Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to identify five ways that patrons are using PDAs to access library content.
2) Participants will be able to design and implement six effective services for users of handheld devices.

This program will examine library and information-related applications available for handheld devices, including PDAs and smart phones. These handheld devices are another valuable tool through which libraries can market their services and resources. This program will identify how these devices are being used to access library content, and provide a variety of ways to harness this technology and deliver effective handheld service. In particular, the speakers will cover how to help users access eBooks, OPACs, library forms, calendars, news and legal databases on these devices. They will also illustrate how to provide online reference and quizzes in this medium. In addition, an annotated bibliography of handheld resources for libraries will accompany the presentation.

D-3 Do We Have the Numbers? Empirical Research in Law—International Law as a Case Study
Level: Intermediate 60 Minutes

Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services
Target Audience: Reference librarians as well as foreign and international law librarians

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to assess quantitative research methods.
2) Participants will be able to locate source material relating to empirical research and the law.

International relations scholars from the field of political science and law scholars both analyze international law. As international relations theory influences international legal theory, more law scholars are using empirical research methods. Their scholarship has analyzed human rights, international trade and international tribunals. This program will begin with a general discussion of empirical research and legal scholarship and will conclude with a case study of empirical research and international law. Speakers will consider the strengths and weaknesses of quantitative research for the study of law.

D-4 Promoting the Past to Assure the Future: The Lure of Legal History
Level: Intermediate 60 Minutes

Competency: Core Competencies for Law Librarianship
Target Audience: Librarians in academic, court, bar and public law libraries

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to identify resources in their collections that they can use to carry out legal history-related efforts that will attract and educate library patrons.
2) Participants will be able to place into action legal history-related projects such as publications, exhibits and educational programs to encourage patrons to visit and appreciate the value of their libraries.

As many of our traditional clientele increasingly rely upon electronic access to legal materials in their homes and offices, law librarians are seeking creative ways to reinvent their libraries’ services to attract and keep patrons. By digging into older materials in their collections and exploring the history of their institutions, they are unearthing fascinating subject matter to feature in exhibits, publications and educational programs. Not only scholars, but also judges, lawyers, students and the general public are using and appreciating the treasures in these collections. Law libraries are welcoming the public for tours, lectures and films, and are collaborating with court historical societies to recruit supporters. This program will discuss how to make these projects possible by expanding research skills and gaining expertise in the legal, political and cultural history of their states, localities and institutions so as to attract patrons.

D-5 Up and Down the Career Ladder: Finding the Right Rung for You
Level: Intermediate 60 Minutes
Competency: Core Competencies for Law Librarianship
Target Audience: Librarians with at least five years of experience who are either considering a move into administration or a return to a nonadministrative position
Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to identify the job requirements and responsibilities of management positions and to assess whether such jobs would interest them.
2) Participants will be prepared to use their new knowledge of career advancement and enhancement in order to create a personal career plan.
Are you wondering if you want to be a director? How about an assistant or associate director, or the head of a department? How do you determine if any of these jobs are right for you? What do you do if you want to step down the ladder; how do you make a graceful descent? What if you want to stay on your current job rung; how do you make sure that your job stays fresh and challenging? These questions and more will be answered by a former director, a former associate director and a longtime reference librarian.

D-6 Measuring Impact: Cost Justification for Information Services
Level: Advanced 60 Minutes
Competency: Library Management
Target Audience: Library directors or other library personnel responsible for a library’s budget
Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will learn how to demonstrate successfully the value of information services to organization financial decision-makers.
2) Participants will learn how to speak “finance” with organization decision-makers, including discussion of concepts such as “return on investment” and “operating margin.”
Have you ever wondered how you can make the financial decision-makers understand the value that your information resource center brings to the organization? Do you ever feel that you’re not speaking the same language? Do you wish you could communicate your value in terms that they’d understand? Then this program is for you! This program will demonstrate how to measure and communicate the impact of your services on the key business initiatives of your organization, using common finance concepts. Participants will learn how to write an impact statement that really makes an impact.
This program builds on return on investment principles and provides the “big picture” view on how to justify the information center’s costs, and ultimately, its existence. Finally, the session features the best practices of a Director of Knowledge Management who has had repeated success in conveying the value of the information resources center to the decision-makers in her organization.

E-1 AALL/LexisNexis® Call for Papers
Level: Introductory 60 Minutes
Competency: Core Competencies for Law Librarianship
Target Audience: Librarians or students who are interested in writing for publication
Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will become familiar with the AALL/LexisNexis® Call for Papers competition.
2) Participants will receive tips and encouragement on the writing process.
The 2006 award-winning authors will present and discuss their papers. Student Division: Theresa (Tracy) Leming will present her paper, “Should Academic Law Libraries Continue to Participate in the Federal Depository Library Program?” Open Division: Charles R. Dyer will discuss his entry, “The Queen of Chula Vista: Stories of Self-Represented Litigants and a Call for Using the Cognitive Theory of Metaphor to Work With Them,” and Paul D. Healey will present his paper, “Go and Tell the World: Charles R. McCarthy and the Evolution of the Legislative Reference Library Movement, 1901-1917.” Following the author presentations, tips on writing and getting published will be presented by Mr. Healey, who is the Editorial Director of AALL Spectrum.
The Call for Papers was established to promote scholarship, provide an outlet for creativity, and recognize the scholarly efforts of established members, new members and potential members of AALL. Program attendees will receive a brief presentation from the award-winning authors, as well as learn tips on the writing process.
Patricia Wellinger, Coordinator and Speaker, University of Denver, Westminster Law Library
Charles R. Dyer, retired Director, San Diego County Public Law Library
E-2 Teaching CALR to Law Students: What Do Students Really Need to Know When They Arrive at a Law Firm?

Level: Intermediate 60 Minutes

Competency: Teaching

Target Audience: Academic law librarians who teach introductory or advanced legal research, law firm librarians

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be prepared to re-evaluate their curricula and course materials to educate law students more accurately and adequately about how to conduct online legal research in and the billing practices for the law firm environment.
2) Participants will be able to implement strategies for keeping current on law firm research culture and practices and for incorporating this information into their educational programs.

Organized research courses taught by law librarians have become increasingly widespread in law schools. Academic law librarians often insist that training conducted by vendor representatives overly emphasizes marketing to law students and that librarians should conduct this training. However, are academic law librarians conveying to law students accurate and useful information about the realities of electronic research in law firm environments? This program will examine real-world research from the perspectives of librarians from large and small law firms. Other discussion points will include issues related to charges and billing practices of the major commercial vendors, LexisNexis® and Westlaw®, and the use of other electronic resources such as LoisLaw™ and CCH™ and BNA® products.

E-3 Invasion of the Podcast People: Podcasting for the Law Library

Level: Introductory 60 Minutes

Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services

Target Audience: Law librarians

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will develop an understanding of the various ways that podcasting can be used in the context of patron services.
2) Participants will explore the basic technologies (hardware and software) required to create their own podcasts.

Librarians should utilize technology to enhance their instruction methods beyond the print handout. Many users of the law library today have access to audio devices, whether it is their own MP3 players, or access to a computer with speakers. By creating audio files that patrons can easily download and play, law librarians can leverage this technology to create tours, lessons and user guides that go beyond the traditional print handout. This session will introduce law librarians to various ways other law libraries are using podcasting to enhance their patron services, as well as review what equipment and software applications are most appropriate for their own library’s uses. Specific uses of podcasting in an academic law library setting will also be explored. Special attention will be paid to making podcasting as affordable and simple as possible.

E-4 Legal Publishers and Business Practices: AALL’s Ongoing Role in Monitoring the Information Industry

Level: Introductory 60 Minutes

Competency: Collection Care and Management

Target Audience: All librarians who are interested in how AALL monitors and interacts with information vendors

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will learn of changes in the structure of AALL’s vendor relations groups.
2) Participants will learn how these groups interact with information vendors.

CRIV and other AALL entities work steadily during the year on issues relating to legal publications. This session will provide an update on CRIV activities, the AALL CRIV Task Force, Fair Business Practices Guide Implementation Task Force, Project Counter, and Licensing Principles for Electronic Resources. AALL members will be able to present issues and questions to the leaders of each of these vital AALL groups.

E-5 Beer and Pretzels: Eavesdropping on AALL History at the Centennial Brewery
Level: Introductory  60 Minutes

Competency: Core Competencies for Law Librarianship

Target Audience: Law librarians from all types of libraries and with all levels of experience; others interested in the history of AALL and the law librarianship profession

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be more aware of the significance of the AALL Centennial to them as law library professionals.
2) Participants will learn about key events and individuals in AALL’s 100 years of existence.

Contributing to the culmination of AALL’s yearlong Centennial Celebration, this program will offer attendees another opportunity to “eavesdrop” on an informative and entertaining session of “live” oral history. Following the “Overheard at the Bar” format used so successfully with programs in 1989-92 and 2004-05, several AALL “veterans” will sit together as if at a table in a hotel bar and chat about their experiences in AALL and law librarianship. As if they were at the next table, audience members will be treated to the knowledge, wisdom and wit of some of the profession’s most renowned leaders—and maybe even a tidbit or two of law library “gossip.”

E-6 International Law in the Heartland: Implications for Consular Rights of Foreign Nationals
Level: Intermediate  60 Minutes

Competency: Teaching

Target Audience: Librarians whose patrons include law enforcement officials, prosecutors, attorneys engaged in criminal defense or international law, and students, faculty and other researchers in international law

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to identify international treaties or legal agreements that affect local law enforcement or prosecution.
2) Participants will be able to plan and assess research strategies that will inform and assist those who create, effect, implement or enforce local policies that require compliance with international law.

Recent cases in state appellate courts and the U.S. Supreme Court have shown how local law enforcement and prosecution are affected by the Vienna Convention on Consular Relations. The Convention gives U.S. citizens detained abroad the right to contact a U.S. consulate official immediately. The same rights are given to citizens of other signatory countries detained in the United States. Local law enforcement procedures often neglect this international right. Professor Sims teaches international human rights law, and has published articles on the Vienna Convention on Consular Relations and the rights of noncitizen criminal defendants. He will give an overview of consular rights law, including recent U.S. Supreme Court decisions. In addition, an attorney from the State Department Office of Consular Affairs will describe State Department efforts to enhance local law enforcement compliance with the Convention.

F-1 Pioneer for Change or Vicious Cycle? Creating Space for People, Collections and Technology in the Finite Library
Level: Advanced  60 Minutes

Competency: Library Management

Target Audience: Library directors and space planners

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be prepared to assess and analyze current space needs in order to design, plan and execute a renovation project to best utilize space available to them without a major renovation or new construction.
2) Participants will be able to perform and write a space needs assessment, write a plan to adopt current spaces to better serve their needs, and guide a reconfiguration project through to completion.
Working with deans, facilities management personnel, designers and architects, librarians are often asked to solve the evolving space needs of their institutions by adapting library space to accommodate the most pressing needs for technology, staff, users and collections. How do librarians cope with these changes short of building completely new libraries or undertaking major renovation projects? Using projects at the University of Western Ontario and Syracuse University as case studies, the panelists will discuss how to meet the challenges of providing space in their libraries as their institutions’ needs change—without having the luxury of just adding more space.

In other words, as technology evolves and the space needed for growth in collections, users, or staff increases without additional space being provided to the library, areas already assigned to these components need to be reconfigured to accommodate new demands. The panelists will discuss how to accomplish this task in the finite library.

F-2 Copyright Implications of Digital Archives

Level: Intermediate

Competency: Information Technology

Target Audience: Owners and users of digital archives

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will analyze the copyright implications of digital archives.
2) Participants will discuss the use and sale of archived public domain works.

Many institutions are creating digital archives of items in their collections. Institutions also want to generate revenue to underwrite the cost of archive creation. Many digitized items are in the public domain, but some are not. This program will discuss the copyright and ethical implications of these efforts.

Catherine Lemann, Coordinator and Moderator, Law Library of Louisiana

F-3 Blazing Trails for Our Future: Practical Strategies for Recruiting the Next Generation of Law Librarians

Level: Advanced

60 Minutes

Competency: Core Competencies for Law Librarianship

Target Audience: Educators, employers and individual librarians who are interested in reaching out to potential law librarians

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to identify measures to recruit potential law librarians effectively and implement those measures most suited to their particular institutions and circumstances.
2) Participants will be able to apply the credentials different employers seek in new librarians in order to design programs that attract candidates to those positions for which they are best suited and most qualified.

Pursuant to AALL’s new Strategic Direction on Education to “increase the number of library school programs for law librarianship and increase awareness of law librarianship as a profession,” this program is a forum to help law librarians develop a comprehensive recruiting and mentoring plan. Educators and employers will present innovative ways to recruit law librarians and provide advice about reaching those beginning their first career and those for whom law librarianship may be an alternative to their current career. We will provide pragmatic advice for both institutions—like how to develop joint degree programs and internships—and individuals. Employers will also discuss the credentials they seek when hiring librarians and suggest techniques for recruiting from diverse constituencies, beyond the traditional pool of library and law students.

F-4 What Do YOU Want? The Hidden Problem of Compassion Fatigue

Level: Introductory 60 Minutes

Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services

Target Audience: All librarians

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will learn to identify the symptoms of compassion fatigue.
2) Participants will be able to assimilate strategies needed to cope with compassion fatigue and prevent burnout.

Librarians are service-oriented professionals. Yet the constant wear and tear of a week filled with trying to meet the expectations of a demanding clientele can be stressful and emotionally exhausting. “Compassion fatigue” is a real syndrome that usually affects service providers such as doctors, nurses and teachers. Dr. Charles Figley is a nationally recognized expert and author in the field of compassion fatigue; he is also the Director of the Institute of Traumatology at Florida State University. Dr. Figley will discuss the symptoms of compassion fatigue in our professional lives and how to combat it effectively.

F-5 Occupational Hazards on the New Frontier: How Advances in Technology Both Aid and Injure the Pioneers

Level: Introductory 60 Minutes

Competency: Library Management

Target Audience: Library managers and librarians who want to know more about workplace injuries and assistive technologies

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to identify assistive technologies used by librarians to perform their job.
2) Participants will be able to assess their work environment for potential hazards and make changes to their work environment.

Technological advances in our profession require librarians to spend many hours working on keyboards and looking at a computer monitor. The occupational hazards associated with spending hours seated at a computer workstation include carpal tunnel syndrome, eye strain, back strain and neck strain. There are adaptive/assistive technologies you can use and other steps you can take that will help you do your job with less negative impact on your body. Participants will see demonstrations of Dragon NaturallySpeaking™, digital pens, notebook computers and other assistive technologies. Additionally, an environmental health and safety professional will offer tips for creating an ergonomically correct work area.

F-6 Pioneering Global Health Law: Pandemics, Trends and Research Strategies

Level: Intermediate 60 Minutes

Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services

Target Audience: All librarians, particularly foreign, international and comparative librarians and researchers

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to list major effects of globalization on public health and identify international legal trends in preventing communicable disease.
2) Participants will develop strategies for finding major legal materials on international health law.

While globalization has facilitated world trade and economic growth, it has also enabled regional epidemics to spread at unprecedented speed worldwide. A chilling example is the SARS epidemic, which started in China and quickly spread to two dozen countries. This program will explore general trends in global diseases and legal efforts against them, effects on trade and human rights law, and legal research in the new field of international health law. Professor Victoria J. Fraser, MD, the Co-Chief of the Division of Infectious Diseases at Washington University School of Medicine, will discuss the current status of prevention of global diseases. Professor Lance Gable of Georgetown University Law Center’s Center for Law and the Public’s Health will address the impact of global health on international law. Chenglin Liu, JSD, of the University of Houston Law Center’s O’Quinn Law Library and author of Chinese Law on SARS, will explore research strategies and resources.

G-1 E-Life Cycle Management: A Town Meeting with Public Printer Bruce James and U.S. Archivist Allen Weinstein

Level: Intermediate 75 Minutes

Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services

Target Audience: Users of government information from all types of law libraries and law librarians who manage and use electronic federal government information

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will evaluate the GPO's progress in developing the Future Digital System against its mission to "inform the nation" and NARA's progress with the Electronic Records Archive against its mission to "ensure ready access to essential evidence."
2) Participants will be able to compare and contrast the policies that drive each agency in meeting its responsibilities in the digital environment.

AALL has long been committed to holding the federal government responsible for ensuring the entire life cycle of electronic government information, including developing user-friendly and comprehensive finding tools, as well as the permanent public access, authentication and preservation of electronic publications and records. The GPO and NARA are implementing important new digital initiatives, the Future Digital System and the Electronic Records Archives, that hold the promise of meeting these important goals. The roles, responsibilities and policies of each agency, while different, are crucial to the success of federal e-government. Join Public Printer Bruce James and U.S. Archivist Allen Weinstein for an assessment of their agency's progress with these important initiatives at the policy level, particularly in meeting the digital information needs of the legal community and public users.

G-2 Getting to Know You: Increase Your Visibility and Value to Firm Management

Level: Intermediate 75 Minutes

Competency: Library Management

Target Audience: Private law librarians and other librarians who are interested in moving research services beyond the traditional reference desk—using management and client services projects as a way to increase visibility and value to the parent institution

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will learn about knowledge management services for law firm administrators.
2) Participants will be able to create in-house management strategies to work with other administrative departments.

How can you become a more visible member of your law firm's management team? How can you build internal partnerships and communicate your value to the firm as an information professional? By becoming an active participant in—and resource for—management and client service projects! At this session, participants will take a guided tour of the research services the Association of Legal Administrator (ALA) has developed for its members: the Management SolutionsSM reference desk, the Legal Management Resource Center Web site and the ALA Management EncyclopediaSM. Participants will learn how these services can help with projects for their firm's administrator; even more important, they will see a working model for collaborating with other administrative departments in the firm.

G-3 Pioneering Toward a New Cataloging Code: RDA—Resource Description and Access

Level: Introductory 75 Minutes

Competency: Core Competencies for Law Librarianship

Target Audience: Catalogers and other librarians who are interested in learning about the proposed new cataloging rules

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will learn about the progress being made to create a new cataloging code.
2) Participants will have an opportunity to review parts of the draft rules.

The cataloging community is crossing new frontiers to align the rules with the 21st century. The ALA representative to the Joint Steering Committee to revise the rules will describe the latest progress in creating a new cataloging code that will handle the resources of the future. A brief historical overview will be presented on why AACR3 was abandoned and a new draft begun with the working title of “Resource Description and Access (RDA).”

Sections of the draft of particular interest to law catalogers will be reviewed with an opportunity for questions and comments.

G-4 Marketing Your Library Through CLE Programs

Level: Introductory 75 Minutes

Competency: Teaching

Target Audience: Librarians who want to create and deliver CLE programs

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to identify techniques for getting CLE programs approved and accredited.
2) Participants will be able to list and explain five characteristics of a successful library CLE program.

All states require attorneys to engage in continuing legal education as a part of their license to practice law. Attorneys are always looking for easy and enjoyable ways to fulfill these CLE requirements. Law librarians in several states have created successful CLE programs that fill a need of the bar and create goodwill and recognition for their libraries. Participants will hear from a librarian in an academic law library who has successfully developed CLE programs that are used statewide and from a private law firm librarian who develops and provides CLE programs for in-house consumption.

G-5 100 Years: A Look at the Federal Indian Trust Relation Through the Cobell Case

Level: Advanced 75 Minutes

Competency: Core Competencies for Law Librarianship

Target Audience: Law librarians who are interested in Native issues; firm librarians who work with Native tribes; government document librarians who are interested in lawsuits involving the federal government; general reference librarians who may receive questions concerning information that used to be readily available on the BIA’s Web site

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will acquire knowledge of Native history as it pertains to the trust relationship between Native nations and the U.S. government.
2) Participants will learn specifically about the Cobell litigation, a class-action lawsuit filed in 1996 in response to 100 years of mismanagement of the Indian trust funds, and the impact that this litigation has had on the BIA’s Web site.

This program will present an overview of the history of the trust relationship between Native peoples of America and the U.S. government. First, Faye Hadley will provide a brief history of the Cobell litigation and demonstrate the information contained on the Cobell v. Norton Trust Fund Web site: http://www.indiantrust.com/. Additionally, she will give an historical rendition of when and why the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) Web site is down and where librarians can access the information that the BIA site used to provide. Next, Victoria Adele Santana, Reference Law Librarian, Oklahoma City University Law School and enrolled member of the Blackfeet Nation, will outline the history of the Trust relationship, including the Dawes Act of 1887, the subsequent opening of many reservations to settlers of European descent, and the treaties that form the legal basis for the Trust relationship between Native nations and the U.S. government. Lastly, Eloise Cobell, the lead plaintiff in the Cobell Lawsuit, will discuss why the lawsuit was filed and give its status.

G-6 Forging Connections with Library Friends Groups

Level: Introductory 75 Minutes

Competency: Library Management

Target Audience: Librarians at academic, state, court or county law libraries who are interested in library marketing and community relations

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to describe the steps involved in creating and running a successful library friends program.
2) Participants will be able to list the benefits and drawbacks of library friends programs.

Have you ever thought about creating a library friends program? A strong library friends program enhances your library’s visibility, and helps you forge connections with members of your community who can become your library’s biggest supporters: the bench, bar, alumni and potential donors. Participants will hear from academic and state law librarians about their own successful programs, including key “how-tos” and lessons they learned along the way. In addition, a leader of a library friends group will address how libraries and friends can work together to build a better library.

H-1 Hot Topic: Prepare for the Worst, Hope for the Best: Using a Library Disaster Plan Template to Prepare the Library’s Disaster Plan

Level: Introductory 60 Minutes

Target Audience: Librarians interested in developing a detailed disaster plan for their libraries

Competency: Collection Care and Management

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will learn how to create a disaster plan for their libraries that includes important information such as collection salvage priorities, recovery for computer equipment and resources for recovery services.
2) Participants will receive a list of sample disaster plans available on the Internet and a selected annotated bibliography of books and articles on disaster planning.

Disasters can range from plumbing leaks and broken water pipes to major catastrophes, such as hurricanes and fires. Almost every year, librarians cope with many types of disasters, both natural and manmade. For many managers involved in a disaster, good disaster planning made it possible to get their libraries back into operation. The disaster plan template will assist librarians in preparing for emergency situations that may threaten the safety of persons, collections and facilities. Whether your library has a minimal amount of time to devote to emergency planning or is undertaking a comprehensive planning project, this disaster plan template will help you gather vital information that will be invaluable in the event of an emergency.

H-2 Blogs: Technologies, Ethics and Trends

Level: Intermediate 60 Minutes

Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services

Target Audience: Librarians who want a basic understanding of blogging and how blogging can be used in their day-to-day research

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will understand the basics of blogging technologies.
2) Participants will be prepared to use blogs in their everyday work.

Come learn about RSSing, XML, HTML and other technologies involved in “blogging,” what ethical problems are evolving in blogs, and what new trends are evolving, including the use of blogging in competitive intelligence.

H-3 60 Key Intellectual Property Research Sites in 60 Minutes

Level: Intermediate

Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services

Target Audience: Law librarians whose clientele, whether attorneys or the general public, want to research intellectual property issues

Learning Outcomes:

1) Participants will locate the wide variety and ever-changing intellectual property resources available on the Web.

2) Participants will evaluate which resources will be most useful in their particular work environment.

The specialty of intellectual property law has exploded in recent years due to the growing importance of technology in the United States and the changes wrought by a growing global economy. Intellectual property often comprises the most important assets of major corporations, as well as small start-ups both in this country and abroad. The number of patents granted annually has steadily increased over the last decade, as has the number of infringement litigation lawsuits. In response, both international intellectual property offices and vendors have developed a wide variety of databases and services, which are constantly being upgraded and changed. Law librarians serving patrons seeking information on obtaining, licensing and/or enforcing strong patents, trademarks and copyrights must be able to evaluate and guide their patrons to the most appropriate resources available.

An annotated handout listing Web site names and URLs for patent, trademark and copyright research will accompany this presentation.

H-4 Technology Scouts: How to Keep Your Library and ILS Current in the IT World

Level: Intermediate

Competency: Information Technology

Target Audience: Librarians who are involved with adding value to or integrating their OPAC with campus systems

Learning Outcomes:

1) Participants will evaluate the relevance of these technologies for their libraries.

2) Participants will be able to discuss technological innovations in delivering library services.

Wondering what's all the buzz about portal integration, federated searching, XML interfaces, learning management systems and RSS feeds? Trying to find out how to stay in the loop with campus IT? Speakers from two academic libraries and one law library will discuss their technological initiatives. This program will survey the current possibilities available to librarians interested in enhancing OPAC functionality or integrating with campus services.

H-5 Managing Beyond the Library: Successful Management of IT Departments for Law Librarians

Level: Intermediate

Competency: Library Management

Target Audience: Law librarians who are interested in learning more about the benefits to the law school and law library of combining law library and IT management under one position

Learning Outcomes:

1) Participants will learn what skills are necessary for a law library manager/director to manage the IT department.

2) Participants will discuss the benefits and challenges of having the IT Department and law library managed by one individual.

A panel of law library directors and deans will explore the challenges and benefits of combining the IT department with the law library of the law school. The directors and deans of the panel will be those who have either successfully managed the IT department and law library of the law school at the same time or who are currently in the process of combining the two departments. The program will provide an overview of how some different organizations manage the library/IT combination, the benefit to the law school as a whole, and suggestions for aspiring directors on the necessary skills for this type of position.

H-6 Pioneering Professionalism: The Journey Begins with Ethics
Level: Intermediate
60 Minutes
Competency: Core Competencies for Law Librarianship
Target Audience: Academic, law firm and court law librarians
Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will learn to recognize ethical issues that arise in the course of their work and apply ethical principles of law librarianship to those situations.
2) Participants will learn to critically evaluate the effectiveness of existing ethical principles in the field of law librarianship.

Do you sometimes feel that others in the legal world and members of the broader public don't give law librarians the respect they deserve? Do you want to see law librarians really considered as "professionals" by persons outside law librarianship? This program presents a new approach to the old problem of how law librarians can become more widely accepted as professionals. Other professions have meaningful codes of ethics. Do our AALL "Ethical Principles" fill this role? An interactive panel will explore how these principles might apply to real-life ethical dilemmas in the life of a law librarian and will discuss if more needs to be done in the area of ethics.

I-1 "Don't Ask, Don't Tell," Solomon, FAIR v. Rumsfeld and the Law Librarian’s Role in Amelioration
Level: Intermediate
90 Minutes
Competency: Reference, Research, and Patron Services
Target Audience: Academic law librarians and others who are interested in the particulars of this case
Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will know what DADT and Solomon are, how they impact law students and what the Supreme Court's forthcoming decision in Fair v. Rumsfeld means.
2) Participants will be able to provide a leadership role in their law school's amelioration efforts.

In 1990, the Association of American Law Schools (AALS) mandated that all member schools require employers recruiting on campus to provide written proof that they do not discriminate on the "ground of race, color, religion, national origin, sex, age, disability, or sexual orientation." In 1993, Public Law 103-160, known as "Don't Ask, Don't Tell" and codified at 10 USC Sec. 654, established as law the military's long-standing discriminatory practices against gays and lesbians. Because of this law many law schools, in keeping with their nondiscrimination policies, sought to keep the military from recruiting on their campuses. In 1996, Congress responded with the "Solomon Amendment" (10 USC Sec. 983), which threatens the withdrawal of federal funds from universities that maintain their antidiscrimination policies by excluding the military. On March 6, 2006, the U.S. Supreme Court unanimously ruled that the Solomon Amendment is constitutional, ruling against the Forum for Academic and Institutional Rights (FAIR), a group including some of the best constitutional law professors in the country. Beginning with an explanation of "Don't Ask, Don't Tell" and following with details on the AALS's position, Solomon, and FAIR v. Rumsfeld, this program will present the story of how our law schools and our government found themselves on different sides. We will conclude with information on how law librarians are working within their law schools on amelioration efforts.

I-2 What the #!*? Is a “Snippet”? Copyright Issues Related to the Google Book Search Project

Level: Intermediate 90 Minutes

Competency: Core Competencies for Law Librarianship

Target Audience: Librarians who are interested in copyright issues and the Google Book Search Project

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to identify and describe the copyright issues related to the Google Book Search digitization project.
2) Participants will be able to analyze the role of Google’s digitization project as it relates to the future of library digitization projects.

Google’s Book Search Project, a collaboration of libraries, publishers and the Internet service provider, is a “pioneering” effort toward creating a global virtual library. Google has partnered with five major research libraries, including the University of Michigan, to digitize their collections and make them searchable through the Google Book Search Library Project. Google has also forged a relationship with publishers to make certain titles searchable through the Google Book Search Publishers Program. A representative from the University of Michigan Libraries, an expert on copyright law and a lawyer representing publishers’ interests will discuss the project and related copyright issues:

Will the plan democratize access to information? How will current litigation, like that involving the Internet Archive “Wayback Machine,” affect the project? Why did the Google Book Search Library Project stop scanning all in-copyright works, giving publishers the opportunity to decide which of their books could and could not be scanned? And what exactly is a “snippet,” the term used by Google to describe the amount of information that will be provided from copyrighted works?

I-3 The Emotional Intelligence of Law Librarians: Successful Leaders Pioneer Change

Level: Introductory 90 Minutes

Competency: Core Competencies for Law Librarianship

Target Audience: Law librarians interested in using emotional intelligence (EQ) assessments in order to determine which careers would best suit them or to identify skills they need to develop in order to succeed in a desired position

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to describe the EQ profiles of successful law librarians in different positions and in different types of law libraries.
2) Participants will be able to describe techniques for bridging the gap between current and desired ranges in different areas of EQ.

Studies have shown that “emotional intelligence” (EQ) is an important factor in being successful in life and that certain patterns of the 13 qualities that make up an “EQ” contribute to success in specific career areas. Many employers, including law firms, use EQ tests to make hiring and promotion decisions. Job seekers use EQ assessments to determine which careers would best suit them or to identify skills they need to develop to succeed in a desired position. Kelly Browne, recipient of an AALL/Aspen Research Grant for her project, “The Emotional Intelligence of Law Librarians,” will share the outcome of her survey of “successful” law librarians and describe the resulting profiles of various law librarian positions in different types of law libraries. Additionally, Susan Freeman, an EQ expert, will discuss techniques for bridging the gap between current and desired ranges in different areas of emotional intelligence.

I-4 Trends in Legal Education and in Law Practice

Level: Intermediate 90 Minutes

Competency: Library Management

Target Audience: All librarians who engage in any aspect of legal education and service to legal practitioners

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to identify six new trends that drive legal education and law practice today.
2) Participants will be able to discuss and create library services and research instruction that prepare attorneys to meet the challenges of new trends.

Attorneys today work in ways exponentially different than their predecessors. The pace of personal technology, the breadth of the global community and the overload of information all challenge the traditional practice of law. In this thought-provoking colloquy among law school deans, a law firm partner, a judge and a law library director, we will explore the new directions in which law and justice are moving today. Do deans have a vision of online information that needs few books? Is research today a function of gathering legal precedents, or is it driven by facts and science and finances? Participants will learn from our guest experts what the trends are in order to empower them with new insights to pioneer transformative library services.

I-5 Covering the Cost of Information: Time for Change?

Level: Intermediate 90 Minutes

Competency: Library Management

Target Audience: Librarians who are in a position to recommend or influence policies and procedures related to billing issues.

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to articulate the arguments used to support billing information-related expenses as disbursements and as overhead.
2) Participants will be able to identify the billing model used in their organization and draft a recommendation to continue or change that model.

In law firms, the cost of print materials is generally considered overhead, while expenses related to online services tend to be usage-based. At a time when electronic is surpassing print as the main format, what is the impact of this dichotomy on research practices and client services? This session will examine the rationale for treating media differently, the practical implications of having clients pay for the specific information they use, and the ethical considerations and rules governing client billing for resources. The following questions will be posed and answered: Should we rethink our approach given changes in the information marketplace and the primacy of electronic information? If so, what other models are available, and what are the financial and ethical implications of each?

I-6 Retrieval That Works: Functional Requirements for Bibliographic Records (FRBR) and OCLC

Level: Introductory 90 Minutes

Competency: Collection Care and Management

Target Audience: Technical service, reference service and system librarians, especially for cataloging librarians.

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to articulate the basic principles of the FRBR model and its potential value to next generation library services.
2) Participants will be prepared to demonstrate the FRBR-related features of Online Computer Library Center (OCLC) Firstsearch WorldCat and Open WorldCat services.

The IFLA Functional Requirements for Bibliographic Records (FRBR) model offers a revolutionary new framework for presenting library catalog information. FRBR-inspired OPACs can provide significantly more user-friendly, work-based, clustered displays of search results. These new systems can also leverage FRBR to deliver more efficient ILL services. In addition, the FRBR relationships in edition-rich files like union catalogs can be leveraged for enhanced collection development, coordinated digitization endeavors, cooperative book storage and other collection-analysis-based activities. This session will provide an overview of the FRBR and illustrations of OCLC’s implementation of FRBR-inspired features in several prototype systems—from OCLC Research to the OCLC FirstSearch WorldCat and Open WorldCat services.

J-1 Pioneering Innovation, Technology and Partnerships: French and U.S. Criminal Trial Procedures Compared

Level: Introductory  30 Minutes

Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services

Target Audience: Law firm, court and academic law librarians

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to identify new opportunities to collaborate with other professionals to develop innovative publications and resources.
2) Participants will be able to compare the U.S. and French criminal systems by observing participants in the French criminal system through the innovative use of technology and multimedia.

Entering AALL’s second century, law librarians have the opportunity to be the innovators in creating the research publications of the future. Law librarians can take the lead in bringing dynamic legal resources to our students, faculty, judges and attorneys by partnering with related professionals and other departments within our institutions. An example of such an initiative is the French Trials Project, which is the result of a Cornell University Faculty Innovation in Teaching Grant awarded to Professor Claire Germain. Professor Germain partnered with Cornell Information Technologies, a French judge, a professor and an intellectual property lawyer to develop the electronic product. The French Criminal Trial, a component of the French Trials Project, is an electronic publication that presents French and U.S. criminal courtroom practice in a comparative perspective. To better reveal the cultural framework for French criminal trials, this innovative resource employs a blend of video, pictures, pop-ups and text. The multimedia presentation actually allows researchers to observe the participants (“les acteurs”) in the French criminal system, and through the effective use of technology, to learn about the key differences between the criminal trial process in French and U.S. legal systems.

J-2 AALL’s Authentication Survey: “Staking the Claim” for Authentic and Official State Statutes and Court Opinions on the Web

Level: Intermediate  30 Minutes

Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services

Target Audience: Librarians who use state government information from all types of law libraries and law librarians who manage and use electronic government information

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to describe the current status in authenticating online state legal information.
2) Participants will be able to identify state models that AALL and its chapters can use for education and advocacy purposes.

Effective online access demands genuine and trustworthy legal resources on the Web. Last year, AALL President Claire Germain asked the Access to Electronic Legal Information Committee (AELIC) to conduct a national survey of which states (if any) have adopted Web site versions of statutes and court decisions as “official” and “authentic” text. This survey builds on AALL’s highly successful state-by-state report on permanent public access to electronic government information. AELIC chair Richard Matthews and Government Relations Committee member Judy Meadows will discuss the committee’s approach and the survey findings and recommendations. This session will demonstrate how AALL’s advocacy effort reaches this vital issue—and how you can assist.

J-3 Wizard Ways to Show You Care: No-cost and Low-cost Strategies for Developing an Employee Recognition Program

Level: Advanced  30 Minutes

Competency: Library Management

Target Audience: Library directors and managers

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will identify no-cost and low-cost methods for rewarding employee performance.
2) Participants will design strategies for implementing an employee recognition program for their library.

In tight economic times, law libraries face many challenges. With static or declining revenues, escalating costs and growing demands for services, managers and employees address tough choices when allocating resources. Balancing demands for a share of the budget pie between collection, technology and personnel costs often appears to be an impossible task. How can we reward employees in today's revenue-challenged climate? How can we continue to do more with less without paying a huge hidden cost in employee burnout and attrition? If higher pay won't be a likely reward option at your library, what can be done? This program will identify a variety of no-cost and low-cost methods for rewarding employee performance. Attention will focus on designing personalized strategies for implementing an employee recognition program for your library regardless of the size of the institution and its staff.

Jean M. Holcomb, Coordinator and Speaker, retired Director, King County Law Library

J-4 To Market to Market: Innovations in Promoting Library Services
Level: Intermediate

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will learn how to create basic library marketing tools with materials they already have.
2) Participants will learn how technical services and public services can work together for more effective library promotion.

Libraries often have to "sell" or "market" their services to promote optimum usage. This session's speakers will include reference librarians and an acquisitions librarian from the William M. Rains Library of Loyola Law School Los Angeles, who have used a recurring "brand" to create several marketing tools. These tools include bRAINStorms, a monthly e-newsletter for the law school community; AcidRAINS, a quarterly e-newsletter featuring new electronic resources; and bRAINSessions, training sessions and tools such as quick reference guides that cover specific research areas.

J-5 Counting Electronic Resources: Should We Count Them, and If So, What Do We Count?
Level: Introductory

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will leave the program with a better understanding of technology and how it is can be utilized in their workplaces.
2) Participants will gain knowledge about how to evaluate certain technology gadgets.

Join the librarians and information technology professionals as they take you on a whirlwind tour of almost 30 current gadgets hitting the marketplace, including pricing information. Participants will learn the latest in PDAs, Treos, digital cameras, memory sticks, memory cards, smart phones, combo printers, scanners, tablet PCs, digital keyboards and more.

K-1 Survey Skills: Asking the Right Questions
Level: Introductory 30 Minutes
Competency: Library Management
Target Audience: Librarians who deliver a service and want user feedback
Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to design and phrase questions with clarity.
2) Participants will be able to compare different survey methods, focusing on Web-based tools.

Regardless of whether we work in corporate, private, public or academic libraries, we all strive to deliver quality service. But how do we know if we are meeting our users’ needs? Surveys are effective tools to gather information about what we are doing well and where we can improve. By asking the right questions, our users can provide us with a wealth of information. This program will demonstrate how librarians are using survey tools. Learn from our experiences!

Ronda Fisch, Coordinator, Reed Smith LLP

K-2 Beyond Google: Hot New and Specialty Search Engines
Level: Introductory 30 Minutes
Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services
Target Audience: Librarians who search the Web
Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to identify new tools for searching the Internet.
2) Participants will be able to use these new tools to reach material not found with current, traditional search engines.

Search engines are an integral tool in librarians’ quest to quickly and efficiently find information needed by their patrons and themselves. Unfortunately, many librarians find one or two search engines that work well and always turn to those search engines when they might not be the right tools for the job. This program will identify innovative search engines from the new generation of search tools now available.

Susan M. Boland, Coordinator and Speaker, Northern Illinois University, College of Law Library

K-3 Successful Networking: Nontraditional Liaison Programs
Level: Introductory 30 Minutes
Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services
Target Audience: Academic public service law librarians, heads of public services or reference departments
Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will learn about the benefits of an expanded library liaison program for library managers and clients.
2) Participants will be able to design a liaison program to connect with a broad range of constituents.

Successful networking means going beyond traditional academic law library liaison programs for faculty and law journals. Liaison programs with law school administrators and law student organizations bring library services directly to these clients and raise the library’s profile within the law school. Examples of existing programs will be described and suggestions will be provided for establishing an expanded liaison networking program tailored to your institution’s needs.

K-4 Pioneering Change in Medical Malpractice Research
Level: Intermediate 30 Minutes
Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services
Target Audience: Law school, law firm and public law librarians who are interested in medical malpractice research
Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to identify and find 10 medical malpractice sources on the Internet.
2) Participants will be able to evaluate and compare/contrast the value of 10 different resources in medical malpractice research.

Medical malpractice litigation has been drawing lots of attention in recent years. Doctors are on strike, marching on state capitols demanding tort reform. Patients are scrambling for good doctors who are forced to leave the field due to unaffordable insurance premiums. Insurance companies are crying foul due to losing money for medical malpractice insurance. Lawyers are suing hospitals and doctors for the errors and mistakes they made. Federal and state legislators are trying to pass new bills to regulate the industry and put everything in order. As law librarians, we are... confronted with the challenge of knowing how and where to find medical malpractice materials—whether statutes, regulations, bills, studies or news reports. The speaker, an insurance law specialist, will explore the maze of medical malpractice resources on the Web, showing the audience how to organize, evaluate and locate what is available for its research needs.

K-5 International Legal Process: The Crime of Terrorism

Level: Intermediate
30 Minutes

Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services

Target Audience: International and foreign law librarians; reference librarians

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will better understand the current legal issues about the fighting of international terrorism.
2) Participants will learn about the major legal information about international terrorism.

Historically, international terrorism has posed a major threat to the maintenance of international peace and security, and continues to do so today. Over the past two decades, the international community has sought new ways to address this persistent problem, with some successes but also some failures. New treaties have been adopted to criminalize new forms of pathological behavior, and new law enforcement and intelligence methods have been introduced. In this 30-minute program, Professor Leila Sadat, Washington University School of Law and a leading authority in international criminal law, will discuss the legal issues surrounding the crime of terrorism under international and U.S. law and explore the international and domestic mechanisms that are being used to fight it.

K-6 And You Thought Gadgets Were Only for the Kitchen—Returns!: What’s in the Future?

Level: Introductory
30 Minutes

Competency: Information Technology

Target Audience: All librarians, information/IT professionals, records managers

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will better understand the technology and how it is can be used in their workplaces.
2) Participants will gain knowledge about how to evaluate certain technology gadgets.

See what the future holds for the Jetsons! At this session, participants will join librarians and information technology professionals on a whirlwind tour of future gadgets that will hit the marketplace in the next five years.

L-1 The Virtual Frontier: Developing and Delivering Training Using Web Meeting Software

Level: Intermediate
30 Minutes

Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services

Target Audience: Librarians who offer training to others in any type of library, whether public, court, academic or private law firm

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will identify six basic criteria to use in selecting Web-based training software.
2) Participants will be able to list five elements of a successful Web-based training program.

More and more frequently, librarians are asked to provide training for persons who cannot be present physically. However, many librarians do not yet have experience selecting and using software to deliver this virtual training. This program will review a virtual training program developed for public reference librarians and implemented by librarians from the King County Law Library in spring 2005. Rita Kaiser, Reference-Services Librarian, will discuss criteria for selecting Web training software, provide an overview of existing software programs and their features, and describe the methodology used to identify the elements necessary to design this type of training format.

Rita A. Kaiser, Coordinator and Speaker, King County Law Library
3:00 p.m. (continued)

L-2 Rez Adjudicata: Building Indian Nation Archives

Level: Intermediate 30 Minutes

Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services

Target Audience: Librarians of firms representing tribal governments; county and court librarians near Indian law country; academic librarians at law schools teaching federal Indian law and related subjects

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will know how to compile a detailed legal history for an American Indian tribe.
2) Participants will be prepared to apply a tribal legal history research template to different levels of research.

Nancy Carol Carter, the recipient of an AALL/LexisNexis® Research Grant, will present the product of her work: “A Research Template for Building Indian Nation Archives.” Attendees will be shown how to access the template and given guidance on how to apply it to different research situations, from a first-level legal history to a complete archival compilation for an Indian tribe.

Nancy Carol Carter, Coordinator and Speaker, University of San Diego, School of Law/Legal Research Center

L-3 Do My Statistics Say What I Want Them to Say?

Level: Intermediate 30 Minutes

Competency: Library Management

Target Audience: Library managers who need to compile statistics

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to identify new ways to utilize statistics.
2) Participants will be able to demonstrate the value of statistics that are compiled in the course of daily library operations.

Most librarians in management positions must prepare statistics for their library partners, managing partners, CEOs or deans. This program will demonstrate how two law firm librarians use the statistics they compile to advocate for change in their libraries.

L-4 Trading Spaces: International Law Library Exchanges and Visits

Level: Introductory 30 Minutes

Competency: Core Competencies for Law Librarianship

Target Audience: Law librarians who are interested in working abroad or hosting a foreign law librarian through a personnel exchange or visit

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to assess the potential benefits and challenges of participating in an international library visit or exchange.
2) Participants will be able to identify opportunities to work abroad or to host a visiting librarian.

The world of legal information has become increasingly international, and law librarians can benefit from an inside view of law librarianship as it is practiced across the “global village.” Moderator David McFadden will interview Cindy May about her experiences as a visitor and host in an international law library exchange between the University of Wisconsin and University of Sheffield, England, law libraries. The discussion will focus on the professional benefits of a personnel exchange for both participating librarians and host institutions. The presenters will also share essential how-to advice on establishing and conducting a successful exchange. A survey of U.S. and foreign libraries with potential exchange opportunities will be available for program participants.

L-5 Where the Jobs Are: Locating Law Librarian Job Openings Made Easy

Level: Introductory

Competency: Core Competencies for Law Librarianship

Target Audience: Newer law librarians and any law librarian seeking to change employment

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to identify nontraditional resources for locating available law librarian jobs.
2) Participants will be able to more easily track and monitor new law library job postings on the Internet using Web tools.

Searching for available law library positions can seem like an onerous task. However, there are a variety of resources outside of AALL with which many job searchers are not familiar. Moreover, various technologies are available that can automate the job search process and assist the searcher with tedious Internet searches. Participants will learn how using alternative resources and technologies for locating jobs can place them in control of the job search process, instead of it controlling them.

L-6 Beyond Legal Research on the Teaching Frontier: Try Something New

Level: Introductory

Competency: Teaching

Target Audience: Librarians who want to teach substantive law classes

Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will discover how to prepare to teach a substantive law class.
2) Participants will be able to develop strategies on how to navigate the politics to get approval for their class.

Whether solo, in groups or with "regular" faculty, many librarians teach research-oriented classes. But what about their teaching a substantive law course, one that traditionally falls to regular faculty? This session will show participants how to start the process, from gathering materials to putting together a syllabus to creating assignments. Additionally, attendees will hear suggestions and strategies on the political aspect of such ventures, such as getting the class approved by the faculty.

W-1: Oh, What a Tangled Web: Advancing Web Searching and Teaching Skills
Friday, July 7 • 9:00 a.m. – 5:00 p.m. (8:30 check-in/breakfast)
Level: Intermediate Full day
Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services
Target Audience: Reference and research librarians, teachers of Web searching
Learning Outcomes:
1) Audience members will progress beyond keyword searching and learn more advanced search strategies, such as field searching by title and URL, top level domain limiting, as well as special features such as link checking, image searching and verifying domain registration.
2) Audience members will be better prepared and energized to teach advanced skills to their students, attorneys, administrators and staff.
Librarians know better than most how difficult it is to keep abreast of technological changes on the World Wide Web. Web content as well as search strategies can change from one minute to the next. Paul Barron will share his up-to-the minute Web-searching expertise, provide hands-on exercises, and demonstrate ways that librarians can hone their search skills and teach those advanced skills to others. Mr. Barron, who teaches Web searching to graduate students and has presented more than 100 workshops and programs on Web searching nationwide, is Library Manager at the University of Mary Washington's College of Graduate and Professional Studies. In this hands-on workshop, Mr. Barron will lead librarians beyond keyword searching and demonstrate advanced search strategies such as field searching by title and URL and top level domain limiting, as well as link checking, image searching and verifying domain registration. Librarians and Web instructors will return to their institutions better equipped to perform and share their advanced skills with attorneys, administrators, faculty, students and staff alike.

W-3: Knowledge Management in Law Firms: Evaluating, Selecting and Living with Firm-wide Information Management Solutions
Saturday, July 8 • 9:00 a.m. – 5:00 p.m. (8:30 check-in/breakfast)
Level: Advanced Full day
Competency: Information Technology
Target Audience: Law firm library directors or managers
Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will learn how to identify, select and evaluate vendors, and work with other firm leaders to achieve a successful implementation of a knowledge management project.
2) Participants will learn from the experiences of their peers how their chosen solution is working and what lies ahead for future development.
This workshop will give guidance to librarians whose firms have agreed to pursue a firm-wide information management strategy, popularly known as “knowledge management.” The legal marketplace currently has several products developed specifically to address the needs of practicing attorneys for information stored in-house, be it client work in progress, client development or administrative. The morning portion of the program will be devoted to the product selection process and will feature needs assessment, product and vendor identification, what prospective vendors need to know from prospective purchasers, the proof-of-concept and the request for proposal. The afternoon session will consist of reports from librarians who have solutions up and running, a look at new directions for knowledge management as it applies to a firm’s marketing and competitive intelligence perspectives, and a panel of four major vendors who will present their products’ features.

W-4: Building Indexes and Taxonomies for Legal Materials
Saturday, July 8 • 8:30 a.m. – 5:00 p.m. (8:00 check-in/breakfast)
Level: Introductory Full day
Competency: Reference, Research and Patron Services
Target Audience: Law librarians who are asked to index in-house materials, who use indexes and who want to do indexing as a second job or career
Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to analyze legal information for key terms and use these terms to construct indexes, thesauri and taxonomies. They will learn about software that will enable them to do this work more cost effectively.
2) Participants will be able to create specialized legal indexes to firm files of memoranda and other proprietary documents. They will be able to create a taxonomy for their organization’s intranet.

Learn basic techniques of legal indexing and explore how the Web affects indexes and the indexing process. Workshop speakers will focus on how to select terms, create an index structure, add cross-references, build tables of cases and construct a taxonomy for the Web. Attendees will be able to create specialized indexes to in-house memoranda and other proprietary law firm and library documents. Hands-on exercises as well as lecture will introduce students to the principles of quality legal indexing. This workshop is a first-time collaboration with the American Society of Indexers (ASI).

W-5: SCCTP (Serials Cataloging Cooperative Training Program) Electronic Serials Cataloging Workshop
Saturday, July 8 • 8:30 a.m. – 5:00 p.m. (8:00 check-in/breakfast)
Level: Intermediate Full day
Competency: Collection Care and Management
Target Audience: Cataloging librarians, technical services librarians, librarians working with online serials
Learning Outcomes:
1) Participants will be able to catalog online serials and handle more challenging cases, such as aggregations and packages.
2) Participants will be able to explain specific policies and practices set forth in the CONSER Cataloging Manual and CONSER Editing Guide.

This workshop will focus on cataloging electronic serials access via the Web. Its design is based on the 2002 AACR2 revisions that incorporate key amendments of chapter 9, “Electronic resources,” and chapter 12, “Continuing resources,” relating to electronic serials. Participants will have had hands-on training for specific policies and practices delineated in the CONSER Cataloging Manual and CONSER Editing Guide. Speakers will address six sessions: definition of an electronic serial, cataloging an online serial, aggregations and packages, online versions, changes that affect cataloging and case studies. Exercises will be performed at the end of each session; audience discussion will be followed by lectures.

Oxford University Press is fast emerging as a leading publisher of specialist texts for the legal practitioner. Combining a long-standing tradition of commitment to excellence with an ambitious range of new works across the full range of international legal practice, OUP is establishing a worldwide reputation at the first-choice legal publisher for authors and readers alike.

In October 2005, Oxford University Press acquired U.S.-based Oceana Publications, a leading publisher of international legal materials. Oceana brings to OUP an international recognized portfolio of looseleaf services on international law and transactional commercial law, monographs by recognized experts across a wide range of topics in international law and online databases on constitutional law and treaties.

The Journal of Intellectual Property Law and Practice launched in January, to bring the practitioner in-depth coverage of IP topics as well as practice-related matters including litigation, enforcement, and drafting transactions. View the latest issue online at http://jiplp.oxfordjournals.org

And of course, Oxford’s core legal scholarship continues to win awards, including several ASIL awards in 2006 for works by Dan Saroooshi, Stefan Trechsel, and Deborah Z. Cass; the Coif award for John H. Langbein, and many more.

We at the Law Division of Oxford University Press are very excited about the changes ahead and look forward to talking with you about our exciting new offerings in international law titles throughout the year.

CONALL / Mentoring Program
(Conference of Newer Academic Law Librarians)
Tuesday, July 11 • 5:00 p.m. – 6:15 p.m.
Washington University School of Law
(The bus leaves at 4:00 p.m. from the Renaissance Grand Hotel at the St. Charles Street entrance.)
The Academic Law Libraries Special Interest Section (ALL-SIS) is once again pleased to present the Conference of Newer Academic Law Librarians (CONALL) to help introduce newer academic law librarians to the world of law school librarianship. The event is conveniently scheduled right before the ALL-SIS Reception and Awards Ceremony, allowing newer members a chance to become acquainted before attending the large gathering. Both events will be held at the Washington University School of Law.
Always an effective “ice-breaker,” CONALL continues to provide the newest members of ALL-SIS and their mentors a chance to begin the exciting process of forming new professional relationships. Registration is not required for this event, but attendance is limited to newer academic law librarians and their mentors. Attendees should meet at the Renaissance Grand Hotel, St. Charles Street entrance at 3:45 p.m. The bus for CONALL participants will leave at 4:00 p.m.

Diversity Symposium: Pioneering Minority Law Librarians: Echoes of the Past, Directions for the Future
Renaissance Grand, Majestic (D)
Saturday, July 8 • 2:00 p.m. – 5:00 p.m.
(Reception immediately following in Landmark 5)
Robert H. Hu, Chair, Committee on Diversity
The 2006 AALL symposium on diversity celebrates pioneers, either in person or in spirit, in law librarianship. Through presentations and discussions by select prominent minority law librarians the symposium will honor the successes and contributions made by minority leaders in law librarianship, while exploring the issues and challenges of increasing and maintaining diversity in the profession. Leaders and pioneers will speak on the following topics: Serving as President of the AALL: an African-American Female’s Experience (Carol Nicholson); Leadership Development for Minority Law Librarians: an African–American Male’s Experience (Cornell Winston); How Did I Become Director of an Academic Law Library: a Chinese Immigrant’s Story (Frank Liu); Diversity in Law Librarianship: Issues and Challenges from an Asian-Pacific American Male’s Experience (Vicente Garces); and Diversity in Law Librarianship: Issues and Challenges from a Latino/Native American Female’s Experience (Victoria Adele Santana).

Legislative Advocacy Leadership Training
Renaissance Grand, Majestic B
Saturday, July 8 • 8:30 a.m. – 12:00 p.m.
This practical half-day workshop, available at no cost to AALL members, has become an annual tradition thanks to the support of our Executive Board. All politics is local, and this is a great opportunity to learn more about AALL’s legislative agenda and how you can help us promote our positions on crucial policy and legislative matters. It’s also a great opportunity to network with other active law librarians, learn some effective advocacy techniques and tips, and make a real impact on the future of our profession.

This year’s half-day workshop will focus especially on three areas of concern to our community: public law library funding issues, changes to the Federal Depository Library Program and “Orphan Works” legislation. Participants will be able to participate in a breakout session on one of these topics.

Participants will learn important new skills to become effective communicators when dealing with federal, state and local policy makers. No specific background knowledge or experience is required, just a keen desire to join our grassroots advocacy program. We’ll give you the practical tips and tools you’ll need to communicate with your elected representatives on a variety of important policy issues — you’ll learn how to develop your message and deliver it most effectively, whether by e-mail, letter or in person. Most of all, you’ll gain confidence that you, too, can be part of AALL’s advocacy network!

Legislative Advocacy Leadership Training for Newer Law Librarians (by invitation)
Renaissance Grand, Majestic B
Saturday, July 8 • 2:30 p.m. – 4:30 p.m.
Thanks to the support of our Executive Board, for the first time ever, AALL’s Government Relations Committee (GRC) and Washington Office are offering a special afternoon workshop for newer AALL members who are interested in advocacy and becoming more active within the Association and their chapters. This is a great opportunity for our newer members to learn about AALL’s policy agenda, hear about our past successes and current challenges, and learn how to help us promote our positions in crucial policy and legislative matters.

This session will focus especially on three areas of concern to our community: public law library funding issues, changes to the Federal Depository Library Program and “Orphan Works” legislation. Participants will be able to participate in a breakout session on one of these issues.

This is also a great opportunity to network with other newer law librarians, learn (or enhance) effective advocacy techniques and tips, make a real impact on the future of our profession, and even learn some insider tips on how to become more involved in your chapter and AALL activities and committees. Join us to learn about the issues, about networking, advocacy and balancing your job as a law librarian with your role as an advocate for your profession on crucial information policy issues.

President’s Program: A View from France
America’s Center, Room 274
Sunday, July 9 • 11:45 a.m. – 1:15 p.m.
In this intellectually stimulating program, French judge Roger Errera of the Conseil d’Etat, and French law firm librarians Benedicte Baudot of Shearman & Sterling, Jean Gasnault of Gide Loyrette Nouel, and Anny Maximin of the Cujas Library, the largest law library in France, will discuss trends and ideas that are shaping the French legal information landscape. Particular focus will be on changes in the marketplace and the roles of producers and consumers of legal information, the dissemination of legal information in France, and the implementation of European Union directives and recommendations (e.g., projects to make European Union law better known in Europe).

Some topics of note will be the privacy concerns leading to the removal of parties’ names from decisions available online and the generalization of selling publications to aggregators, rather than on an individual basis. The speakers will also examine whether the exchange of legal information in the future may be largely outside of the current publishing market, given the development of new types of legal databases or cooperative encyclopedias, and other new forms of publications by authors who do not necessarily want to publish in the trade publishing houses. Additionally, Ms. Baudot, a knowledge manager at Shearman & Sterling, will address the application of knowledge management used by U.S. law firms in French law firms.

“With BNA’s electronic delivery, information is never lost in the mail. It’s the first publication delivered to our attorneys in the morning and has no competition in its field as far as timeliness and depth of coverage.

“BNA recognizes the information needs of busy practices and has responded with concise and informative publications that aren’t limited to simple articles. The links that are provided, as well as the search engine for each publication, allow me to find a needle in a haystack in a matter of seconds. This is the direction 21st century publishing is going, and BNA is leading the way.”

“BNA, it’s the source we rely on.”
