Proposed change to Standard Citation Forms

Barbara Tillett (LC CPSO), Deborah J. Leslie (BSC chair), and Elizabeth Robinson (BSC LC liaison/SCF maintenance editor) met on January 9, 2006 to discuss a possible change to the citation form of entries in Standard citations forms for rare book cataloging. As noted in the 1982 introduction to the reference work, citations are used in bibliographic records to help verify, identify, and describe items held in rare book and special collections.

The current forms are created based on the working principles of Standard citation forms (see part IV, "Construction of the citation form"). The principles allow for forms that are entered under personal and corporate names with short titles, surname-only entries for well-known sources, short titles only, acronyms, etc.

Since RDA will very likely move away from abbreviations to reduce the cryptic nature of information in catalog records—abbreviations that are often not understood by library patrons or even staff—we would like to anticipate that move and make Standard citation forms plainly understandable. Underlying the most problematic and cryptic of these citations is the concept of "a work [having] become widely known" in a certain form; what is widely known to one community may not be to another. This is true even within the larger rare materials cataloging community, not to mention our various constituencies.

Tillett, Leslie, and Robinson originally considered the idea to adopt Chicago manual of style citation forms, but options in it also prove problematic. The following draft approach is being offered for consideration and comments:

- New entries to SCF should all follow this general form (other SCF additions for editions and dates could still apply):

Corporate name or surname with initial(s). Title proper unabbreviated.

Or

Title proper unabbreviated.

The notion is to follow the AACR2 main entry form as much as possible. Lengthy titles proper may be shortened to significant words that might aid in identification and finding the source in an online catalog.

For example:

Actual data (SCF entry no. 2): Abbey, J. R. Scenery of Great Britain and Ireland in aquatint and lithography, 1770-1860, from the library of J. R. Abbey: a bibliographical catalogue.

Say this is the 1991 reprint. There is also a 1952 edition preceding the 1972 reprint, both of which precede the 1991 reprint.

Would be cited as:

Abbey, J. R. Scenery of Great Britain and Ireland (1991 reprint)

- The current list has some citation forms with surname only. We propose to scrutinize each of these surname-only entries with the intention of changing them to match the new form above. The objective is to make them more understandable (and findable) internationally by other than those with access to Standard citation forms. An example is “Greg,” which is highly ambiguous and cannot be searched by itself in an online catalog to find the source referred to.
- Other entries in the current list will remain as-is with any changes reviewed on a case-by-case basis. The objective in any change would be to make the citation understandable on its own or unambiguously findable in an online catalog. Decisions to change existing citation entries will take into account the current use of these citation forms on cataloging records, and any potential difficulties or conflicts that might be created. We suggest that the old and new forms can co-exist in the catalog. Libraries wishing to make the older forms more intelligible to users would be free to update them and submit the updated forms to SCF.
- Parenthetical qualifiers for editions, supplements, reprints, and multiple versions would remain the same.
- Forms for articles in journals and other larger works would also follow the new form noted in the first bullet, for both the article and the larger work.

Postscript: Regardless of any change to the citation forms in SCF, it would be desirable to construct integrated library systems’ displays that can generate the full citation from the current shortened forms as input in MARC field 510. We would encourage the rare books community to petition their vendors for such capability, if they agree with this proposal.

Committee

SCF in single name form with proposed conversion (i.e. what Robinson, Leslie, and Tillett came up with in 2006)

(NB: Includes those citations where the name of a person or corporate body forms the citation form. May be the main entry or may be an element in the full title of the work.)

Proposal from the AALL Rare Materials Descriptive Cataloging Task Group

Date: June 6, 2008

To: RBMS Bibliographic Standards Committee

From: American Association of Law Libraries - Technical Services Special Interest Section - Cataloging and Classification Standing Committee - Rare Materials Descriptive
Cataloging Task Group

The Task Group will assist the Bibliographic Standards Committee (BSC) of ALA's Rare Books and Manuscripts Section in the compilation of two handbooks of cataloging examples to accompany Descriptive Cataloging of Rare Materials (Books) (2007) and Descriptive Cataloging of Rare Materials (Serials) (forthcoming). These compilations of examples are still in the planning stages but will likely be similar in format to Examples to Accompany Descriptive Cataloging of Rare Books (1999). Specific tasks of the Task Group will be determined in consultation with the BSC and will likely include:

- Identifying special characteristics, other than subject matter, that are common among rare legal books and serials and perhaps less common among rare materials in general
- Finding examples of specific books and serials with these special legal characteristics to illustrate descriptive cataloging rules in DCRM(B) and DCRM(S)
- Cataloging these examples according to DCRM(B) or DCRM(S) rules
- Providing facsimile copies of relevant pages from these books and serials (usually the title page and sometimes additional sources of information) to the BSC
- Providing copies of the catalog records to the BSC

The Task Group will make a first round of submissions to BSC in December 2008 for discussion at ALA's midwinter meeting and a second round of submissions in June 2009 for discussion at ALA's annual meeting.
